After 7 years of activity, major shareholder Sored (Ona Group) withdrew from the management of this TV channel due to financial reasons. The Kingdom of Morocco took control of 2M with a 68% participation in its capital. The acquisition was supported by a major effort to develop the audio-visual sector. Radio 2M is the partner radio channel for 2M, presenting music, news, and information directly from Morocco in Arabic and French. Content 2M challenged taboos by debating controversial issues and established a reputation for itself as a symbol of freedom of speech in Morocco. The channel regularly broadcasts news, movies, sports and music. It is now a government-controlled public TV station and is closed with impressive parts of Morocco's political power structure (Makhzen). 2M has been used by the government as an indirect means to attack independent newspapers such as The Le Journal. 2M has two different channel and a satellite channel named (since 2007) 2M Monde, which means 2M World. Both local and satellite/world versions of 2M have the same show but are broadcast at different times. 2M Monde doesn't broadcast Hollywood movies and American TV shows because it only buys its broadcast rights for within Morocco. On November 23, the TV channel aired a segment in its morning show Sabhiyat on how to cover the bruises beaten with make-up on International Day to end violence against women. Morocco TV has apologized on Monday for its broadcast of the segment.
