It's the first novel in Immortals. [1] Evermore was an immediate bestseller and, as of October 11, 2009, spent 34 weeks on the New York Times bestseller list for children's books. [2] Characters ever bloom: He is always the protagonist and storyteller of the story. After losing her family in a tragic car accident, she struggles to cope with her new life living with her aunt, often blaming herself for her family's death and wanting it on herself. Once confident, popular and relaxed, she becomes a hermit, often labelled a 'freak' by classmates because she can read minds as well as know parts of people's lives to the touch. She despises it; She wants her powers to disappear and to get back to the normal life she had before. Until one day a new boyfriend joins her class. At first she tries to ignore him, but gradually falls in love and her world changes completely. Damen Auguste Esposito: Damen Auguste is an immortal, the first to ever exist. His father made an elixir that promotes eternal life, along with Damen knowing the recipe. He fell in love with Ever when he first met her, after he and his wife (Drina Magdalena Augusta) separated. Life after life, Ever's reincarnations died in accidents. He always began to lose hope before Ever reappeared in his life. Damen has access to Summerland, a place where dead souls who haven't crossed are seeded. According to the book, he's over 600 years old. Along with his immortality, great artists such as William Shakespeare, Pablo Picasso and Vincent Van Gogh gave him works of art. Sabine is always the aunt who takes care of Ever and stays with her after her family died. Although Ever is grateful that Sabine took her in, she often feels like she's taken Sabine's freedom. The book describes her profession as a statement. She's mostly out of the house, busy in business and making great money. Always a 12-year-old younger sister who died in a car accident. She is always often visited by Riley's spirit who always buttocks in Ever's life or gives her information about every celebrity in the universe. Drina Auguste: Drina Auguste was A Damen's wife and one of the first immortals. She's very ruthless and always believed she was superior to others. She's madly in love with Dahn, and she's not going to stop at anything to get him back. She was Always reincarnations one after the other in a sadistic way. Drina hopes Damen will see that he loves her, not Ever, and that people don't deserve his sympathy. He killed Ever during their second fight in Ever's kitchen. Ava: Ava is a psychic far less powerful than Ever or Daen. She can see people's thoughts with less accuracy and can see dead souls. Ava was hired by Ever's Aunt Sabine for a Halloween party where she saw Riley. She tried to convince her to cross over to the other side and turned to Ever when she failed. She always noticed that she had a purple aura, which stands for High Spiritual, Wisdom, Intuition. Ava also taught Ever to build a shield around her which really helped her forget about listening to thoughts and aura and mixing with other people like a normal girl. One of his only friends. Haven is very self-conscious and eager to fit in with other people, and is constantly changing her style to achieve this. She loves cookies and shows a lot of interest in Daen, and he's very upset when he only pays attention to Ever, not her. Haven becomes associated with The Drina, to Ever's astonishment, causing enormous problems later in the story. Top drama queen, Miles loves being the center of attention. He kept finding messages to his newest boyfriend, gossiping or practicing lines to his starring role in the musical Hairspray. Though unaware of Ever's secret, he was always a true friend to her. Stacia Miller: An extremely popular girl at Ever's school who constantly mocks Ever. He makes fun of her with rude comments like losers or freaks. She's jealous of Ever for getting a hot new guy when no one else could. She's blackmailing and threatening people to get her way. When Ever was addicted to drinking, Stacia pretended to be her friend and drank with her but only enough so she wouldn't get drunk, and then later turned into a headmistress where she was suspended.
