These should fit any piano or keyboard with standard size keys. Be sure to align them with the black keys (in groups of two and three) and make sure that the third overlay starts with the Middle C. On a piano, The Middle C is roughly in the middle – obviously, I suppose! On a 5-octave (61-key) electronic keyboard, the Middle C is further to the left of the center and the first tab will align with the lowest keyboard key. Simply download and print these files: overlay piano keys – overlay the piano key from the octaves - octaves external and then trim the guides to the size. What do you think? Is that going to be useful to you? Can you suggest some improvement? Please comment below so I can continue updating and improving Resources. Or if you prefer, you can contact me directly. If you're still learning the names of the notes on your piano, here's a printable guide I've made for you. Thank you so much to my good friend Sandie Barker who gave me the idea. The names of the notes are clear and you also have the treble treble and staple notes from below to help you: piano key overlays Just download the file here, print on paper or card and trim the two sections as shown. They will fit right behind the keys of most full-size pianos and keyboards. Place them in the center of the piano and make sure to correctly align the pattern of the black keys, as shown in the image. I think these are a much better alternative to putting stickers on the keys of your beloved instrument. I strongly recommend that you do not put stickers on the keys of your piano or keyboard, even if the instructions say easy to remove or will not leave marks. I've seen the keys ruined by them! These overlays can be removed and overridden whenever you need them. A word of advice – use these key guides only for as long as you need them. Know your notes and remove them when you can! Many people do not believe in piano labels or do not think that these piano stickers would be useful.
