Weiser's fourth album, Maladroit, was released in May 2002 for most positive reviews, but did not match the sales of green albums. Weiser's firth album, Make Believe, was released in May 2005; despite mixed reviews, the single, Beverly Hills became Weezer's first single to top the US Modern Rock chart track and the first to reach ten on the Billboard Hot 100 in June 2008, Weezer's own third album title, also known as Red Album, with TR-808s, synths, Southern Rape, and Baroque Counter, was released to mix to the reviews. Single Led It became the band's third top-of-the-charts modern rock track, backed by a successful YouTube music video, Weezer's seventh album, Raditude (2009) and the eighth album, Hurley (2010), with more modern pop productions and co-writing songs with other artists. More successful mixed reviews and moderate sales of the band's ninth and tenth albums, everything will be Alright in the End (2014) and the self-titled album known as The White Album (2017), is back again to sound more mainstream pop. In 2018, they released two more self-titled albums: Surprise Teal Album (2019), consisting of pop covers and black albums (2019) related to the dark sounds of pop, rock and electricity. Electrode
