After a tumultuous first year, being a sophomore is much easier with a familiar campus, famous rules, a gang of friends, and realistic academic pressure. It's also a time when most 10th grade students start taking things a little more seriously and making long-term plans for college and beyond. eTutorWorld tips? Start now, although going to college seems a long way off. The choice of electives, activities and even a group of peers depends on what you want in the end. The best way to start is to be vigilant and know. Talk to the younger and seniors at your school to find out how they are going about their plans. Taking the SAT and/or even the ACT will inevitably seek college admissions. These scores are weighted heavily on your college applications. Polish your skills by taking PSAT and/or Pre-ACT. It is well known that reading and practicing are two of the best ways to improve academic skills. In addition to textbooks, subject sheets help to better revise and understand concepts. eTutorWorld offers affordable one-on-one live learning via the Internet for grades 2-12.
