Educate children from 11 to 16 years old. At its last Ofsted inspection in October 2016, the academy in general was rated Buena. [3] The school is also home to the Lowestoft Railway and Lowestoft Ladies Hockey Clubs[5] and the KITE Media Centre [6] History Notley Road School was originally opened on August 31, 1934 and was officially opened once the buildings were completed on July 27, 1938. Children over the age of 11 were admitted and taught separately. Notley Road School was renamed Alderman Woodrow School after John Woodrow was the chairman of the lowestoft Education Committee, who implemented progressive educational reforms at Lowestoft. The school's name was changed back to Kirkley Community High School in 1970 until June 2010, being administered by Suffolk County Council from 1974[1][7][8][9] before becoming east point academy as East Point Academy for the 2011/12 academic year as part of the Academies Enterprise Trust (AET). Students this initial academic year received free uniforms for reopening[10] In December 2014, the Inspiration Trust (IT)-based Norfolk formally took over the academy's career and appointed Kevin Blakey as director. [11] The main reasons (see the 2014 procurement section below) behind this was the failure of the AET to move the academy out of special measures and that IT was better geographically positioned with its Norfolk base to continuously improve the academy, compared to the relative isolation under AET and its other academies. On October 16, 1987, a major storm struck the area. A classroom block at Kirkley High School was demolished in destruction. [12] The school will be renovated with government funding that was secured by the AET before it was taken over by Inspiration Trust [13] Ofsted According According the inspection ofsted in March 2015 (3 months after IT had acquired the academy) the school's management was rated as good although other criteria require improvement. Overall, the academy has improved from being rated insufficient to requires improvement. [14] This was updated to Bueno in October 2016. [3] As schools rated as good are usually inspected every 4 years, the next inspection expires at the end of 2020, however Ofsted reserves the right to visit any educational establishment without notice at any time for any reason/concern. In October 2019, the academy received criticism from Ofsted for the high number of students who were removed from the academy list in 11. A suggested reason for this is to eliminate under-performance or troublesome students. Although not illegal, Ofsted considers the practice unacceptable. The Ofsted report mentions that 'Leaders have good intentions, but they were not analyzing their inclusion data closely enough. This means that no common reasons were discussed for students leaving and therefore no solutions could be formulated to prevent students from leaving the academy. [16] 2014 Inspiration Trust takes over After 3 years under the management of the AET, the academy was placed in special measures by Ofsted. In July 2014, it was announced that the academy faced a takeover of the Norfolk-based Inspiration Trust because the academy made insufficient progress towards changing special measures. A spokesman for the Department of Education (DfE) said: We have consistently demonstrated that when we find failure we will not hesitate to take action, regardless of the type of school. We are now working closely with AET and the school to ensure that students' education is not interrupted. A follow-up inspection in May 2014 noted a steady improvement in student achievement and progress, saying East Point was making reasonable progress towards eliminating special measures. [17] Dame Rachel de Souza, the Executive Director of the Inspiration Trust was approached by the DfE about the academy's addition to its growing portfolio. The DfE believed that its confidence was in a better geographical and cohesive position compared to the AET, with the aim of getting the academy out of special measures quickly. (In July 2014, the next academy sponsored by AET to East Point Academy was at Felixstowe, approximately 40-50 miles away[18]) There is a geographical logic in change. We are [East Point Academy is] 10 miles from Great Yarmouth, where we have the elementary academy. I think that's what can make a difference. [19] In Director (Neil Powell) and other senior staff members threatened to leave the Academy if the proposed acquisition materialized. This was mainly due to the disruption it would cause to ongoing progress towards the academy movement special measures. [20] In December 2014, the Vice Director of the Inspiration Trust sponsored Theford Academy, Kevin Blakey, replacing Neil Powell as Director of East Point Academy, when the Inspiration Trust completed the acquisition. [21] Mr. Powell quoted that he would stay with the AET[22] and was installed Director of the AET-sponsored Unity City Academy in Middlesbrough in January 2015. [24] Following DfE's January 2016 letter complaining about unacceptably low standards and not having taken out the Special Measures Academy,[25] Mr. Powell resigned and left UCA in April 2016, returning to East Anglia in September 2016 as director of North Walsham High School, which is administered by the local council and not by the AET. [26] In October 2016, approximately 2 years after the Inspiration Trust acquired the academy, she was rated Buena by Ofsted. [27] In addition, by the criteria Effectiveness of Leadership and Management, he was rated As Exceptional. [28] Lowestoft Ladies Hockey Club Logo Sports Connections The academy has many connections to the sport. Lowestoft Ladies Hockey Club and Lowestoft Railway Hockey Club are based on the academy. In 2000, the academy (such as KHS) became a sports specialist school[29] culminating in the success of association football on May 2, 2008, the school lifted the U16 Royal Air Force Girls' Cup. They beat Bridgnorth Endowed School 3-2 at city of Manchester Stadium. [30] The success of women's football continued in May 2009, winning the U14 Suffolk County Cup, beating Stowmarket High School 2–1. Both of Kirkley's goals were scored by Hannah Walsh in the final played at the Gainsborough Sports Centre in Ipswich. [31] Gene Simmons Rock School in fall 2005, Channel 4's second Gene Simmons' Rock School series was filmed at the Academy (when it was Kirkley Community High School). Auditions were made, and after much deliberation, 11 students were chosen and subsequently taught the basics of rock music by KISS bassist Gene Simmons. Simmons eventually selected five of the students to act as a rock group. The show culminated in the group opening for Judas Priest and Anthrax in front of 2,300 fans in Los Angeles. [33] The band's lead singer, Lil' Chris, signed with RCA Records. [34] Notable Alumni Plaque commemorating the opening of the new music wing by The Darkness in 2004 as Kirkley Community High School Students King of Shaves founder Will King attended in the late 1970s. His father, Tony King, was Head of Physical Education at the school beginning in the early 1960s Justin Hawkins, Dan Hawkins and Ed Graham of the British rock group The Darkness are alumni school. [36] They later returned to school to open the new music wing in 2004. Singer and TV presenter lil' Chris, who appeared in the Rock School series that was filmed at school, went on to release two albums and and Choose. Olympic bronze medalist, Middleweight boxer Commonwealth silver medalist and Big Brother: Celebrity Kidnapping housemate Anthony Ogogo is a former school student. He has appeared on many other television shows as a guest and commercials for Subway. A former waveney member of Parliament, David Porter was a drama teacher at Terry Deary School, most notable for writing the Series Horrible Histories, which he taught at school between 1975 and 1977, before becoming a well-known author.
