FAQ: What is an APK file? A: The Android Suite Kit (APK for short) is the package file format used by the Android operating system for the distribution and installation of mobile applications. Just like Windows systems (PC) use an .exe file to install software, Android does the same thing. Q: Why CloudApks.com guarantee a 100% safe APK? A: Whenever someone wants to download an APK file from CloudApks.com, we will check the appropriate APK file on Google Play and allow the user to download it directly (of course, we will cache it on our server). If an APK file doesn't exist on Google Play, we'll search our cache. Q: If I install a CloudApks.com, can I update the app from the Play Store? A: Yes, absolutely. The Play Store installs APKs that it downloads from Google's servers, and sideloadng from a site like CloudApks.com goes through a very similar process, except that you are the one performing the download and initiation of the installation (side load). Once the Play Store finds a newer version of the app than the one you claimed on the side, it'll start updating. Q: What are Android app permissions? A: Applications require access to certain systems within your device. When you install an application, you are notified of all the permissions required to run this application.
