Read more – Rebels Evan Husack not held back by handicap By Jake Maurice Evan Husack is one of the Rebels men's volleyball team's best players, always stretching, jumping, diving, and dipping to set or spike a ball sent into his field area, grinding away at every challenge. Team sports are throwing constant challenges at competitors, but Husack faces a unique hurdle as an athlete. My whole life I've been deaf and facing barriers, but [I] have learned to work through that when they occur. Husack said by email. Read more – By Jake Maurice A look at the Rebels at the halfway point of the Manitoba Collegiate Athletic Conference season Current Standings: 2-6 win-loss record, 10-19 set record, fifth in MCAC standings, two points off the final playoff spot. The Rebels women's volleyball team has had a rocky start to their season if they are in last place of the MCAC position on the de de de mid-season break. Head coach Dan McGregor and assistant coach Savannah Baird In recent years, head coach Dan McGregor said he felt teams underestimated the Rebels, pushing them off to a hot start. This year, however, no one is taking the champs lightly. Every game is tough and teams are willing to play their best against us, McGregor said.
