-- DPS Rotation and Cooldowns Capabilities Below is our guide to optimal alignment of your abilities. This should help give you a basic understanding of what to do and what is most important to focus on. Each rotation list is more of a list of priorities - in real time, you will constantly determine what ability to use next. Of all the abilities available, use the highest priority list. #Single DPS rotation Use the following rotation (and talents) in heavy AoE encounters. Below are the recommended gems, enchants and consumables based on the Stat Priority Guide to Noxxic. As mentioned there, the recommended Stat Priority (which defines these recommendations) is generalized to be well suited to most players. However, modeling your own character will always give the most accurate weight statistics. With this said, the following recommendations are the next best choice for optimizing your character. Below is the recommended talent build to maximize damage results. Many different combinations of talent can be effective, so while below build our recommendation - take the time to read each talent and decide for yourself. Knowing about each talent and its strengths and weaknesses can be very helpful.
