It comes with a step-by-step assembly manual to support the process. Some reviewers commented on montage as fast as 15 minutes, others an hour and a half. No one said the assembly was difficult. Know your manufacturer: The 315 CSX recumbent is manufactured by ProForm, an established company in the healthcare and fitness industry. You have a good reputation for the delivery of highly professional and inexpensive training equipment such as the ProForm 440 ES recumbent. In addition to recumbents, they manufacture many other fitness equipment such as rowing machines, treadmills and hybrid trainers. What we love about the ProForm 315 CSX recumbent bike: ProForm has built a great training device in the 315 CSX recumbent bike again. This bike is solid, well built and offers a smooth, guiet cycling movement. The best thing about this bike is by far the console. You can't find such a console on most top-end recumbents. By comparison, take a look at one of the models that are higher than this, including SOLE Fitness, Diamondback Fitness and even Nautilus! Console The computer of the ProForm 315 CSX recumbent exercise bike has many options that you will not usually find in this price range or on top-end bikes. The Graphixx display is large and allows you to connect an iPod® or MP3 player, so you can have a musical motivation during your workout. One of the most beautiful features are the 20 programmed workouts developed by certified professional trainers who automatically adjust the resistance during training. Finally, the 315 CSX recumbent iFit® compatible. If you don't have a subscription yet, you'll run another ten dollars a month, but this will greatly enhance your enjoyment of this elliptical machine. Resistance the ProForm 315 CSX recumbent with1 resistance ensures a smooth, smooth transition between the planes. These are set electronically via the console, which is another feature. If you are looking for a good recumbent will provide an intensive workout, you want to look for one with at least 20 levels. Apart from that, the 315 CSX recumbent will definitely offer 16 levels an intensive workout. What's not so great: The ProForm 315 CSX recumbent will definitely offer 16 levels an intensive workout. flaw in it. It's hardly worth mentioning, but if we have to choose something, it could be the heart rate monitor. You also need to make sure you hold the handles for at least 15 seconds to get a good read, while a chest strap monitor continuously measures your pulse during exercise. Last word on the ProForm 315 CSX recumbent: The ProForm 315 CSX recumbent is definitely hard to beat. It is a solid bike that offers a quiet workout and has a decent amount of resistance levels. However, the best feature of this bike is its console. In this price range, it's almost impossible to find 20 pre-programmed workouts and the ability to connect to apps. Even better, the iFit® app that comes with this console is probably the best as far as options are on the market. This app opens a whole library of possible workouts, including workouts from fitness experts like Jillian Michaels. Again, the ProForm 315 CSX recumbent is built for comfort and designed to keep you back for more, a helpful boost on the way to optimal fitness.
