PDF document - PDF file / word document - Word file / Excel document - Excel file / PowerPoint document - PowerPoint File Texas Forms DFPS Forms Do military personnel have to pay any fees for vacation or fiancée forms? NOOOOOO. You're talking to a military romantic crook. I received an email from the US military that answers directly to your question which is pasted below please keep reading. I think you are the victim of a romantic military scam when the person you are talking to is a foreign citizen pretending to be an American soldier who claims to be stationed abroad on a peacekeeping mission. This is the key to a scam they always claim to be on a peacekeeping mission. Part of their scam is to say that they have no access to their money that their job is very serious. If Her boyfriend's girlfriend/husband/wife in the future asks you to do the following or has shown this behavior, it is most likely a scam; go to a private messaging site immediately after meeting you on Facebook, Snapchat, Instagram or some dating or social media site. Often delete the site that met her on the right after they asked you to go to the messaging site more privateProfeses love you very quickly and seem to quote poems and lyrics songs along with the use of their own kind of broken language, as they declare their love and dedication quickly. They have also shown interest in your health and love for your family. The marriage promises once the state gets a leave of absence that they have asked you to pay for. They're asking for money (wire transfers), Amazon, iTune, Verizon, gift cards etc, for medicine, religious practices, homecoming leaves, internet access, complete functional tasks, helping a sick friend, getting him out of trouble, or anything that looks fishy. The army does not provide all the soldier's needs including medical food care and transportation for leave. Trust me, I've lived it, maybe you're being deceived. I'm just trying to show you examples of being probably conned. Below is the email response I received after I sent a query to the US government when I found out I was deceived. I received this wonderful reply again with a lot of useful links on how to find your scammer's report. And how to learn more about Scams.Right Romance now you can also copy the photo provided by you and do a Google Image search and will hope to see pictures of the real person he is impersonating. This doesn't always work and takes some digging. If you find the real person you can send them a message and alert them that their image is being used for fraud. Good luck to you and I'm sorry this may happen to you. Please continue reading the government response I received below it's very helpful. You've contacted an email being monitored by the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation S.A. Unfortunately, this is a common concern. We assure you that there is no reason to send money to anyone claiming to be an online soldier. If you've only talked to this person online, it's likely that she's not an American soldier at all. If this is a suspected social media profile, we urge you to report it to that platform as soon as possible. Please continue reading for more resources and answers to other frequently asked questions: How to report a Facebook algal file: Alert ... Warning- ... Answers to frequently asked questions: - No money is charged to soldiers and their loved ones until the soldier can go on vacation. - Soldiers do not carry money in exchange for secure communications or leave. Soldiers do not need permission to marry. - Emails are in this form: john.doe.mil@mail.mil alert-mailto: john.doe.mil@mail.mil anything that ends at .us or .com is not an official email account. - Soldiers have medical insurance, paid for when treated in civilian health-care facilities around the world - family members and friends do not need to pay for their medical expenses. Military aircraft are not used to transport privately owned vehicles. - The army's financial offices are not used to help soldiers buy or sell goods of any kind. Soldiers deployed in combat zones do not need to ask the public for money to feed themselves, their troops or to shelter them. - Deployed soldiers do not find large amounts of unclaimed money and need your help to get those money out of the country. Anyone who tells you one of the above conditions/correct circumstances is likely to pretend to be a soldier and try to steal money from you. We urge you to cease all contacts with this person immediately.
