He is the original jungle trooper for the G.I. Joe team and made his debut in 1984. Profile His real name is Daniel M. LeClair, and his ranking is that of body E-4. Recondo was born in Wheaton, Wisconsin. Recondo's main military specialty is infantry, and his auxiliary military specialty is intelligence. He was a cadre member at the Jungle War Training Center. Recondo hates the cold, loves being in the jungle, carries his backpack over the bushes and sweats through his cammy. He is a qualified specialist with M-16, Swedish K, Greek gun, M-1911A1 automatic pistol and M-79 grenade launcher. [1] Toy Recondo was first released as an action figure in 1984. [2] The painting was repased and released as part of the Tiger Force line in 1988 and packed with Tiger Fly covert attack helicopters. The file card in this picture shows that Recondo has extensive experience with helicopters. [3] His first appearance in the Marvel Comics G.I. Joe series was more difficult to deal with than the chaos associated with a party celebrating the refurbishment of G.I. Joe's headquarters in G.I. Joe: Real American Hero #32 (February 1985). [4] He was soon assigned to the jungles of Sierra Gordo, a fictional country where the government collapsed after Joss ousted Cobra. Gunj-ho, stalkers, ripcords and roadblocks arrive to save peace activist Dr. Adele Berkhart, who was the sole survivor of the goodwill mission. Joss is not familiar with Recondo, so it ends peacefully, even though there is tension. During the mission, Russian snipers shoot and kill three of Recondo's indigenous Tucaro allies. In return, Recondo hunts down and kills snipers and provides rifles to the Raging River, a process that honors Tucaros' beliefs. [5] Recondo helps combat the sea off the coast of Cobra Island. [6] Recondo recovers from being badly injured in the Battle of Springfield. [7] Recondo appears in the second issue of the spinoff series G.I. Joe Special Mission. Along with dial tones, clutches and roadblocks, he is sent to the South American jungle to gain the life-saving knowledge he needs for suspected Nazi war criminals. This group crashes. The Israeli commando team wants to kill the people they need to talk to. [8] Recondo is considered part of a multi-vehicle secondary attack team in the Cobra Island Civil War storyline. [9] The Devil's Due Date later claimed that the Evil Dew series, G.I. Joe America's elite, killed Cobra agent Major Bludre Recondo. [10] This claim is not true because Recondo survived a confrontation with Major Blud due to interference from duacaro allies. Only Joe member Sparks knows this is true: Recondo wants to die officially so he can work in secret against Cobra. [11] The animated series Showcase he first appeared in the G.I. Joe animated series, which was presented in the miniseries Revenge of the Cobra, voiced by Bill More. He's a regular in the first season, and in the second season he's reduced to a background character. The video game Recondo is one of the characters characteristic of the 1985 G.I. Joe: Real American Hero computer game. [12] He appears as a supporting character who can't play in the 2009 video game G.I. Joe: Rise of the Cobra, voiced by Brian Bloom. In the book he co-starred in the 'Find Your Destiny' novel, 'Work: Tiger Strike'. [13] See ^ Hippopotamus, Larry (1987). Howard Mackie (Ed.). Order of the Battle of G.I. Joe. The direct video series Toy Generation 1 Real American Hero (1984) writes that Recondo was part of the 1984 series of real American hero toys. He was one of a single pack of cards. His accessories included a mechanical rifle and a backpack. Appearance: Khaki Australian Army, Slouch Hat; brown hair and mustache; beige short-sleeved shirt and open collar; Brown Holster and the Australian Army 'Sam Brown' Belt; Black boots accessory accessory over beige and green camouflage pants: canteen olive green backpack on the handle and back; Olive Green Packaged M-1 4E2X Machine Gun Custom Stock and Byford. Transformation: Some recondo figures had softer, browner stripes on the legs instead of sharp green stripes. They also had either brown or green watches. In 1984, the green camouflage patterns in catalogs and advertisements were more complex than the variety that was released. YoJoe.com/Filecard Tiger Force (1988) The Tiger Force version of Recondo was packed with tiger flying helicopters. The Wild Bill was scheduled to be part of a sub-team, but it wasn't included. Tiger Force Recondo originally had the color of an action figure. Appearance: blue grey slucci hat; brown hair and mustache; blue-gray short-sleeved shirt and open collar; brown holster and Sam Brown belt; green trousers with yellow stripes; Brown boots. Accessories: medium green Recondo bag; Black lecondoso gun. YoJoe.com/page/filecard Generation 2 Spy Squad (2003) spy squad series, Recondo has a whole new body piece. He is packed in a two-pack with Iron Grenadier. If you hadn't said the pack was Recondo, you wouldn't really know that the picture was made of that character. YoJoe.com/Page/FileCard Valor vs. Dock (2004) The Dog 2004 lineup. Recondo, was the color of his Spy Corps version and was sold as part of the Tiger Storm Helicopter Package. Toy vehicles include Wild bill, sand viper and Valor vs. Dog comic books. YoJoe.com/Page/Filecard Valor vs. Dock (2005)The second Valor vs. Venom action figure features the same body fragments as the Spy Corps version. But his head is a new piece reminiscent of his original hair from 1984. He was packed into a desert coyote vehicle. YoJoe.com/page/filecard quiz Larry Hippo's Recondo's working name was The Vunipola Rat. His Tiger Force file card suggests that he was recruited to the Joe team as a helicopter pilot. Joe Collector's Club unveils Tiger Force Recondo! – 25th Anniversary Modern Style/Fully Posing Action Figures – 1988 Prototype** - Removable hats and shoulder harnesses, marksman rifles, mambale (sicklesord), G.I. Joe logo stands, and backpacktiger Force Recondo debuted at toys R Us stores in 1988. However, that's not the version the club chose to release, but to the obscure deco that only appeared in the 1988 catalogue. Joe Cohn has this design forward for 2015, and the people of the G.I. Joe Collector's Club seem to have used Recondo's body on the 25th year with the arm of a retaliatory Kwinn painting. It's an interesting idea because hinge wrists have become a truly necessary part of the current construction style and the absence of recent figures has been very pronounced. Continue reading Joe Cohn's brochure for 2015 live with this year's 1:18 theme on: Springfield Island: Dangers of Paradise. That's the right kid - it's Tiger Force vs. Iron Grenadiers, who was last seen in 2012 working on a bear trap set. HERE'S THE OFFICIAL EXPLANATION FROM THE CLUB: G.I. JOE INTELLIGENCE DESTRO REPORTS THAT IT HAS EXECUTED A HOSTILE TAKEOVER OF BILLIONAIRE MONTGOMERY SPRINGFIELD, SENDING THE REGIMENT OF ITS ELITE IRON GRENADIERS, LED BY GENERAL MAYHEM, AND THE TROPICAL ISLAND OF III IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC. The Iron Grenadier leader's exact plans are unknown, but they are expected to be another major place to stockpile and test ammunition. M.A.R.S. Technology. G.I. JOE: THE TIGER FORCE unit, led by Sgt. TALKER, was called in for this dangerous mission to re-occupy the island paradise and expel Iron Grenadier at all expenses. GETTING TO THE ISLAND IS VERY DANGEROUS, BUT WHEN YOU SEE RED AND BLACK, THEY WILL KNOW THAT THE TIGER FORCE TEAM IS HUNGRY TO FIGHT AND ATTACK! The 2015 3 3/4-inch convention set includes a highly requested team and a new addition that will be available for the first time in the modern era 25A action figure style. This special edition set includes Tiger Force (6 Characters): Stalker Sergeant, Dialton, Big Brawler, Wreckage, Recondo and Edwin Lifeline Steen. Iron Grenadier (9 figures): General Mayhem, Metal Head, Officer Undertow, Iron Bill x 3. Undertow x 3. OK... That's not the direction predicted for this year's set, except for tiger force inclusion. Iron Grenadiers appeared heavily just three years ago, so their comeback looks a little out of the way, ironically, the same was true in 2011, when Dial Tone, a renewal figure and part of Mission Brazil II, announced its third release at the club. It also comes as another member of the original 13 in 1982 was treated to convention by a stalker. Big Brawler, named after a longtime club staff member, is also everyone's favorite Outback problem. However, to cope with this, there is also a metal head! Play! Play!!! The wreckage has only been revealed so far, so the club has a lot of previews to tease in the coming weeks. Here at JBL, we are suckers for good G.I. Joe 3DJoers.com website website. So, imagine the complete leg experienced by one manager, especially when the next announcement went up in 3DJoers for a recent card artwork poster project! The card 3DJoersposter is here! The first card 3DJoersposter is here! It features all card lofs from 1982 to 1985. That's 49 unforgettable Joe and Cobra one 24x36 poster! Paper details: All 3DJoers posters are printed on a 65-pound sterling premium glossy paper stock. According to my printer, the 65-pound paper is the thickest you can use and still roll them without wrinkles or damage. No wrinkles, pinches or wrinkles. These posters are definitely worth the frame, but the paper is thick enough that if you want to tack them, it will work too. Print details: Use four color printing processes (CMYK) rather than digital. The four color prints are of much higher quality than digital laser prints. For a behind-the-scenes look at printers, check out the 3DJoers albums from the '80s. Cost: All 3DJoers posters are even $20 a piece, plus an estimated $9 for shipping. More than 20 orders are half way away! Why: The proceeds will help you pay the $80/month you pay Arqball for a pro subscription. Here's more info: Price » Arqball Spin Blog fan response was good and visitors enjoyed 47,000 spins last month, so hopefully I will sell a lot of posters! Wow! 1982 - 1985 was considered by many to be the quintessence of the original A Real American Hero toy line. It was a year that introduced fans to key characters on most lines, from Sneke Eyes to Cobra Commander. Shipwrecks, Shipwrecks and Dreadnoms! 49 of your favorite characters recreated in heavy card stocks in 9 stunning 24 x 36 images? This promotion already had me on the poster, but the fact that 3DJoers.com to offset the cost of site maintenance for the site is a complete no-brainer! Seriously - we are now moving on in the third quarter and that means holiday shopping has started. (Or at least think about getting started.) A better gift for Joe fans in your life than one of these posters hanging proudly on the wall of the office/den/Joer room! 3DJoers.com information through page 82-85 of the card! 3DJoers.com unveils second poster project 3DJoers.com 1982 - 1985 Card Art Poster Project. Is it because he can't or doesn't? Find out from this thrilling bear trap-filled review! The good guys from Hasbro sent through some media images of the next wave of cobra chases due in stores in October 2010. The latest additions to the Arctic Destrando, Jungle Viper and Lecondo figures were first glimpsed at the G.I. Joe Collector's Convention in 2009. I've been hanging on to G.I. Joe for the past few years. Of course, I bought a great deal of the rise in Cobra figures but the same es of design from character to character just didn't beat me. So far I have to admit that I was impressed to see what I presented for the pursuit of cobras. Of course, there are still design elements that are movie tie-ins. Personally, that Recondo painting is very interesting to me. Yes, yes, it does and I think jungle viper's hi-tech Gili suit will most likely limit his poses, but the overall aesthetic is very sharp. Check out the images in the gallery below. Below.
