Facebook Messenger is the official facebook messaging app that allows you to participate in text conversations with all friends in the popular social network. This allows you to send and receive text messages that you can also continue from your computer. Like other instant messaging apps, Facebook Messenger will allow you to share images or our geographic location in text messages, being able to even add multiple recipients and open chat windows with multiple people at the same time. Each conversation will be framed inside the bubble, which you can comfortably move around your terminal's desktop. You can set up Facebook Messenger to receive audio or vibration alerts every time you send us a message, and even reply via a normal text message (from phone to phone) if the person you want to communicate with doesn't have Facebook (or we think you won't be in front of it). You can also make VOIP voice calls from the app itself. One of the funniest elements of Facebook Messenger is its huge collection of stickers, thanks to which you can customize your conversations. These funny images are very similar to the classic giant smiley LINE and will really revive our conversations.
