Guide written by Samantha Riffle Text No, it's not—it's never quite that. I love them, Tony—I love them deeply. Some people might break out, but I couldn't. I know they do pretty strange things... But they are gay and they are fun, and... I do not know... there's a nobility for them [... ...] It's going deeper into Tony. Your mother believes in spiritualism because it is fashionable, and your father creates orchids because he can afford it. My mother writes in the game because eight years ago the typewriter here was delivered by mistake [... ...] And look at grandpa. Thirty-five years ago, he just quit one day. He took up his post in the elevator and came back. He just stopped. He could have been a rich man, but he said it was too much time. SO, for thirty-five years, he's just collected snakes, and gone to circuses, and started. It never happens to any of them... Hart, Moss, and George S. Kaufman. UPGRADE TO PRO SIGN IN OR LOG IN TO YOUR ACCOUNT You CANT TAKE IT WITH YOU USER RATING: (3 votes) Author(s): George S. Kaufman Moss Hart At First Sycamores seems mad, but it didn't last long we realize that if they are crazy, the rest of the world is crazy. Unlike these delightful people are the miserable Kirbys. The piece shows how Tony, the lovable young son of Kirbys, falls in love with Alice Sycamore and brings his parents to dine at the Sycamore home on the wrong evening. The shock suffered by Kirbys, who are invited to eat cheap food, shows Alice that marriage to Tony is out of the question. Sycamores, however, although sympathetic to Alice, find it hard to realize your views. Meanwhile, Tony, who knows Sycamores is right, and his own people wrong, will not give her up, and in the end Mr. Kirby is turned into a happy madness from Sycamores, especially since he happens during a visit to the ex-Grand Duchess, earning her a living as a waitress. So far, there is no mention of the strange activity of some members of the household involved in the production of fireworks; not in a printing machine set up in the cabin; not Rheba's maid and her friend Donald; not grandfather's interview with the tax collector when he tells him he doesn't believe in income tax.
