Say: X-rays are special pictures of the inside of the body. The doctor will decide when you need an X-ray and what body part should be X-rayed. An X-ray machine, not a camera, is used to take these pictures. When the photo comes out, you will not like those from your photo album, but doctors have learned to look at these pictures. Doctors can see broken bones, lung infections and more. Superman may have X-ray vision, but your doctor has an X-ray machine! Recently, Comstock, 46, was put on the market at General Electric; we should thank her for ecomagination. She moved to GE's NBC Universal unit 18 months ago, and has just received a new gig that combines advertising sales and digital media across the TELEVISION network, cable channels and film studio. Want to stream Heroes, read the interactive novel, then bid online for artwork from the show? Thank Comstock for all this. The economics of television were simple. Do you understand how to make money today when I can watch 30 Rock at almost any time? We understand it much better than before. Digital media allows us to open new windows without the cannibalization you might expect. So, yes, we can offer 30 Rock in preview, then on the air, then streaming, then iTunes, then mobile, and then syndication. We did the modeling. Looks like we're going to make more money. How do advertisers align with this new world? Some know what they want, some less. But now every marketing works digitally, not because it's fashionable, but because it has to. Purchasing groups have created units called vision, sound and movement [to work in the media]. They expect us to join the target users: What do we know about them and how to reach them? How do viewing habits change? At NBC.com we've had 60 million streams [from TV shows]. Many of these are repetitive spectators. Others are in an hour-long shift. They are also changed to iTunes or over the phone. Does that work for you, too? If consumers control things, they'll know how they want to watch. We have to find the right solution. What's the next new thing? More personal expression [from viewers], the desire to participate in storytelling. Like SMS text to vote on a reality show, or watch Heroes and dial a phone number. That's so simple, but not for me. We'll come back one day and say: We were so cute back then! All of this implies a huge cultural change. How's nbc coping? This space is indifferent and chaotic, and we constantly try to get out of our way. With success, you become a little more confident. But we need to be more focused and more disciplined. Are you still, as you once said of yourself, daringly impatient? To. I'm afraid, too. I scan the landscape all the time. is the next new thing? Who's going to get there first? This business is like this. You have to choose and feel good. The second guesses will be done with more than an ulcer. Xanthorrhiza is a word for the Civil War, which began with the letter x. Patented during the war, Xanthorrhiza is the pharmaceutical name for a natural drug created from the root of Xanthorrhiza apiifolia, also known as yellow root due to its distinctive coloration. Applied in powdered or liquid form with alcohol to mask its bitter taste, the tonitch is used to treat wounds, infections and injuries. Of the approximately 620,000 soldiers who lost their lives during the Civil War, approximately two-thirds died as a result of disease rather than enemy fire. The need to fight disease and treat large numbers of wounded soldiers during the Civil War sparked improvements in American health care and ultimately led to the modern era of medicine that began in the 20th century. As the needs of the sick and wounded stimulated technological advances in healthcare, makeshift hospitals were replaced by pavilion and field hospitals. These updated, more effective hospital systems facilitated the keeping of medical records and reports that helped disseminate knowledge and promote useful treatments for bad practices. By the end of the war, thanks to clean, well-ventilated hospitals and improved treatment practices, the mortality rate for hospitalized patients was only 8%. Skip navigation! Skip navigation!
