Read the full review > Don't take this online lesson. In addition to your time and money and GPA, because (1) you won't learn anything, (2) you'll overpay for an irrelevant, online class, (3) the professor does ZERO teaching, but expects for you to know everything, and (4) your GPA will go down. I'm usually a straight A student, and just raked in a B- in this class. I usually love online courses, and I usually take a lot away from them. But this accusation is the exact opposite. This teacher gets paid to sit on her every day and do nothing. You teach yourself. After all this, I couldn't even tell you the definition of organizational communication. A typical week in this category looks like this: you're assigned reading from the manual, but you're never quizzed on it so its extremely irrelevant. You have a discussion board posting for the manual. Overall, this was worth about 20% of the grade. You have two tests - one intermediate and one final. Combined, they're worth 60% of the grade. these test questions? EVERY questions are designed to fail! Do you know when you're taking a test, and there are like 2-3 TRICK questions? EVERY question about her exams is a trick trick They are formulated so that you don't really know what the question asks, and all the answer options are extremely similar. Also, her scoring system is crazy. He's just assignment/discussion board position, I got an A for the final newspaper, and I got a C in each exam. Somehow that equates to a B- in class. Especially I do not recommend this category to COM majors or minors – it is an even greater waste of your times. This class is offensive to the COM section. McCorkindale is not even a real teacher at CPP so it doesn't make sense that she gets her own online class. It doesn't do anything for the class, except the grade. Professor rated by: Student Contact on August 4, 2015 COM 201 Communication Theory 4 The important thing to know about this class is that you should never miss her class. She deliberately leaves this gap in her lecture notes so that you have to go to class and fill them out. You should never rely on someone else's notes, because they may not have written as much as what they said about the subject. She speaks very quickly and when I finished with her class my hand would hurt from writing so quickly. There are 3 tests that make up your grade. It will give you 12 questions that could be in the test and then narrow them down to 6-8 questions. The best way to get a good grade for testing is to charm all the highlights of each question. It goes from the quality of the answers rather than the quantity. takes the presence and you only get 2 absences. Grade Received: A professor was rated by: Student on June 23, 2008 COM 201 Communication Theory 5 ok so I was thinking of dropping it on the first day of class, but then said 'if you're thinking of dropping this class, im just teaching, so you're stuck with me'. And I realized she was very funny. It's hilly. sometimes i forget im even in class just cuz she jokes a lot, but not to the point where you don't get the class job done. Her class is a lot of fun and keeps you paying attention. you have to go to every class so u don't miss ne notes. Not once did I feel like going to class was pointless because you have to take notes every time. She's very smart and funny. I was going to take a whole other class with her. Grade Received: B Professor rated by: Student on December 12, 2007 COM 201 Theory 5 This category was the one class you really enjoyed going to. She lectures on the whole class time, but her lectures are fun and she's constantly cracking jokes or mocking herself or something else in a light-hearted way. There's no way to sleep inside her. of the Commission. Because you take notes and you hear her talk. It's absolutely adorable because he's always talking about how he saw this show or showing the night before and uses a few performances as examples for theories. I'm sure I'd take another lesson with her. Professor rated by: Student on November 30, 2007 See more reviews © Copyright 2020 , Koofers, Inc. All rights reserved.
