It is Australia's second largest store in number, after Chadstone Shopping Centre and operated by Scentre Group. Entertainment venues include the 16-screen Event Cinemas. The centre contains Chermside bus station, the main bus hub north of Brisbane. Westfield Chermside has a population of 439,600; one of the largest markets for shopping centres in the united states and Australia; Its 15.5 million customer visits a year make it Australia's second busiest shopping centre in Westfield. The centre is located on the corner of Gympie Road and Hamilton Road. Major retail majors: Myer department store - 3 level David Jones department store - 2 level Harris Scarfe department store Big W Discount Department store Kmart Discount Department store Coles Supermarket Movie Cinemas with VMAX and Gold Class H'M Clothing Store zara Clothing Store - 2 levels Uniqlo Clothing Store Mini Majors: Apple Store Best Distribution at First and Second Levels. Restaurants cover four levels. The new restaurant site opened on June 22, 2017, creating the largest restaurant district in Westfield. The history of the bus station and tram lines has been integrated into the centre since the opening of the Chermside Drive-In (now Westfield Chermside) shopping centre was opened on 31 May 1957 by then-Prime Minister Vince Geir. Police were needed to keep about 15,000 shoppers who were queuing to secure the deal. It was marketed as the first suburban style, postwar shopping precinct in the southern hemisphere. The mall was air-conditioned and had a modern design. It originally contained Allan and Stark's department store, a Brisbane Cash and Carry supermarket, 24 specialty stores, 650 car parking and 28 acres. Porters were available to transport purchased items to buyers' cars. Allan and Stark became Myer in 1959, when the last company acquired the first. In 1965, the center was air-conditioned and built a restaurant. The original building that housed Myer demolished and more than a three-level replacement building was opened in June 1977. In 1985, 1986 and 1987, several repairs were completed, resulting in the addition of 29 additional shops and an underground car park. In February 1992, a shopping mall was built. Westfield Group acquired the property from Coles-Myer in December 1996. In 1999, work began on the overhaul of the centre, which was to almost double its area. The renovation resulted in most of the existing structure being demolished, with the exception of the Myer store and parts of the adjacent shopping centre, to make room for a larger complex. The first stage opened on August 9, with Coles and a new bus interchange. In 2000, the second phase of the renovation, containing Kmart, Bi-Lo (which existed until March 2008), Target and the 900-seat food court opened. The new Birch Carroll y Coyle film complex also opened, which took many customers from one, then in Westfield Toombul (now Centro Toombul) In 2005, construction began on another expansion, which officially opened on October 19, 2006 and contained 2,300 more parking lots, and more than 100 new specialty stores. In August 2007, the two-level David Jones store was officially opened and is in the same expansion. The following year was the opening of another department store on the site of the former Bi-Lo supermarket, however smaller, which is the first Harris Scarfe store in Brisbane. In late 2009, the Apple Store opened in the center. In 2011, Westfield Chermshire introduced a new Park Assist system to help shoppers find affordable parking faster. At the same time, the center also introduced a paid parking scheme designed to stop suburban parking in the center. Parking for up to three hours remains free, and admission after 6 p.m. will also be free. For all his major successes during his tenure at Westfield, the centre has been blamed for a slump in trading in surrounding shopping centres, especially Centro Toombul. In the case of Tumbul, the former Westfield centre's trade was affected in the 21st century, David Jones and many other stores closed in Centro Toombul. In 2015, Scentre Group announced the redevelopment of Westfield Chermshire, which will add up to 95 new retailers, a gallery shopping centre, new restaurants and entertainment venues and a significant extension of the second floor. Construction began in January 2015 and the new area was opened to buyers on April 6, 2017. The new development included international fast fashion stores such as NSM, Sephora and zara. In early 2017, the redevelopment of Westfield Chermshire, known as The New Westfield Chermshire, opened. This expansion was a complement to the second-tier stores above the Myer David Jones Fashion Centre, and introduced international including NSM, Sephora, Uniqlo, and zara. JB HiFi, Rebel and Optus have also moved out of existing stores for new locations in the redevelopment. On June 22, 2017, the final stage of reconstruction was officially opened. This included a dining area with more than 20 cafes and restaurants, an incubator shop alley and a lifestyle precinct with a new bowling alley, laser tag, a new gymnasium and a children's care center.
