Seattle to portland bus

Seattle is home to such famous national super-stores as Nordstrom, Eddie Bauer, and REI (Recreational Equipment Inc.), as well as Amazon.com. So it should come as no surprise that there is great shopping here. The city's Westlake Center area (Fourth Ave and Pine St.), only a few blocks from Pike Place Market, is the center of the urban shopping experience. But on the east side of Lake Washington, upscale suburban Bellevue has plenty of other shopping areas, including Bellevue and Lincoln Square (700 Bellevue Way NE). Nor can shoppers overlook Seattle's unique neighborhood shopping opportunities. Districts like Capitol Hill, Ballard, Fremont, Wallingford, and West Seattle have many independently owned stores and stores featuring a visitor's time and money worth it. Insider's Guide: Seattle Insider's Guide to Shopping in The Best: Shopping in Seattle The Best City Shopping District (1st Ave. and Madison St.) is the heart of Seattle's vibrant shopping scene with several national department stores, trendy boutiques, jewelers, and more. High-end retail stores include downtown Macy's (300 Pine St.) and NikeTown (1500 Sixth Ave.). The center is the flagship store for the nationally acclaimed Nordstrom (500 Pine St.), but hunt your bargain shelves remaining a few blocks away at Nordstrom Rack (1601 Second Ave. Rainier Square (1333 5th Ave) offers luxury shopping with such upscale options as Louis Vuitton, Escada, and Brooks Brothers. Most of these high-end stores face out on the street, but make sure to venture inside the square for other special finds. The small food court offers fast food, French food, and desserts. When you need a quiet moment, take the elevator to the top floor and check out The Terrace Garden Park. Bellevue Square (575 Bellevue Square) is a large

posh shopping mall eight miles east of Seattle that squeezed between 200 retailers, including upscale stores like Bally and Koch, timeless favorites like Eddie Bauer and Inter without becoming so elite you're doomed to wander and window shop. Pike Place Market (85 Pike St.) can be heavy with its plethora of shops and a maze of pulses. Keep an eye for jack fish spots (1514 Pike Pl), which will ship fresh or smoked salmon home for you; Marketspeak (85A Pike St.), an excellent tea and spice shop; El Mercado Latino (1914 Pike Pl in Post Alley), which imports Latin American and Caribbean; And Karen's Basket Studio (1501 Pike Pl), is the perfect place to find hand-crafted baskets. For true novelty shopping, even if it's just browsing, don't miss Ye Olde Curiosity Shop (Pier 54) on the waterfront. Not only will you find all manner of Native American artifacts, imported Russian artifacts, and kitsch souvenirs; You'll also get a chance to say hello to Sylvia, Sylvester and Gloria -- Mami standing among the goods. If you're a bookworm, you don't want to miss Elliot Bay Book Company (101 S. Main St.) in Pioneer Square. And if you're looking for travel titles in particular, there's the old local favorite Wide World Books (4411 Wallingford Ave N) to visit. Alderwood Mall (3000 184th St., Lynwood) is the largest shopping center in North Seattle featuring upscale retail in most of its 120-over stores, including Bon Marche. University Village Shopping (45th St. near the University of Washington campus) features a mix of national chain stores and homegrown retailers and eateries. You'll find Abercrombie and Fitch and pottery barn near local locations like Mom Restaurant. Seattle is synonymous with music — and not just grunge music. Jackson proved as 5, sometimes it's the younger brother who's way cooler and way weirder. In honor of City Rivalry Week, we've rolled up our sleeves, crank up our Everclear record (actually Turn down that crap), and and Below is why PDX trumps Seattle's ABCs, thus turning the emerald city green with envy. Flickr user JennyPDXYour football fans make Manchester look like AYSO, Seattle. The Timbers are dominating MLS, and their sounders are sleeping deep. Our fans are known as the best in the league; We use chainsaws to cut hunks from a log when we score. What do you do? Put the muddled on a playlist and hope for the best? When it comes to sports, where are the supersonics? Oh yes, they went to Oklahoma City. Way to land that sh. Of course, you can move on and say that the blazers are weak... But then again, we're pretty sure the Blazers could beat the Mariners in a pick-up game of either game. Rip represent the city! Flickr user Stokes RXWe has a horizon... And we can see it. Look at that beautiful skyline, Seattle.. | Puget is sound! There's... An affin' condo. Here, we've got a height cap on buildings so we can gaze at Mount Hood and West Hills. But hey, at least you can watch your neighbor's TV a couple down the floor. Speaking of ... Freasy vs. Portlandia. Suck it, Eddie the dog. Our strip clubs are waaaay better (and naked-er). Have fun in your juice bars. We'll be drinking wild turkey at one of our bajillion all nude strip clubs where there's rarely a cover and there are $5 steak and $2 beer. Flickr user Ongjiri-Kunve city is the bike... And safely. Not only do we have more bike lanes than you, we've also got to bomb down to the lower Bullitt-style hills or — even worse — up. So, about grunge... Yes. Most of your grunge groups are about as faded as the Mother Love Bone T-shirts you wear under your old blazer. Get over it, then head down here for a real indie rock show; It's the genre that's spawned in the 10yrs since the latest album you bought. But we hear Bumpershoot's got a Layne Staley hologram in the works, so there's that. Stumptown Coffee Starbucks. Yes. We have Stumptown, which, while not the favourite of his 11yr old sister, is significantly better at its no-burn taste. Oh, and also Ristretto rosters, hearts, pliers... Oh, pic! Did Howard Schultz just buy a house in Selwood? We can park For free in most places. For $1.60 an hour in super busy places. No wonder you all have no income tax.. | Most of the extra scrittily goes straight into the meter. We've survived better. Drive an hour in any direction from PDX, and you'll find yourself in a gorge, in the rainforest, on the beach, in the desert, or on the mountain. Drive an hour from Seattle and you're in.. | (O) Tacoma, or (U!!!!) Canada. Canada.
