A few months ago, home work became the new norm for office workers across the country because of the COVID-19 pandemic. At first people stocked up on what they needed to get a job, but because it was a temporary situation, investing in office furniture was not what many people felt necessary. Now that we are in mid-July and many offices do not reopen until at least 2021, the reality is that our homes may be doubling as offices for much longer than we thought. The same goes for students who will be distance learning again when the next school year begins. While this is probably not a permanent situation if you haven't already, now is the perfect time to finally hunker down and set up an official office space at home starting from the desk. Fortunately, you don't have to spend too much to buy a quality desk, which is essential for those on a strict budget right now. Retailers like Amazon, Wayfair, Target, and more are selling highly rated tables that fall under $150, a price that strikes the perfect balance of budget and quality. After cleaning the websites that carry the tables, we found 10 popular ones that are still in stock. If you need a new office chair to go with your desk, be sure to check out our top-rated chairs coverage you can buy online, too.1.
