Creating an organized learning guide may give you the confidence you need to successfully prepare for your online university tests and ratings. Read an example and tips on how to create this useful tool. 1. Take the time to gather all the necessary information you need to create your own learning guide. Normally, you can find it in places like Your Notes Name the basic concepts and concepts to highlight in the tutorial And group similar information together in your textbook Note the pages where review is required If necessary, read the footnotes and review questions at the end of each chapter 2. Look for holes and find information to fill them out. 3. Write down all the questions you have, and find the answers before the test. The structure of the learning guide allows you to group basic ideas, support ideas and additional information. For example: 1. Titles under the topic of the left-hand side represent the topic of key ideas, such as Chemistry. A. This group represents supportive ideas for a key idea, such as Protons B. Neutrons C. Electrons Additional information may be placed on bullet points under supportive ideas. For example, electrons are negatively charged Electrons have energy levels and lower levels 2. Indents each heading to ensure that terms and their types are visually separated. As you can see from the example above, a textbook is an easy way to organize what you know to prepare for a test. By involving this process in your study time, you will be more confident and one step closer to your online degree. Degrees.
