WEEKLY NEWSLETTER GREATER OR LESS CARD GAME This game has become a hit with my kids. You just need a few cups and a few 20-dimensional game cards. BEAR TO COMPARE We used our favorite bear counting for this fun activity. Children lined up bears on maps, compared numbers, and recorded it on their comparison sheet record numbers. We occasionally share products that we think you can smell in our posts. If you find them useful and buy them through our links, we can get a small rollback that helps us keep the supply cabinet stocked. WHO MORE SCOOPS Who doesn't like to build ice cream cones? The kids really enjoyed finding out who got the most scoop and they got a bit of fine engine practice as well as using these fun Gator Grabbers. COMPARING NUMBERS - CANDY CORN MATH FREEBIE Kids love to learn with candy, and as it happens, Candy Corn does fantastic more than less than characters. We share this fun activity with your FREE! Click this button to download the entry sheet. WHAT IS ONE LESS? Spinners can turn any training activity into a game and we love these transparent ones that go with all your favorite spin activities. It's much easier than a pencil and a paperclip, and kids love them. COMPARING NUMBERS TOWERS Building Towers is one of my child's favorite things to do for the centers. This time we used the dice and turned it into a comparison of build-a-tone numbers. Snap Cubes works great for this activity, but you can use other favorite blocks as well. MORE OR LESS THAN RAIN CLOUDS Who knew that umbrellas can make such fun more than less than a symbol? A little Brad made it one spin, and the kids could compare their playdough to raindrops after counting and shaping them all. WHO HAS MORE FISH? We used a goldfish for this fun comparison numbers-up, but you can also use plastic fish toys. Either way, it's a lot of fun. HOW MUCH MORE OR LESS? Magnetic numbers are dislocating this activity to a new level. Children mix and match and put the numbers in boxes. They then calculate how much more or less and record the number. GREATER or LESS THAN FLIP BOOK This game is fun because you get flip pages for 3 different sections of the book to make the statement true. Turn up and down and keep making fun new combinations. You can get them to write down their findings on a list of numbers comparing records from the set. HOW MUCH BUTTONS - COMPARING NUMBERS We love our button shapes, and for this activity, kids get to count on a number that matches the set with the card. It requires some thinking, but it's a lot of fun. MAKE THEM EQUAL GUMBALLS Can you make them equal? Use buttons, point poms other circle shape manipulatives to make the number of gumballs equal in each machine. ONE MORE OR ONE LESS APPLES We again used our transparent spinners for this fun activity. The children either had to in a new apple or cross one and then write down the number. CATERPILLAR NUMBER ORDER Sometimes the comparison of numbers involves knowing which one came before and which comes after. This simple activity works on this skill. The comparison is less and more.
