So, I recently got myself a new phone. Switched from Android to iOS (because I've never tried an iPhone before). Now, having payment options and loyalty cards right on your phone is very convenient. So, I downloaded the Starbucks app, among others. However, I couldn't log in. I kept getting a message that said: We're sorry a system error occurred. Please try again later. No matter how many times I tried again later, I couldn't get rid of that error. Oddly enough, it worked on my old phone, and still worked on my work phone (both of which are Android). Usually searching with this phrase would bring up a lot of fixes, but unfortunately everyone could find other frustrated people unable to make it work. Looking at the reviews in the App Store, I could see some people having this problem, but mostly it worked great for people. The non-installation, re-installation, and reboot did not work. None of the fixes that I found worked for me (one talked about turning off and back on the automatic clock, for some reason). What finally got me on the way to fixing my problem was reading about how someone was trying to make a new account instead of logging into their old account. So, I tried that on a whim... and it worked. Now I'm completely confused. But something really stuck to me when creating a new account, and it was the password requirement that made it mandatory to have a lower case letter, top case letter, number, and special character. On this bogus account, I wanted the password to be as simple as possible, so I just used one special character. Compare that to the password on my current account, which was a complex random password generated in LastPass. It's a long way to get to the point. But here's how I fixed the system error: I changed my password. I used one special character in the new password and it worked like a charm. I don't know why it was a problem... maybe it's something about iOS and special characters (because I had a lot of...). So if someone stumbles on this page with the same error, I just wanted to suggest a fix and hope it works for you.
