The four pdf sheets below are about four types of Filipino noun (mga pangngalan) according to its word structure or composition. The noun can be simple (payak), attached (maylapi), repeated (inuulit), or the compound of the word (tambalan). You can distribute these free sheets to your children and students, but please don't do it for profit. These sheets are suitable for fifth or sixth graders. 1. Uri ng Pangngalan Ayon sa Kayarian_1; Mga sagot sa Uri ng Pangngalan ayon sa Kayarian_1: This 40-point sheet has two parts. The first part asks the student to say whether the given noun is payak, maylapi, inuulit, or tambalaan. The second part asks students to classify this noun into the same four categories. 2. Uri ng Pangngalan Ayon sa Kayarian_2; Mga sagot sa Uri ng Pangngalan ayon sa Kayarian_2: This 30-point sheet has two parts. The first part asks the student to write the second word that forms the noun connection. Students are asked to choose from a set of word data. The second part of the sheet asks the student to tell whether the noun is repeated or inuulit. Note that the root word (which is a noun) or part of the root word (usually the first two syllables) is repeated. These words may also have an affix, but they are considered to fall under the inuulit category. Words such as daldal, siksik, and dingding, although nouns, are not considered structure inuulit, because there are no root words given, sik, or ding. Two sheets of 20 points below ask the student to tell if the noun has a noun (maylapi). If so, the student is asked to write the root word noun. 3. Uri ng Pangngalan Ayon sa Kayarian_3; Mga sagot sa Uri ng Pangngalan Ayon sa Kayarian_3 4.
