There are five main leadership skills that need to be improved to give influence and create a movement. Here are five leadership skills:1. Communication when it comes to leadership, someone has to communicate effectively. The strategy will not be successful if the team inside the job doesn't understand what we're saying because we can't define it clearly and well. The leader always makes sure the team can understand the task.2. AwarenessA leader should take care of this process. They are required to see what way is effective when it comes to scoring goals for teams. The leader should also be aware of the rapid life changes. Therefore, they can be prepared for the worst of probabilities.3. Honesty/integrity of a good leader not only The result, they also put trust and respect for each other. This can be done by being honest and true to any situation. Each deserves a truth.4. Relationship building in a team, not every just producing or doing their job. A great leader always ensures that all team members are connected with a good and healthy relationship. A team can run if members can accompany.5. Proper leader innovation is needed to be creative and realize changes must be applied to develop workflows. They are responsible for the challenges and create the team guide so that all members achieve the same goals as originally set. Welcome to Leader on My Online!
