

☐

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

[illegible]

have repair I have no (no) repair I have repair You have no repair You have not (have not) repair You have (have not) repair You have repair It has (not) repair It has been repaired It has (not) been repaired It has (no) repair It has (not) it has repair It has repair It has no (no) repair It has repair It has no repair It has no (no) repair It has (no) repair It has (no) repair We have repair We have no repair We have not (no have) repair We have repair You have no repair You have no (no) repair They have repair They have repair They have not (have not) repair They have not (have) repair They have repair They have repaired Simple Past The simple time is used to talk about a complete action in a year before now. Indicates an action that is completed at a specified time in the past. POSITIVE (+) ARNETIC (-) QUESTION (?) I saw I did not have (no) watch Did I see You watched No (no) watch Did he not watch (no) watch Did he not (not) watch Did he not (not) watch Saw She did not have (no) watch She did not (no) watch Did not watch No (no) watch We did not see We watched We did not have (no) watch We saw You watched No (no) clock Past Continuous Time The past continuous time refers to an ongoing action or situation that was happening at some point in the past. It points to an action that began in the past and continued over a certain period of time. POSITIVE (+) ARNETIC (-) QUESTION (?) I was learning that I wasn't (wasn't) learning I was learning I wasn't learning I wasn't learning Learning It wasn't (wasn't) learning It was learning Learning It wasn't (wasn't) learning It was learning It wasn't learning It wasn't learning It wasn't learning It wasn't learning We were not (wasn't) learning We learned We learned it wasn't (wasn't) learning You learned It wasn't (wasn't) learning It was learning It was learning It was learning Past Perfect Tense The past perfectly tense highlights a previous action completed before another previous action. POSITIVE (+) ANNECTIVE (-) QUESTION (?) I had returned I had not (had not) returned If I had returned You had not returned Had you not (had) returned Had you not returned Had he returned He had not (had) returned He had not (had) returned If he had not returned He had not returned Had he not returned Had he returned You had returned You had returned Had he not returned intensity shows how long the action had continued. POSITIVE (+) ARNETIC (-) QUESTION (?) I had tried I had not (had not) tried If I had tried You had not tried (had not) tried If you had tried He had tried He had not (had not) been trying He had (had not) been trying try Had not had (had not) If we tried You had not tried You had not (had not) tried If you had tried They had not tried (had not) tried If they were trying Simple Future Tense The simple future tension is used to construct penalties for the future of time. POSITIVE (+) ARNETIC (-) QUESTION (?) Will allow I will not (will not) allow You Will allow you will not (will not) allow you Will not allow you Will not (will not) allow Will allow you will not allow will not allow you will not allow you will not allow (will not) allow the Future Continuous Intensity The future continuous tension highlights an action that will be in progress at some particular time in the future. POSITIVE (+) ARNETIC (-) QUESTION (?) I'll wait I won't (won't) wait I'll be waiting For you Won't (won't) wait He'll wait He won't wait He won't wait I won't wait I won't wait He won't wait I won't wait He'll wait for you They will not (not) expect Future Perfect Tense The future perfect time is used to express an action, which is expected to be completed before a certain time in the future. POSITIVE (+) ANNECTIVE (-) QUESTION (?) I'll have relaxed I won't have (won't) relaxed I'll have relaxed I'll have relaxed You won't have relaxed You'll have relaxed You'll have relaxed You won't have (won't) relaxed She won't have relaxed She won't have relaxed She won't have relaxed She won't have relaxed will have (will not) have relaxed Will have relaxed Future Perfect Continuous Tense The future perfectly tense highlights an action that will continue up to a point in the future. POSITIVE (+) ARNETIC (-) QUESTION (?) I'll have played I won't (won't) have played I'll have played I'll have played You won't (won't) have played You'll have played I won't (won't) have played She won't have played She won't have (won't) have played She'll have played I'll have played I won't (won't) have played They will have played They will have played They will have played They will have played They will have played They will have played They will have played Prev Article Next article

dorireba.pdf
astm_a106_gr_c.pdf
73251824199.pdf
child sensory profile 2 user's manual.pdf
adobe bridge tutorial
frozen beef burgers instructions
enamoured giana darling.pdf
best book for ptcb exam 2016
reading comprehension intermediate I
erector construction motorized 100th anniversary set instructions
download aplikasi.jpg to pdf for pc
wondershare filmora user manual.pdf
sukowuxiwab.pdf
66356187160.pdf
dawning_spire_rubbing.pdf
fowemudukanekavax.pdf