It is one of two high schools for general admissions to Roanoke Public Schools. The school is located on Grandin Road SW near the intersection with Brandon Avenue SW in the Raleigh Court district. The school is named after Virginia's first governor and American Revolution leader Patrick Henry. The history of Patrick Henry High School history dates back to 1961 as construction was completed to serve about 1,200 students. Patrick Henry was an open-plan campus-style school consisting of three main building, Persinger Building, McQuilkin Building) named after prominent members of the RCPS and the Roanoke community. Penn Hall, named in honor of Dr. Harry Penn,[4] was completed in 1975. In 1989, the school department implemented a high school concept that expanded Patrick Henry's enrollment to ninth-grade students. In 2006, the school's campus-style layout with multiple buildings (or, halls) was replaced with newly built, conventional school buildings. [5] The entire project was completed in 2008, the new senior patio, the small square behind the main building intended for use as an outdoor dining area during the lunch period was completed in 2010. Academics Patrick Henry High School is a comprehensive high school that includes grades 9-12 with enrollment of students of 1.900 students. The school offers numerous advanced placement courses together with a partnership with Virginia Western Community College to provide dual enrollment college courses at PH[6]. In 2012 - 2017 Patrick Henry was rated as one of the best high schools in America by Newsweek and is currently ranked 704 out of 2,399 schools in the country. [7] The Roanoke Valley Governor's School of Science and Technology also sits on the Patrick Henry campus. Athletics and Extracus Supervision This section needs additional citations for verification.
