Strategy is one of the oldest types of games in the history of mankind. Whether it's chess, board games, or even some card games, we've been playing strategic games since long before there was a computer. The strategy of the game has come a long way, but the basic premise of using your brain to beat your opponents remains true to this day. It's a fantastic way to test yourself to see how creative you can be. Here are the best strategic games on Android! We would like to give an honorable mention in Kairossoft's colorful and fun strategy game as well. Price: $4.99

Bad North: Jotunn Edition is one of the new strategic games on the list. It plays like a classic strategy game. You get space and you protect it from the invasion of the bad guys. However, it also has elements of tower defense and roguelike genres as well. Each island is generated randomly and you have to protect each of them. In addition, you constantly lose commanders if they go down into battle. This adds a bit of extra depth and complexity to the works. The game has occasional errors, but it is otherwise a great strategy game with one price tag and no in-app purchases.

Bloons TD 6 Price: $4.99 with in-app purchases Bloons TD 6 is the last tower defense game in the long series. It has many elements from previous titles. You play like monkeys and protect yourself from the bad guys. The game includes 19 towers, three upgrade paths to the tower and tons of mini upgrades. The game also supports offline games, new game modes, various challenges, and more. It's easily the best defense tower release in 2018 (besides perhaps defending the cake) and it's a must-try for strategy lovers. It works for $4.99 with additional purchases in the app if you decide to pay for them. Kingdom Rush series games are also pretty good if you like tower defense strategy. Map Thief Price: Free/$1.99 Card Thief is one of the most unique strategic games. It's a mixture between strategy and card game. Your goal is to move around to avoid detection. You will have equipment, stealth points, and more to help you avoid the guards and finish the level. It boasts a playing time of two to three minutes per game. This makes it great for casual gamers. You can download the game for free and unlock the full version for $1.99.

Chess from AI Factory Limited Price: Free Chess is one of the oldest strategic games. Chess Free is probably the best chess game on a mobile phone. The graphics are not much to watch. However, you'll have 12 levels of difficulty in two game modes, ELO Ratings, Save and Download games, local multiplayer, chess tutor, and a bunch of other interesting things. That's about The same full of chess game as you can find. It uses an ancient chess engine. It's the same one from MSN Chess. AI Factory Limited has a bunch of other simple board games such as Checkers, GO and a few others. Escapists 1 and 2 Price: 2 Price: Each The Escapist series is two excellent strategy games. Players collect and craft various items and plan their escape from prison. Until then, you have to play a role and be a prisoner model so as not to attract attention. The first and second games are not different at all that much. However, the second game has more and more prisons to break out of along with more scenarios in general. They are a bit expensive, but they are a one-time game fee without in-app purchases or ads. Heroes Flatlandia Price: Free Demo /$1.99 Heroes from Flatlandia is a turn-based strategy game with fun graphics and decent games. You are recruiting an army of fantasy inspired troops and clashing with the bad guys to take over the land. The game includes eight game heroes, 30 types of units in four races, local multiplayer mode and more. It's a solid experience, though it may lack the depth that many other hardcore strategy fans crave. Either way, you can try it for free before you buy a full game. After that, there are no micro-transactions. Machines at War 3 Price: $6.99 Machines in War 3 is one of the game's best real-time strategies. Your job is to defeat the bad guys and save some scientists. It has a deep history that spans 21 missions. It also has 130 different types of units and technologies to create, unlimited random card skirmishes, online multiplayer, and more. There is even an unlimited random shootout mode in case you just want to kill a few minutes. The game is delightfully challenging, as any good strategy game should be. It's a bit expensive at $6.99, but there are no in-app purchases. Mobile 3 Price Motorsport Manager: $3.99 with purchases in the Motorsport Manager Mobile 3 app is one of the best and new strategic games on your mobile phone. You can build your own motorsport team from scratch. This includes hiring drivers, mechanics, building a car, and racing to win. The game has small obstacles, such as changes in the weather, to which the player must adapt. In addition, there are complexity settings, rule changes, and all kinds of other things that won't be too outdated. This is one of the many strategies for modeling games on a mobile phone. This one just has solid mechanics and it's fun to play, even for non-motorsport fans. Pocket City Price: Free/$3.99 Pocket City Strategy Simulation Game is similar to Sim City. Try saying it three times faster. Anyway, this game has a lot like that. You are building a city with all the different elements. Players control things like cash flow, traffic, citizen happiness and more. Also, you can cause both fun and horrible things to spice it up a bit. Game simple, does not contain microtransactions, and it works offline without any problems. There is also a cloud saving feature as well. The free version contains ads, while the premium version does not. Otherwise they should play about the same. Roller coaster This is another strategy simulator that we strongly recommend as well. Rebel Inc and Plague Inc Price: Free with the in-app purchases Rebel Inc and Plague Inc are two excellent strategy games. Plague Inc has players creating viruses and trying to infect the whole world. It's so frightening for sure that the CDC once asked developers to talk about the game. Rebel Inc has players trying to quell uprisings in the region to help ease unrest. Your decisions affect the history of the game and there are five regions for you to play in. ROME: Total War Price: $9.99 and $4.99 (each) ROME: Total War is a strategy game with PC back in 2004. Since then it has seen Mac OS, iPad, iPhone and Android ports. This is no joke in real-time strategy games with massive battles, actual strategies that not only train troops and throw them at opponents, and it comes with 19 playable factions. Players build their kingdom and their army in preparation for world domination. There are two standalone DLCs for this, including The Barbaric Invasion and Alexander, each with their own scenarios. The full game is for $9.99 and each DLC runs $4.99. Rusted Warfare Price: $1.99 Rusted Warfare is a retro-style real-time strategy game with a great going for it. It boasts a more hardcore RTS experience without in-app purchases, without advertising, and no pay-for-winning mechanics. It also boasts more than 40 player-controlled units, various protections, online and offline multiplayer, as well as support for mice and keyboards. The graphics don't win any awards, but to be honest, it's just the ding we have on this. Even then, it's not bad if you're into a retro game. It even has a custom game mode for practice, fun, and goofing around with the mechanics of the game. It should probably be more popular. Supercell Price: Free play Supercell is the developer of four of the most successful and popular strategic games ever. These are Clash of Clans, Clash Royale, Brawl Stars and Boom Beach. Clash of Clans and Boom Beach are RTS strategy games where you build a base, protect it from other players and then attack other players. Clash Royale is a card game similar in scale to Hearthstone. Brawl Stars is to beat the 'em up strategy game with some elements of MOBA. Each game boasts a massive base of players and that's good news because they are all online multiplayer games. There are also many games like Clash of Clans, as well as games like Clash Royale, if you like the genre but want to try another developer's spin on it. you play as a group of refugees and you try to escape from the zone without being killed. The game has simple mechanics, brutal decision-making moments, and a uniquely bleak art style. There is an autonomous DLC called This War Of Mine: Mine: with similar graphics and similar game mechanics. This is one of the really good, folks. zCube Price: $0.99 zCube is a bit of a wild card pick. This is a strategy of playing with tower protection elements. However, instead of protecting the flat plane from enemies, you have to protect the entire cube. You get 24 missions, custom games with one against one, two against two, and two against one option, about two dozen units, and more. It's not quite as deep as something like Clash of Clans or ROME: Total War. However, for just a dollar without in-app purchases, this is a great strategy being a ock.
