Now, that classrooms and hallways are not common in Maierhofer's daily life since COVID-19 closures, he has time to work on a side project: defining the best high school helmets, a junior, made a social media platform to keep prep sports fresh in people's minds, especially since the spring sports season doesn't happen. Local schools are voting at the former Marseilles High School, Seneca, Morris, Ottawa, Woodland and Leland. This competition to follow and allows fans to cheer on teams during this time without sports, Maierhofer said. The Twitter contest, which can be found under the hashtag #IllinoisGymShowdown or @hslogoscom, has 384 teams paired with eight brackets in nine rounds. The first four rounds every two days. Console semi-finals begin May 21, bracket finals May 22. Bracketed heroes are resused based on the average number of votes earned. Overall quarter-finals - round eight - are on May 25, semi-finals on May 27, and the championship is May 29. For these three rounds, 48 hours. The three local gyms were still alive Thursday afternoon. The race to determine Illinois' best football helmet ran in April, and voters decided that the Fisher High School Bunnies were the state's best head gear. This is a competition for Travis Myers, a career consultant and coach at Glenbrook South High School on the outskirts of Glenview. Seeing his success, he became a tamása of Maierhofer to start his own race. He hoped for maybe 150 pictures of gyms, but was shocked to see nearly 400. Maierhofer enjoys what he's created so far. It was exciting to see schools and seemingly dormant athletic bills rally around the tournament. It definitely enhances morale, he said. Maierhofer is also the voice of Irish Live, a student-run online broadcast fighting Irish athletics on YouTube. He was also fascinated by sports logos of all kinds, and launched a website, hslogos.com, inspired by the book Why Mascots Have Tales, by Fred Willman. The book is about history and statistics on Illinois high school mascots. High school mascots and logos are important because they give the team's fans something to identify it with, Maierhofer said. Illinois entertainment competitions, such as the Illinois Gym Showdown, because it's a hot spot for unique logos and mascots: Cornjerkers, Appleknockers, Orphans, Midgets, Bunnies, Perecs, just to name a few. ------- both ------- both ------- both ------- The Amboy High School Anderson Field GC Auditorium Aux Gym Baker Park Bank of Springfield Center Baseball High School Diamond High School Diamond - Seneca Baseball Junior High Diamond - Seneca Beecher High School Bolingbrook High School Bolingbrook High School Diamond High School Dia High School Szén City Szén City Szén City High School Cogdal Relék Commons Deer Park Golfpálya DePue DePue HS Detwiler Park Dwight High School Eastwood Golfpálya Edgewood Golfpálya Edg Fieldcrest Football Stadium Labdarúgó Stadion - Seneca Galesburg High School Gardner-South Wilmington Georgetown-Ridge Farm Goreville HS GSW HS Hall Hall High School Harrisburg HS Henry - Sen.
