But the big news is my diet, I've lost £5 in the last couple of weeks thanks to Slimfast. Remember it was hell, but I still had an evening meal just a shake in the morning and a bar meal at lunchtime. In the meantime I have this review for you, I bought Stoeger, on a whim, gambling say... I've always wanted to try one i might have regretted it a little bit now..... You live and learn that's what I'm saying. ** It must be noted, the initial range was not set up any better after i tried to correct it. airguns and stuff review ... Rakand review... I'm guessing it's just looking and/or cheaper to make it like that. You'd imagine it's just glued to it if you really want to make it adjustable.. Robert from USANo, looks just like he's a hoonold from USAwhat is included with a gun except for the range and asked for some Leonardos pellets from USAs the rest of the adjustable cheek!!! Mikeno requested at fixedArnold from USAYes. The middle section can be removed for shortening. Carlton from USADoes this weapon comes with a range?Asked TaylorYes, because it comes with scopeScott from USADo u send to the UK?Request OliverPlease contact our international shipping department in [protected email] they can answer your question much better then we can. Thank you sincerely, The Airgun Warehouse Customer Care TeamScott of USAHoe does this gun compared to the .22 octane umarex as far as the high sound, power, quality and accuracy?Request Xu Fujikawai can only speak to the quality of Stoeger. I didn't want a loud s and stoger too quiet. Power is beyond doubt. Very effective on varrimts. The quality feels and appearance. Once in order I was very happy with the accuracy. Three things you have to train yourself to turn off safety every time, and it comes with a rail on each side that you install one side of bipod. So buy this form with unless you have a set of legs. Finally there are no iron sites. That's what I'd like to be. Cyrusti Octane is a more powerful gun. At least 80-100 FPS is more powerful! The bustle is almost the same as about 90-95 decibels. Good quality both But octane has a 3YR warranty. Hopefully this will help. P.S I own both guns! DONDRIQUES from USABoth are good quality rifles. I have an octane at .177 and .22. . . . The ATAC at .177 and .22. ATAC may be a little quieter but not enough to be a problem. Octane is faster and stronger hit, a little bit more accurate with consistency, slightly heavier. All things are considered without getting technical, the Octane is my number one choice. ATAC 2 is very close. very generally happy with all of the guns. Carlton of USAwhich Pellets worked on the best with this Aaronl gunasked was happy with the 22-lead Crossman premiership. Just bought some .22LR in the show, wow stoeger is good value per round! Cyrusfrankie this will depend on many variables including human abilities but, in my experience, Polymags Predator and Medmags both offer high performance levels at different distances to about 50yds. A difficult question to answer anyway. What works for one may not fit for the other. There is no one-size-fits-all thing. ExperimentCarlton of USACould I receive more information about triger pull, effortless shouting, thanksasked Gregory from USAYou can look at Benjamin guns like Hardwood Trail, Trail AW, Regal, Titan, and poison that all have exactly the same trigger as this, identical or almost identical effort. Since there are so many more guns out there, there are 100x as much information and reviews. The trigger will be about 5 lbs, probably rough, too long, and unpredictable. Stoegers are often hard to get a barrel to pop open, you have to slap it open but this gets better with grease and use. Once cracked open the voltage will start at about £9, then the peak is at about £35, which is more than benjamin guns because the barrel, which is your arm, is 1.5 shorter. Tody Stoiger has a bit of a pull but nothing you can't get used to too in a few shots. The biggest thing is to remember to take it off safe. Cocks have some weight for it but nothing old person to have shooting can't handle. Besides the way that pellet explosions there makes it worth the effort. Cyrustryger pull smoothly and just right. No delay I felt his low cocks voltage in my opinion. I have to hit the barrel to break it from the locked position but them you have to do it with the most, one of the locked position voltage cocks is not bad. I was skeptical of the cocks effort at first but after receiving it, I was quite impressed with the low amount of effort needed. The lock position is the only real effort of force and this is a good blow to the barrel to break free like most air guns. Hopefully this will help. Joshua of USAThe FPS says 1000, this is really 800 with lead pellets, the request sal nottar varies with the weight of the lead pellet, but using the standard Which is 14.3gr, expect closer to 700fps. With the heaviest one like Barracuda we expect more like the 550. It won't push the pellet alloy to 1000 either. When the new guns have grease inside that can diesel while causing a power boost and it may hit those numbers, but usually work not, it won't. ToddMost airgun manufacturers give extreme high FPS but this mostly allows light pellets. Light letting pellets are usually a little unstable and inaccurate but experience with different heavier pellets you will find that fps comes down but gives you a much better accuracy, which is what you're ultimately looking for. The gun has the power to slow it down with a heavy pellet and you will have a knocker.michael head from USAI do not know but my Stoeger puts the pellets there quickly and hardly. Cyrus Lee hasn't received my gun yet but I did some reviews on YouTube and a lot of people have said yes to your question, now from what I understand is that people are having a problem with tremors, that's because the pellets fired aren't heavy enough to stabilize, and therefore having to move with heavier weight pellets to rid tripp can have some difference in FPS, they say 1000, but a lot of buyers say no.... I think I'll have to wait and try out mine when it comes. I know my RWS 350magnum, it likes heavier pellets, on my CHRS chronograph fps changes with heavier pellets, they also say 1000fps. Gregory of USAhow is recoil, is a gun worth a try, 9 lbsheavy? Schoenswald asked for weight & feel. present recoil but not overwhelming. The qualities of this gun note give a try. From my experience, I am very happy. Carlton from the United States of America. 22lr rifle, low to none. The gun's worth it. And while it is a little on the heavy side the gas system is worth it. Gun is very accurate once I'm zero in. Joshua from USA next show
