He is also known as 50 Cent, an American rapper, songwriter, television producer, actor and entrepreneur. Known for its influence in the hip-hop industry, he is described as a master of the nuanced art of lyrical brevity. [5] Born in the southern Jamaican neighborhood of Queens, Jackson began selling drugs at age 12 during the 1980s crack epidemic. Later, he began his musical career, and in 2000 he became the first american to be a member of the European Commission. In 2002, after Jackson released the compilation album Guess Who's Back?, he was discovered by Eminem and signed to Shady Records under the 2003, he founded G-Unit Records, signing his G-Unit associates Young Buck, Lloyd Banks and Tony Yayo. Jackson had a similar commercial and critical success with his second album, Massacre, which was released in 2005. He produces and stars of the show Power, which aired on Starz. Jackson has sold more than 30 million albums worldwide and won several awards, including the Grammy Award, thirteen Billboard Music Awards, six World Music Awards, and four BET Awards, six World Music Awards, three American Music Awards, three American Music Awards, three American Music Awards, three American Music Awards, six World Music Awar The Brave (2006) and The Righteous Tap(2008). 50 Cent was ranked sixth best artist in 2000 and the third best rapper (behind Eminem and Nelly) on Billboard. Rolling Stone ranked Get Rich or Die Tryin' and In da Club on its lists of 100 Best Albums of the 2000s and 100 Best Songs of 2000s with numbers 37 and 13 respectively. [10] Jackson was born in Queens, New York, and raised in the southern Jamaican region by his mother Sabrina. A drug dealer, Sabrina raised Jackson until she died in a fire when Jackson was 8 years old. [12] After his mother's death and his father's departure, Jackson's grandmother was raised. [14] He started boxing around the age of 11, and when he was 14 years old, a neighbor opened a boxing gym Young. When I didn't kill time at school, I was sparring in the gym or selling crack strips, Jackson remembered. He was selling drugs in elementary school. [16] I was competitive in the ring and hip-hop is competitive too ... I think rappers see themselves as boxers, so they all feel like they're a champion. At the age of 12, Jackson started doing drug trafficking when his grandparents thought he was in post-school programs and brought guns and drug money to school. In the tenth grade, he was caught by metal detectors at Andrew Jackson High School: I was embarrassed that I got arrested like this... After I was arrested, I stopped hiding it. I told my grandmother [in public], I sell drugs. On June 29, 1994, Jackson was arrested for selling four cocaine vials to an undercover police officer. He was arrested again three weeks later when police searched his home and found heroin, ten ounces of crack cocaine and a starter gun. Although Jackson was sentenced to three to nine years in prison, he served six months in boot camp and served his GED. He said he didn't use cocaine himself. [14] Jackson adopted the nickname 50 Cent as a metaphor for change. [22] The name was inspired by Kelvin Martin, the 1980 Brooklyn robber known as 50 Cent; Jackson chose it because it says everything I want it to say. I'm the same person who was 50 Cent. I'il take care of myself anyway. [23] Career 1996-2002: Rise to fame, shooting and early mixtapes, Jackson began rapping in a friend's basement, where he used record players to record over instrumentals. In 1996, a friend introduced him to Jam Master Jay at Run-DMC, who founded Jam Master Jay Records. [25] Jackson's first appearance was react with Onyx, their 1998 performance. He credited Jam Master Jay for improving his ability to write hooks[17] and Jay's debut jackson left Jam Master Jay, the platinum-sellers Trackmasters signed him to columbia records. They sent him to New York in a drive where he produced 36 songs in two weeks. [12] In his 2000 work, he was a member of the European Parliament. Jackson founded Hollow Point Entertainment with bang 'Em Smurf, a former member of the European Parliament. Jackson's popularity began to grow after the successful, controversial underground single How Rob, which he wrote in a halfhour drive to the studio. [22] [30] Rada comically describes how he abducted famous artists. Jackson explained the song's reasoning: There are 100 artists on this label, you have to separate yourself from this group and make yourself relevant.. Rappers Jay-Z, Kurupt, Sticky Fingaz, Big Pun, DMX, Wyclef Jean and Wu-Tang clan [30] and Nas invited Jackson with him on a nastradamus tour. Although Rob was going to release The Thug with Love (with Destiny's Child), two days before he was due to film a Thug Love music video, Jackson was shot and taken to hospital. On May 24, 2000, Jackson was attacked by a gunman outside his grandmother's former home in southern Jamaica. After getting into a friend's car, he was asked to return to the house to get some jewelry; His son was in the front yard. [quote needed] Jackson returned to the back seat of the car and another car pulled nearby; The attacker walked up and fired nine shots from close range with a 9mm handgun. Jackson was shot in the arm, arm, hip, both legs, chest and left cheek. [13] [19] His facial wound caused a swollen tongue, loss of wisdom tooth, and slightly ambiguous voice. [19] [31] His friend was wounded in the arm. They were taken to a hospital, where Jackson spent thirteen days. Alleged attacker Darryl Baum, a close friend and bodyguard of Mike Tyson, was killed three weeks later. [36] Jackson recalled shooting: It happens so quickly that you don't even get a chance to shoot back.... I was scared all the time... I looked in the rearview mirror like, Oh shit, somebody shot me in the face! It burns, from pieces to Weight: Once upon a time in Southside Queens, he wrote: After I got shot nine times up close and not dead, I began to think that I must have a goal in life ... How much more damage could that last have done? Give me an inch in that direction or in that direction, and I'm gone. Jackson used the walker for six weeks and recovered completely after five months. When he left the hospital, he remained in pokonos with his girlfriend and son, and his training regime helped him develop his muscular physique. [13] [19] [37] In the hospital, Jackson signed a publishing deal with Columbia Records before he was dropped from the label and blacklisted by the recording industry due to his song. Ghetto Ou'ran, Can't work in a U.S. studio, he went to Canada, [38] [39] With business partner Sha Money XL. Jackson recorded over thirty songs of mixtapes to build a reputation. In a HitQuarters interview, Marc Labelle of Shady Records A&R said that Jackson used the mixtape circuit to take his advantage: He took all the markets for mixtapes, and all the mixtape DJs were messing with them. Jackson's popularity grew, and in 2002, jackson's popularity increased. It was then released as 50 Cent's Future-Backed G-Unit, a mixtape of re-material by Jay-Z and Raphael Saadig. [27] 2002-2007: Mainstream Breakthrough, Get Rich or Die Tryin', and 50 Cents in 2006 In 2002, Eminem heard about Jackson's Guess Who's Back? CD, obtained by Jackson's lawyer (who worked with Eminem's manager, Paul Rosenberg). [32] Impressed, Eminem invited Jackson released No Fear. Mixtape featured one new track, Wanksta, which appeared on Eminem's 8 Mile soundtrack. Jackson was also signed by Chris Lighty's Violator Management and Sha Money XL's Money Management Group. [quote needed] Jackson released his debut album Get Rich or Die Tryin (which AllMusic described as probably the most hyped debut album by a rap artist in about a decade), in February 2003. Rolling Stone noted its dark synths, buzzing keyboards and persistently funky bounce, in which Jackson complements the production with an unrivalled, laid-back flow. It debuted on the Billboard 200, selling 872,000 copies in its first four days. [43] Lead single In da Club (known as The Source for Its Striking Horns, Funky Bodies, Guitar Riffs and Sparse Hand Clips),[4] set billboard record for most listened-to song in radio history during the week. [45] Olivia, Lloyd Banks, Young Buck and 50 Cent (left to right) in Bangkok, February 2006 Interscope gave Jackson his label, G-Unit Records, 2003. [46] He signed lloyd banks, Tony Yayo and Young Buck as members of unit G, and Game was later signed in a joint venture with Dr. Dre's Aftermath Entertainment. In March 2005, Jackson's second commercial album, The Massacre, sold 1.14 million copies in its first four days (the highest abbreviated sales cycle in the six weeks billboard 200. He was the first solo artist to have five billboards on Billboard in the same week with Candy Shop, Disco Inferno and How We Do. According to Rolling Stone, the secret weapon in the 50s is his singing voice - a deceptively amateur-sounding tenor's mug, which he uses in almost every choir. [49] After Game's departure, Jackson signed Olivia and rap veterans Mobb Deep to G-Unit Records, along with Spider Loc, M.O.P., 40 Glocc and Young Hot Rod, later joining the label, who all eventually left the label. [50] Jackson expressed an interest in working with rappers who are not G-units, such as Lil' Scrappy of BME, LL Cool J Def Jamist, Mase of Bad Boy and Roc-A-Fella motorway, and registered with several. [52] 2007-2010: Curtis, in a sales battle with Kanye West, and before Get Rich or Die Tryin. It debuted at number two on the Billboard 200, selling 691,000 copies in its first week. [54] It was sold behind Kanye West's graduation, which was released on the same day, its highly publicised The battle between Jackson and West is accredited to the commercial decline of gangsta rap and bling private style that previously dominated mainstream hip-hop. On September 10, 2008, an episode of Total Request Live Jackson said that his fourth studio album, before I Destroy Myself, would be released on November. He released on November. He released on November in the fall of 2009 in an episode of VH1's Behind the Music. On September 3, 2009, Jackson posted a video [56] of Soundkillers for Phoenix-[57] produced flight 187, introducing his mixtape and book (50th Act). The song, whose lyrics inspiring speculation about the tensions between Jackson and Jay-Z, was a bonus track in the iTunes version before I Self Destruct. [58] Before I Self Destruct was released on November 9, 2009. 2010-2015: New Musical Directions, New Direction materials when he returned home from the Invitation Tour in 2010, on the shelves of Black Magic, [60] On September 3rd, Jackson supported Eminem and Dr. Dre amid rumors of tension between Jackson and Dre. [62] [63] He recorded 20 songs for a completely different album concept before throwing them aside, [64] wishing his new album had an aggression of get Rich or Die Tryin'. [65] [66] Jackson tweeted that the album was 80 percent made and fans could expect it in the summer of 2011. It was delayed by the end of the year because of a disagreement with Interscope Records, with Jackson saying he would release it in November 2011 with a different title than Black Magic. [67] Eminem released an album, and Jackson said he worked with new producers like Boi-1da and Alex da Kid. Cardiak, who produced Lloyd Banks' Start It Up, confirmed that he had composed a song for the upcoming album. On June 16, 2011, Jackson released his fifth album Outlaw. series of tweets, Jackson said that the delay on his fifth album was due to disagreements with Interscope Records, [67] which later hinted that it would be released in November 2011 with its headphone line (SMS 50). [67] He speculated mtv news did not renew his five-album contract with Interscope: I don't know ... It's all
On It, the video was never filmed. Jackson told Shade45: I did four songs with Eminem in Detroit. I did two just with Blaze, a Boi-1da joint, and I did something with Alex da Kid. We made two that are certain singles and the other two have the kind of records that we've made, more aimed at my core audience, more aggressive, more different energy to it. In September 2011, he published the Street King Energy Track #7 to promote Street King, his charitable energy drink. [79] The announcement that Jackson was shooting the music video girls go wild, the fifth album of the lead single featuring Jeremih, was made on September 28, 2011. [80] Jackson's fifth album Street King Immortal was originally scheduled for 2012. [82] [83] Disagreements with Interscope Records about its release and promotion led to its temporary cancellation. Its first promo single, New Day with Dr. Dre and Alicia Keys, was released on July 27. The song was produced by Dr.
Dre, mixed with Eminem and written by 50 Cent, Alicia Keys, Royce da 5'9 and Dr. Dre. Solo version of Keys leaked to her husband, Swizz Beatz. My Life, the album's second promo single (with Eminem and Maroon 5 lead singer Adam Levine), was released on November 26, 2012. [84] On February 20th, he left Shady Records, Aftermath Entertainment and Interscope, signing with Caroline and the Capitol Music Group. [86] According to Jackson, although he owed Interscope another album, he was released from his contract because he was eminem and Dr. Dre: I'm a special case and a situation. It's also thanks to the booster, which has a strong relationship with Eminem and Dr. Dre. They don't want me to be uncomfortable. They value our friendship to the extent that Animal Ambition would be released on 3 December 2015. Song appeared Forbes.com.

[102] [103] Its broad-based business and investment portfolio includes investments in a wide range of sectors, including real estate, mining, boxing promotion, vodka, fragrances, consumer electronics and fashion. In 2003, he founded his own record label, G-Unit Records, after his mainstream success. In November 2003, he signed a five-year agreement with Reebok to share the G-Unit Sneakers line with his G-Unit Clothing Company. [106] [107] In an interview, Jackson said that his companies had a habit of doing well when he saw all his ventures, both past and present, revolve around his alter ego. [108] [109] Jackson has also started a book publishing imprint, G-Unit Books on January 4, 2007 at the Time Warner Building in New York. He has written several books, including memoirs, from pieces to weights in the 2005 crime novel about a bullied, violent boy and his gay mother. [112] One of Jackson's first businesses was a partnership with Glacéau to create an enhanced water drink called Formula 50. In October 2004, Jackson became a beverage investor when he became a minority stake in the company in exchange for becoming a spokesman after announcing that he was a fan of the drink. Health conscious Jackson noted that he first learned about the product while at a gym in Los Angeles, and noted that they do such a good job of making the water taste good. After becoming a minority shareholder and celebrity spokesman, Jackson worked with the company to create a new grape flavored Formula 50 variant of VitaminWater and mentioned drinks in various songs and interviews. In 2007, Coca-Cola purchased Glacéau for $4.1 billion and, according to Forbes, Jackson, who was a minority shareholder, earned $100 million from the deal after taxes. [113] Although he no longer has a stake in the company, Jackson continues to act as a spokesman for VitaminWater, supporting the product including singing about it at the BET Awards and expressing his excitement over the company continuing to allow its contribution to the products. [114] He joined the Right Guard to introduce Pure 50 RGX and confirmed magic stick condoms[115] which plans to donate part of its proceeds to raise HIV awareness. [118] [119] 50 Cent with Val Kilmer at the 2009 American Music Awards Jackson has created two film production companies: G-Unit Films 2003 and Cheetah Vision 2008. [120] [121] Cheetah Vision produces low budget action thrillers in foreign film markets around the world. [111] [122] When G-Unit Films folded, he focused on Cheetah and the company received a revival of G-Unit Films in 2010 [123] in 2010, renamed G-Unit Films and Television Inc. [125] The company has joint ventures with Will Packer Productions and Universal Television. Over 18 months, Jackson has been selling projects on six different networks. Among them was Power, a STARZ drama in which he not only co-stars, but also serves as co-creator and producer. Power debuted in June 2014 and was renewed for a second season after one episode. Power's August 2 season finale garnered high ratings through the season, more than doubling the premiere and it generated 71% of African-American audiences for any scripted premium series since 2006. Jackson is a co-star of the STARZ network drama, co-creator and executive television producer, where he signed a two-year contract with the Performing Arts Agency. with the second season premiere is the highest ever season with 14.3 million people tuning in live. [127] [128] [129] Jackson also serves as the lead TELEVISION producer of the SundanceTV Dream School, a series that follows fifteen high school seniors, as taught by celebrity teachers. In 2002, Jackson applied to the United States Patent and Trademark Office to register the term 50 Cent as a trademark of clothing, audio recordings and live performances. The application was published in 2003 [131] It has since applied for registration of additional trade marks. In July 2011, Jackson launched a philanthropic initiative to provide 2016. [132] Part of the proceeds from every Street King purchase will be used to provide daily food to disadvantaged children. The partnership coincides with Jackson's goal of feeding billions of people in Africa over the next five years. 50 Cent and I have a common vision: to address the world's problems through smart and sustainable business models, said Chris Clarke, founder and CEO of Pure Growth Partners. With Africa's rampant hunger and the hunger of children around the world, we need socially responsible companies that are influencing real change more than ever. Jackson said: I'm inspired by Clarke's vision and innovative approaches to solving serious issues. Our task is to change children's lives around the world with street shoes. [133] In 2011, he founded SMS Audio, a consumer electronics company that sells Street 50 with headphones, promising to donate part of his sales to charity. In April 2015, SMS announced new joint brand deals with Reebok and Marvel. He added these to existing with Walt Disney Parks, Lucasfilm's Star Wars and Intel. [136] [137] In 2014, Jackson became a minority in Sun Prairie. Jackson made an appearance at the Liquor Warehouse in Syracuse, New York on April 25, 2015, where he reportedly sold 1,400 bottles (277 gallons) of Jackson's signature liquor brand. Liquor Warehouse owner George Angeloro reportedly stockpiled 300 cases (1,800 bottles or 357 gallons) of effen vodka, which sells for $30 a bottle, before the event. [141] In December 2014, Jackson signed a $78 million agreement with Jackson, basketball player Carmelo Anthony, baseball player Derek Jeter and Mathias Ingvarsson, former president of mattress company Tempur-Pedic. Jackson became the main fashion designer of brands with one pair of Frigo boxers. [143] In April 2015, Jackson investment opportunities on the island when he met with a local official and held ongoing discussions about investment opportunities in the Montego Bay resort area. [145] Investments over the years, Jackson invested his income in music and celebrity endorsements in an array of privately owned companies, real estate and stocks and bonds. [111] Some of his investments were lost in 2008. [122] In December 2008, he told the Canadian press that he had been affected by the recession, losing several million dollars on the stock market. Unable to sell his Connecticut mansion located at 50 Poplar Hill Drive that he tried to sell for years filed for bankruptcy in Connecticut in 2015 listed an asking price for that property in 2012 at $10 million, but was valued at $8.3 million in 2015. He first tried to sell the house in 2007 for $18.5 million, and dropped the price several times over the next five years when it was on and off the market. [147] In January 2011, Jackson reportedly made $10 million after using Twitter to promote a marketing company of which he was a shareholder. His endorsements from the company of TV Goods - a company responsible for marketing its range of headphones, Sleek by 50 Cent. Jackson bought the stock from the company on November 30, 2010, a week after he offered buyers 180 million shares for 17 cents each. Jackson later made the stock ed out on Twitter, causing its share value to rise four cents to nearly 50 cents (32p) each, closing on Monday at 39 cents (25p). Jackson was later investigated by the Securities and Exchange Commission for violating securities laws following his Pump and dump stock investment strategy. [148] [149] In 2013, Jackson became a minority investor in Hang w/, a live video broadcasting mobile app used by dozens of celebrities to broadcast and chat with fans. The app was downloaded more than 1 million times since February 2015[update]. Other minority celebrity investors include former NFL player Terrell Owens and record producer Timbaland. [151] [152] [153] [154] Mining and heavy metals In 2008, Jackson visited the platinum, palladium and iridium mine shaft in South Africa, and met with South African billionaire Patrice Motsepe in talks to buy an equity stake in the mine. After meeting with Motsepe, Jackson considered buying equity at the mine and launching its 50 Cent branded platinum line. [155] On 21 July 2012, Jackson became a licensed boxing promoter when he founded his new company, TMT (Money Team). Licensed to promote in New York, he was in the process of being licensed in Nevada (where most major fights take place in the U.S.). A former amateur boxer, Jackson signed gold medalist and former featherweight Clympic medalist Andre Dirrell. On July 29, 2012, he and boxer Floyd Mayweather Jr. signed IBF featherweight champion Billy Dib. They unveiled plans to challenge box-office dominance in mixed martial arts and transform the landscape into a boxing with TMT Promotions. Boxer Zab Judah also expressed an interest in making a deal with Jackson. In December 2012, Mayweather and Jackson divorced the company, where Jackson took over the promotion company and founded SMS campaigns with Gamboa, Dirrell, Dib, James Kirkland, Luis Olivars and Donte Strayhorn in his stable. Bankruptcy on July 13, 2015, Jackson filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court of the District of Connecticut with a debt of $32,509,549.91 [161] [162] on July 17, 2015, the Court of Justice issued a ruling allowing the creditor to pursue a criminal mistrial against Jackson in a New York state court in connection with the alleged publication of a private video. [164] His assets were listed between $10 million and $50 million in his bankruptcy filing, although he testified under oath that he is worth $4.4 million. [165] Referring to between $10 million and $50 million in debt, and the same amount of assets. At the end of the week, Jackson's bankruptcy lawyers explained documents that legal fees and court decisions of more than $20 million over the past year were the main reason for the filing.

[166] His files listed the 32 entities in which he had a stake. The bankruptcy came days after a jury ordered him to pay $5 million to rapper Rick Ross' ex-girlfriend Lastonia Leviston for invading her privacy by posting an online sex tape of her and another man. [167] In addition, Jackson lost a dispute over a failed business deal to come to fruition with his Sleek headphones, in which Jackson invested more than $2 million. [168] The former partner later accused Jackson of stealing the sleek 50 headphone design, prompting the judge to hand over $17.2 million to the partner. [169] His Connecticut bankruptcy filing alleges that he has seven cars worth more than $500,000, including a 2010 Rolls Royce and a 1966 Chevrolet Coupe. [171] His expenses of $108,000 per month include $5,000 gardening with a monthly income of $185,000, mainly royalties and income from his foreign businesses and investments. The court filing says he also owes money to his stylist, hairdresser and training coach. [172] [173] Other details of the bankruptcy documents included information on two transactions which sold the right to collect royalties on-air of their music. Half the rights to their portfolio were sold to British independent music publishing company Kobalt Music Group for $3 million and the other half a further $3 million, with the sale of their albums allowing Jackson his 100 per cent rights to master recordings by paying only for distribution. [174] Zeisler & Bridgeport law firm, represented 50 Cent in bankruptcy, resulting in Jackson filing a $75 million lawsuit against his lawyers. [175] He argued that his lawyers did a terrible job of representing him, specifically referring to the decline of his failed venture with Sleek Audio headphones and accusing The Wall Street law firm Garvey Schubert Barer of not using the necessary knowledge and skills to combat the circumstances of the case.. $50 million, saying he promised to take care of him for life. The suit, with 15 reasons for the action, was rejected by the judge, who called it an unfortunate story the love relationship went sour. [189] [190] These two have been bickering for years and have even taken their feud on social media several times. [191] [192]
The birth of Marguise changed Jackson's outlook on life: When my son came My life, my priorities changed because I wanted a relationship with him that I didn't have with my father. [193] He commended his son for inspiring his career and for his motivation to go in a different direction. Nonetheless, the two have suffered a fractured relationship, which began when Jackson and Tompkins were killed in 2008. Their feud has been taken to social media several times, including the 2020 World Health Center. Jackson has a tattooed Marguis with an axe on his right biceps (Axe is because I'm a warrior). I don't want him to be one[39] and he's got 50 on his back, Southside and Cold World: I'm the product of that environment. But it's on my back, so it's all behind me. [39] Jackson dated model Daphne Joy and had her second son, Sire Jackson, with her, on September 1, 2012. [197] [198] [199] At the age of two, Sire modeled for Kidz Safe, a headphone brand for children, earning $700,000 through his contract. In 2005, Jackson supported President George W. Bush for his slow response to The Victims of Hurricane Katrina, according to rapper Kanye West. If his conviction prevented him from voting, he said he would have voted for the president. [202] Jackson later said that Bush has less compassion than the average person. Anyway, I don't want to be like George Bush. [203] In September 2007, he told Time that while he did not endorse a candidate in 2008, he liked Hillary [Clinton]. Six months later, the rapper told MTV News that he had exchanged his support for Barack Obama after he heard him speak but had lost interest in politics. [205] [206] Asked for his opinion on President Obama's May 9, 2012 approval of gay marriage, Jackson said: I'm for it ... I've encouraged same-sex activities. I've dealt with fetish areas a few times. [207] He had previously been criticised for his anti-gay comments. [208] [209] [210] Despite numerous songs referring to drug and alcohol use, Jackson remains his main cause of poor experience with alcohol. [211] [212] Forbes noted Jackson's wealth in 2007, ranking him second behind Jay-Z in the rap industry. [213] He lives in a Farmington, Connecticut, mansion formerly owned by ex-boxer Mike Tyson,[214] listing it for sale for $18.5 million to move closer to his son (who lives on Long Island with his ex-girlfriend). [215] The Mayor of Bridgeport, Connecticut announced October 12, 2007 50 Cent Curtis Jackson Day, honoring the rapper with an announcement and a key city. [216] One of Jackson's New York homes, purchased in January 2007 for $2.4 million and the center of a lawsuit between Jackson and Shanigua Tompkins, caught fire on May 31, 2008, while she was filming in Louisiana. In December 2008, he told the Canadian press that he had lost several million the stock market, and unable to sell my Connecticut mansion, had been delayed by the recession before I destroyed it myself, [218] Jackson won in 2009, 2016, when he commented on his beef with Meek Mill: You know, he's not really that bright. The easiest thing you can do is bring other people into statements about what you're saving, right when you're writing music. [220] On May 4, 2016, after joking about a teenager who unbeknownst to Jackson, had a disability, he donated $100,000 to Autism Speaks. [221] Jackson endorsed Democratic nominee Hillary Clinton in 2016. A week later, he withdrew his endorsement, saying on Twitter: 'F---k Donald Trump, I never liked him. On June 29, 1994, Jackson was arrested for selling four cocaine vials to an undercover police officer. He was arrested again three weeks later when police searched his home and found heroin, ten ounces of crack cocaine and a starter pistol. Although Jackson was sentenced to three to nine years in prison, he served six months in boot camp (where he earned his high school equivalsic diploma). He said he didn't use cocaine. [14] Jackson and four of his entourage were arrested shortly before 2 a.m. on 31:2002 when police found a .25-caliber pistol and a .45-caliber pistol in a parked car (which they searched through through tinted windows) outside a Manhattan nightclub. The rapper was charged with two felonies for possession of a firearm. [226] Jackson was sentenced to two years' probation on July 22, 2005 in the May 2004 incident when he was charged with three counts of assault and battery after jumping into the audience when he was hit by a water bottle. [227] Lawsuits against the Use of Image Jackson filed a lawsuit against the advertising company, Traffix Pearl River, New York, on July 21, 2007, using his reputation for promoting it he said threatened his safety. The employee informed him about the Internet ad on myspace page. According to court documents, the ad was a cartoon image of a rapper with a Shoot the rapper and you win $5,000 or five ringtones guaranteed. Although his name was not used in the ad, the picture allegedly resembled him and suggested that he approved the product. The lawsuit, calling the ad a vile, tasteless and despicable use of Jackson's image, which quite literally called [ed] violence against him, sought unspecified punitive damages and a permanent injunction against the use of his image without permission. [228] [229] Use of the name in 2008. change their name in one day to 50 Cent 79 Cent, 89 Cent, or 99 Cent, in line with the pricing of some of its items, and they donate $10,000 to charity of their choice. The case was settled out of court. In May 2016, while walking at Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky International Airport, accusing him of being under the influence. The cleaner was a hearing-impaired autistic teenager named Andrew Farrell. The parents of the janitor had seen a viral video of disrespect and wanted to sue Jackson for his action against their child. The lawsuit was originally over a million dollars, but the parents settled a $100,000 donation for autism talks and his apology. [231] [232] [233] [234] in 2016, the judge announced that Brandon Parrott had granted Dr. Dre and 50 Cent the right to sing Bamba for the song P.I.M.P. [236] Other civil and criminal cases In one of his New York homes, purchased for $2.4 million in January 2007 and the center of a lawsuit between Jackson and Shanigua Tompkins, caught fire on May 30, 2008, while he was filming in Louisiana. On August 5, 2013, Jackson pleaded not guilty to one count of domestic violence and four counts of vandalism in a Los Angeles County court. If convicted of all charges, he faces up to five years in prison and a $46,000 fine. Model-actress Daphne Joy accused Jackson of kicking her and looting her bedroom during an argument at her condominium in the Toluca Lake neighborhood of Los Angeles on June 23. He allegedly caused $7,100 in property damage by leaving the scene before police arrived. Judge Ann Nevins returned to court for the Instagram messages he made over several months, [238] He said Jackson was not entirely clear about his money and noted posts the rapper's shows stacks of his money. engaged in a public dispute between rapper Ja Rule and his label, Murder Inc. Records, saying that a friend robbed jewelry and Rule said that the conflict stemmed from a Queens video shoot, when Jackson didn't like to see him get so much love in the neighborhood. Jackson had a fight at the Hit Factory in New York in March 2000, and received three stitches for a stab wound. [240] Rapper Black Child claimed responsibility for the stabbing, saying he was acting in self-defense when he thought someone grabbed the gun. [243] The sworn testimony of an IRS agent referred to ties to The Murder, and Kenneth Supreme McGriff, suspected of being a New York drug lord. Participation in the murder of Jam Master Jay and Jackson in the murder of a rap artist who has released songs containing lyrics regarding McGriff's criminal activities. The rap artist was shot in 2000, survived and then refused to cooperate with law enforcement in connection with the shooting. Messages that have been forwarded over to Murder Inc. a pager reveals that McGriff is involved in an ongoing conspiracy to kill this rap artist, and that he communicates with Murder Inc. employees regarding the purpose. The feud over Jackson-Ja's reign was confirmed in May 2011. And Rule says I'm cool. We're not going to do anything anymore. We never cooperate. It's just what it is. You don't have to be at war with anyone, but it's also like the U.S. and another country they might not get along with. We don't have to go to war, but we're not friends. But we can fall into the world. He does it and he doesn't think about me, and I don't think about him. On August 7, 2015, a feud between the two rappers later reignited when Ja Rule gave feedback to a social follower via Twitter over a similar feud between Meek Mill and Drake. Enraged, Jackson later responded to photos and comments via Instagram, only alongside drake. On January 19, 2018, when Ja Rule took to Twitter, the feud erupted three years later when Ja Rule took to Twitter, calling out 50 cents on social media. [246] 50 cents responded by buying and releasing the first four lines of his concert. Game While Jackson was close to Game before the last released of his debut album, Documentary, they grew apart. After the documentary's release, Jackson felt that the game was disloyal by saying that he did not want to engage in G-Unit's feuds with other rappers (such as Nas, Jadakiss and Fat Joe) and his desire to work with artists with whom G-Unit was hostile. He said he wrote six songs on the album and didn't get proper credit, which Game denied. [247] 50 Cent 2007 concert Jackson later dismissed Game from G-Unit hot 97.
After the announcement, Game (a guest earlier in the evening) tried to enter the building of his entourage. After they were denied entry, one of his companions was shot in the leg in a confrontation, where a group of men left the building. [248] [249] As the situation escalated, the rappers held a joint press conference announcing their reconciliation[250] and fans were unsure whether the rappers had staged a publicity stunt to increase the sales of their recently released albums. [251] After cooling down, G-Unit criticised the credibility of The Street and announced that they would not appear on its albums. During Summer Jam's performance, Game announced a boycott of G-Unit, which it called G-Unot. [253] After Jam Performance Game recorded 300 Bars and Runnin, extended diss G-Unit and Roc-A-Fella Records for mixtape You Know What It Is Vol. 3. Jackson responded with his Piggy Bank music video, with a Game like Mr. Potato Head and parodies from other competitors. They have continued to attack each other, with Game releasing two more mixtapes: Ghost Unit and mixtapes: Ghost Unit and mixtape in response to Game's pictures of the G-Unit dressed as Village People. [255] Game, the contract after Entertainment, signed with Geffen Records to terminate its contractual obligations with G-Unit (although it is alleged that Jackson pressured Dr. Dre to fire him). [256] G-Unit member Spider Loc has insulted Game songs, and the latter released 240 Bars (Spider Joke) and 100 Bars (Funeral) to attack G-Unit and Loc. Jackson's answer was Not Rich, still Lyin, mocking The Game. Lloyd Banks responded to the game in the Rap City freestyle-booth segment, followed by Game Diss Song (SoundScan), ridiculing the 13-position drop of The Rotten Apple album on the Billboard 200 leaderboard and its disappointing second-week sales. Banks responded with his mixtape Mo Money Bank Pt. 5: Gang Green Season continues on Showtime (Game's Over), said that Jackson wrote a party documentary and ridiculed Game suicidal thoughts. [quote required] in October 2006, the game gave Jackson a peace opening (which was not immediately answered), but two days later he said in Power 106 that the peace offer was valid for one day only. [259] In several songs about the doctor's lawyer, he hinted that the feud was over. He said in 2009, according to Tony Yayo, neither Jackson nor G-Unit accepted his apologies and the game has continued its calls for a boycott of G-Uno at concerts. Jackson released Both Disrespectful on Before I Self Destruction, directed by Jay-Z, Game and Young Buck. [263] The game responded to Shake, poking fun at the music video at Jackson's Candy Shop. On August 1, 2016, 50 Cent ended his twelve-year feud with Game when the two were ace of diamonds strip club and Game said: What happened to that shit was 12 years ago. [264] Rick Ross started a feud with Jackson over an alleged incident at the 2008 BET Hip Hop Awards, Jackson told news sources he doesn't remember seeing Ross there. Later, Ross's mafia music was leaked online, with lyrics apparently disparaging Jackson. Several days later, Jackson released Officer Ricky (Go Head, Try Me) in response to Mafia Music. The next day, appeared on Shade 45 (Eminem's Sirius channel) and told Jackson to come up with something better in 24 hours. Before leaving Venezuela, Jackson uploaded a video (Warning Shot) and the first in a series of Officer Ricky cartoons. In early February, he uploaded a YouTube video in which he interviewed Ross' mother of one. Tia; He says Ross is actually a corrections officer. On February 5, 2009, the game called Seattle radio station KUBE. Asked about the dispute between Jackson and Ross, she sided with Jackson and offered to mediate: Rick Ross, holla your boyfriend, husband and 50 eating you, boy. [267] In his album Deeper Than Rap, Ross Jackson refers to Cold Blood, and Jackson's mock funeral is part of the song's video. When the song was released, Ross said he ended Jackson's career. [268] Rick Ross is Albert from CB4. Have you ever seen a movie? He's Albert, Jackson replied in an interview. It's never going to get worse than that. You get a guy who was a corrections officer who came out and built his entire career by writing material from a drug dealer's perspective, like Highway Ricky Ross. [269] Their feud rekindled at the 2012 BET Hip Hop Awards, where Jackson and G-Unit members Kidd Kidd, Mike Knox, Tony Yayo were seen on video attacking Gunplay (a member of the Ross Maybach Music Group). The Gunplay
