There are a few games though that your kids can play with each other and you can join in the fun too! One of these games is the singing of action songs. Singing is not only a fun activity for your kids, but also a great way to establish a solid foundation in terms of motor skills and communication skills. Small motor skills are the ability to control small body muscles, including fingers, toes, tongue and lips. Singing allows toddlers to exercise muscles in and around the mouth. Singing also helps to develop speech and communication skills. Children's songs usually have rhymed words that expose children to acoustics and sound awareness skills. According to Scholastic, this will allow them to speak, banish and learn to read with greater ease. In addition, singing with parents is supposed to promote mutual communication skills at a young age. Songs that include action and movement will also help toddlers with rhythm, spatial awareness, balance and coordination. Here are 3 popular children's songs that you can introduce to your child. These songs also include light dance moves that go along with lyrics that will get your little ones moving around. Are the lyrics (excerpt) your ears going low? They oscillate sideways and forward? It is often singed and played by musicians who may or may not be trained professionally. Tools commonly used in the genre include accordions, banjos and harmonicas. Composers such as Percy Granger, Soltan Kodali and Bela Bartok were avid collectors of folk songs. Individual songs may not have been recorded immediately when first composed, and the author may be lost in time, making for many versions of long-loved melodies. A specific version of the song can become well known when a popular artist records it, or when versions are collected by archivists and historians in the field, such as Alan Lomax in the 1930s and 1940s, and these recordings are released. In many cases the lyrics to folk songs came from existing nursery rhymes or poems, and some of the nursery rhymes were variations, depending on the region or time. Thus, these folk songs may have lyrics that are a little different from those you are familiar with. Here are 19 favorite children's folk songs, as well as their lyrics and notes, for learning and singing along. Tom Stewart/Getty Images Aiken Drum is a Scottish folk song and children's rhyme that probably comes from Aikendrum, a Jacobite song about the Battle of Sherifmuir. Alternative versions of the song have different products for items of clothing such as hat, shoes, pants and shirts, or the tools he played on the moon, lived Drum.And his hat was made of good cream cheese, good cream cheese, good cream cheese, good cream cheese, and his hat was made of good cream cheese, and his name was Aiken Drum.And his buttons were made of penny bread, penny bread, penny bread, penny of bread, and his cake was made of bark pies, and his cake was made of bark pies. bark was made of bark pies, and his cake was made of bark pies, and his cake bark was made of bark pies, and his breeches from Alouette is folk song about plucking feathers from larks after being woken up from his song (how we would threaten a or chicken before cooking and eating a bird). French lyrics and English translations follow. Alouette je te plumerai la tete la tete, et la tete Alouette, Alouette, Gentille Alouette je te plumerai la tete la tete, gentille Alouette je te plumerai la tete la tete. lovely) LarkLark, I'm going to rip you off, I'm going to rip your head off, and head, o-o-o-tisket-a-tashket was made in America and used as a base for the record 1938. First recorded in the late 19th century, this song was a children's game rhyme sung while children danced around in a circle. A-tisket a-tasketA-tisket a-tasketA green and yellow basketI wrote a letter of my love and on the way I dropped it, I dropped it, I dropped it, I dropped it, and on the way I dropped it, and took it to market. Baa Baa Black Sheep was originally an English nursery rhyme, which can orally date back to 1731. Baa, baa, black sheep, do you have wool? Yes, sir, yes sir, three bags are full. One for the master, one for the lady, and one for the little boyWho lives down the alley. The famous French children's rhyme Frere Jack, Frur-Jack, Dormez? Dormez Vous? Sonnes le matinees, Sonnes le matinee Ding Ding Dong, Dean Dean DongGo do you sleep, are you sleeping? Brother John, Brother John Here we go around a mulberry bush, a mul morning. It's how we brush our teeth, brush our teeth, brush our teeth, brush our teeth, brush our teeth early in the morning. It's how we wash our clothes, put on our clothes, brush our teeth, his hands is a traditional American spiritual, which was the first in 1927, though the song is older than that. He's got the whole world in his handsOn got the whole world in his hands He first in 1927, though the song is older than that. He's got the whole world in his handsOn got the whole wor his handsOn got the whole world in his handsOn got the world in his handsOn got the wh all day. Choir Home, a house on the landfill where deer and antelopes play; Where you rarely hear the discouraging word And the sky is not cloudy all day. Where the air is so clean, marshmallows are so loose, the breezes are so soft and light that I wouldn't exchange my house for a range for all cities so bright. (repeat chorus) The Red Man was pressed out of this part of WestHe, probably no longer to return, on the banks of the Red River, where rarely if ever their shimmering bonfires burn. How often at night when the heavens brightened with light from the sparkling stars When I stood here amazed and asked how I looked if their glory exceeded ours. Oh, I love these wild prairies where I roamThe curlew I love to hear screams I love the white rocks and the antelope flocks that graze on the mountain tops of the green. Oh, give me the ground where the bright diamond sand slowly descends downstream; Where a graceful white swan goes glide along like a maid in heaven's sleep. The (repeat chorus) English nursery rhyme lyrics that became London Bridge falls may date back to the 17th century, but the current melody and lyrics were first published together in 1744. London Bridge is broken, my fair lady. Build it with wood and clay, wood and clay, wood and clay, Build it with wood and clay, My fair lady. Wood and clay are washed away, washed away, washed away, washed away, washed away, washed away, wood and clay are washed away, my fair lady. A 19th-century origin, Mary's American nursery rhyme Was a Little Lamb was originally a poem called Lamb was first published by Boston's Sarah Joseph Hale. A version of the nursery rhyme here. Mary had a little lamb, a little lamb, a little lamb, Mary had a little lamb, which was as white as snow. And wherever Mary went, Mary went, wherever Mary went, wherever Mary went, which was against the rules, It made children laugh and play, It made children laugh and play to see the lamb at school. And so the teacher turned out to be, it turned out, and so the teacher found himself, but still, he lingered nearby, He waited patiently, oh, oh, He waited patiently about until Mary appeared. Why Mary loves lamb, you know lamb, you know lamb, you know lamb, you waited patiently, oh, oh, He waited patiently about until Mary appeared. Why Mary loves lamb, you know lamb, you know lamb, you know lamb, you know lamb, you waited patiently about until Mary appeared. Why Mary loves lamb, you know lamb, you know lamb, you know lamb, you know lamb, you waited patiently about until Mary appeared. know why Mary loves lamb, you know, the Master replied. One of the most popular children's rhymes, the song for the children of Old MacDonald had a farm, E-I-I-OAnd on his farm, he had a cow, E-I-E-I-OWith mu-mu here and mu-mu there There MuVezde Moo-MOld MacDonald had a farm, E-I-I-O (repeat with other animals and their sounds) The original version of Pop Goes the Weasel was written in 1850s but the published version was made in 1914 in New York. The meaning of the song translates as pop away suddenly. Round and round cobbler bench (or all around the mulberry bush) Monkey chased the weasel, the monkey thought, twas all in funPop! There's a weasel coming. Penny for a coil threadA penny for a needle, here's how the money goes, pop! There's a weasel coming. The ring around Rosie first appeared in print in 1881, but he reportedly had already sung in a version close to its current one in the 1790s. It's probably just an urban legend that it's about the plague; it's more likely that the song was for a doughnut game that the kids played as the melody is singed while the kids hold hands and circle around and then fall to the ground on the last line. Ring around rosieA pocket full of posies; Ashes All fall. Theorized as a song rising from American minstrels, the children's song and children's round and sometimes includes a game of action rowing. The song was written in 1852, and the modern record was created in 1881. String, string, paddle the boat Gentle downstream. Fun, fun, fun, fun, fun, fun, life, but a dream. Carl Sandburg published It Will Comin Circle Mountain in 1927. This traditional folk song is also used as a children's song and originally comes from the Christian song When the mountain, she will be coming around the mountain, she will be coming around the mountain, she will be coming around the mountain when she comesShe'll be driving six white horses when she comesShe'll be driving six white horses, she will be driving six white horses when she comesShe'll be driving six white horses, she will be driving six white horses, she will be driving six white horses when she comesShe'll be driving six white horses, she will be driving six white horses when she comesShe'll be driving six white horses, she will be driving six white horses when she comesShe'll be driving six white horses, she will be driving six white horses when she comesShe'll be driving six white horses when she comesShe'll be driving six white horses, she will be driving six white horses when she comesShe'll be driving six wh do I do? Lost my partner, what do I do? Lost my partner, what do I do? Co to my lu, my darlene. Skip, song. The lyrics that most people sing like the whole song actually chorus are much bigger songs. Take me to a ball game, take me with the crowd. Buy me Peanuts and Cracker Jack, I don't care if I never come back, let me root, root for the home team if they don't win it's a shame. For it's one, two, three strokes, you're out on the old ball game. Published hundreds of years ago, Three Blind Mice evolved in texts and was adapted by several composers. Today it is a children's rhyme and a musical round. The idea that it was written about three men who tried to conspire against queen Mary may just be a myth, because the early published texts from 1609 have not had mice affected. Three blind mice, three blind miceVide as they work, See how they work, See how they work! They all fled after farmer's wife cut off their tails with a knife, when have you ever seen a man in your lifeinth of life With three blind mice? The popular folk song Twinkle Little Star takes its lyrics from a poem by Jane Taylor, which was published in the form of a song in 1806. Glitter, flicker, little star, how I wonder what you are! Above the world as high as a diamond in the sky. When the blazing sun is gone, when it shines nothing on, then you show your little light, shine, flicker, during the night. Then the traveler in the dark blue sky you hold, and often through my curtains look, because you never close your eyes until the sun is in the sky. As your bright and tiny sparkLights traveler in the dark, although I don't know that you, Twinkle, twinkle, twinkle, twinkle, twinkle, twinkle, a little star.
