Hot Wheels Highway 35 World Race is a line of cars sold in 2003 derived from a feature film for TV of the same name. It was basically a vehicle for selling toys to children, as well as a lot of Mattel's thought process for cartoons. The series was performed to coincide with the 35th anniversary of Hot Wheels, hence the reference to Highway 35. The cars are divided into 5 groups of seven cars, seen below. In addition, there was a of special sets made, one was a zamac version of the five leading avialable cars through the Redlines Club online, the other was a full set of 35 cars even exclusively for the Club that had a 36th car, a black zedd car, which was only available in the set and is highly sought after. The full set was limited to a 1000-piece run, so not many of them are floating around... So, as far as the organization goes, each car was labeled directly on the car with a number, 1 to 35. A couple of cars have variations, so that adds to the total number of cars to pick up a bit. Those are listed below... The series had several short-term cars that are much harder to find and very expensive in the secondary market. In addition, this was the first appearance of the 5-spoke co-modeled wheels in the Hot Wheels line. If you found all 35 cars, collected proof of purchases, you could put it in for the Last Track Set. Very few of these have been produced and the track set is really one of the best Hot Wheels track sets ever made.
