During his escape, one of the robbers dropped a sensitive document: a map of Mor, covered in strange signs. Wilco thinks it's some kind of code that the group uses to communicate. It is understandable that is very important for the incapulate, he declared that Symptoms do not mean anything, but serve to engage with the original message on paper. It's probably written in some kind of hidden dark, barkeep. Go back to this amazing interpretation of the Ravenant. The vilk is affected by a deep cut of the cloud, and to report that he has also learned something about the map. The paper is of no interest, but the signs are the deed in magic blackness. After asking your expert's opinion and learning that magic is used for black ness, I try to turn on the arcane star. However, he does everything that is strangely on the face of the map. Wilco realizes that this is a particularly map-point that guides criminals to their targets. At his feet, the chenob suggests you have created three fake maps to put the suspects in the open. Willk does not agree. Asks that you ring three bottles of high quality magic-mita-black for fake. Will accepts the magic-memory blackness to the search for St. Coinach, where they are easily visible among researchers. Join it there, because you never know when a rasania will come into hand. You find a young man who is coming from the east with a suspect already in the area. However, on closer inspection, Wilco realizes that his silence is not a disorder but a compulsion. He's in some angry or other game, and the nearest Eastern youth is a victim and a criminal so loud. As the chenab allows to leave, he suddenly sees a strange person in his shadow. Willk calls him, but the partner just wanders away. Confusion, Says Willas, is toying with dangerous powers to criminals, and asks if you need help again when the need arises. The will tells you something of two things. First, you have taken possession of the Eastern youth with no signs of his recovery, and no one has any idea who he is. Second, one of the recently stolen Ellagan specimens has turned Into The House of Rowana in The Supland. The leinhas have gone ahead to investigate and there are also the bids you are involved in. Rovana is ready to help your investigation for the high quality Grade 1 intelligence solvent price. There are three bottles to open the tongue of the snout. Happy with your exchange, Rovana hands gives you an al-Lagan cruiser, and its seller explains it. He thinks it is a local notorious thief, but it cannot help whether such a thief will know about the chemical. Before he goes on, a suspicious man appears to question in the cruiser. After this address, after an encouraging call you mean to back it up, and asks that you have the same relay on the same. Tell you guickly where the pick has gone. However, he directly received the word from him that the suspect had snotthim him. It's better to decide that this strange partner wanted to buy him instead of going out of the cruiser. Make your way to the Al-Kims' Guild ul'dah, and ask The Goldman Seurian because a Rasania would like an Allagan cruiser. The usual unsavory ness of the Goldmaster Seurian once he sees what you have brought. I've a legend that tells you Allag could raise men from nothing, and the main component of this process was the crystal that was in the heart of the cruiser. Although he thinks his self-help, he understands why some al-Kimswill sloshing this power. Come back to him, and tell him what you've discovered. You both come back to find and in it. The reason, you soon learned, is that they've got your suspects' lair . . . used to perform horrible experiments on people living in a black cave. Thanks to your explanation of the cruiser, Wilco creates a criminal master mind profile, a mad al-Semia designed to kill in the power of life to create. Worried, you ask if you give up your help, not more innocent towssopholks. 'Next will be available by The Russian Quest Level 58. With the spandars in the house of the resizors Rovana. A lone Lafellan colleague was driving a car, and there were two barrels in the back which the suspect claims is not known in advance. There were two men in them, one alive and one dead. Alive is a guiet, hardly in the same state near the Eastern youth you already found. The talks of a sister working in The Talfiather. Now there was a twin, and find out that the body was a twin. The sister of the dead man informed you that the child was not a single twin nor a friend of another by the kodle that his brother all reported. If you are a child, you can get a refund. In his absence, Willak has found a witness who testifies that he saw the Lalafelan suspect, the bodies and all the s - from the back of the car. But the offender himself denies it, saying that he cannot possibly perform such power-ups. Neither nor should they believe in the sin, nor should they ask him, You are the high quality of power, the Dragonian Okhd. Do it, it can lift huge weights if the tests are helped by the chemical. To complete this search, you must have learned advanced recipes Inside Master Al-Cameia III. The kitchen is open and the barrels below the income are easily accessible. With his alibi disproved, the suspect tells you everything about how an aging rasania got her services to move the body, and how the twins actually have a clone, a live, breathing copy. This master mind is stealing people from their beds to follow this process, apparently created as the ancient Allag. The offender also tells you that this person has no problem with murder, and is born to protect. With these new facts in your feet, Willak has given a kingdom that should soon take over the master mind, or there will be more bloodshed. The evidence against him that is against him that is against him that is against him that he is an alchemist. to The Severian, and ask him for evidence that the wad is your master offender. Seurian provides you two important pieces of information. First, only al-Kimsts can become a copy of the best. Second, each alchemist aether has a unique color for him, in which magic is transferred to any gramovirus produced by blackness. While usually hidden from the naked eye, The GoldmanSteer has invented a powder to provide the spectrolym overlooking it. With this, you can This was the highest and highest gold copy and that he is a master al-Kamaiya. Return to it now with good news. You can explain your purpose by putting the spectrum in the hands of a grateful man. Now, your friend instills you, whatever is left to prove that the concoction of The Severian is the sound. Use a craft now in the trial of the waaad. To complete this search, you have learned advanced recipes present within Master Alchemist III. You see their evidence from every piece of evidence you have obtained as a penstocking craftsman. At the same time, he also effectively demonstrates that The Wadd is indeed a master alchemist, and therefore his inaction. However, whenever charged, the waaad is surprisingly silent. You look across the floor, and there are neareastern youth whose eyes suddenly come back to you. The clone makes a bolt for the door, and the pick is to realize that the waaad must move its spirit into an already empty vessel. Although he is slow on the uptake, he still blamed the new ones and reduced them. Talk to him now to wrap up this matter for once and for all.
