After the Portnait players have completed the entire Season 8 week 7 challenges, they will be able to collect a hidden battle star throughout the week. Follow this guide to find it. A new week means a new set of challenges for Portnait players. For Season 8 Week 7, players are tasked with visiting 3 of Fortnite's pirate camps in one game, eliminating 5 opponents in named locations, a uniquely staged challenge to dealing damage while on the Zipline and then to those on the Zipline. Completing these and other challenges will reward players with a charging screen depicting the Fortnite season 8 week 7 of the secret battle star location. When you look at the charging screen (described above), it's hard to find the clue. As Portnait season 8 week 6, the clue is harder to decipher than previous charging screens, but a look on the left side of it will reveal some marks on the wall. While the location that Luxe Skin plunges into is unknown, these marks were used to determine the location of the secret battle star. Players will want to return to Fortnite's wooden bunny they visited in Week 6 and land on his back bow to find the secret battle star. It's worth noting that, while it's not usually a high-density area, players should expect to see others go after this secret battle star, especially considering that Portnait Season 8 is officially on the back of its lifespan. With only a few weeks left in Season 8, it seems likely that many Fortnite players will begin wrapping up challenges and collecting their secret battle stars in banners. For players in this situation, we have put together this guide on how to find the locations of all portnait season 8 secret battle star banners. What now comes at the tail end of Portnait Season 8 or as Epic Games accumulates until Season 9 remains to be seen, but it's worth mentioning that the entrepreneur is not one to rest on its laurels. Season 8 saw the volcano break out of the ground, so Season 9 would have to be big to stand out. Fortnite is out now for Android, iOS, PC, PS4, Switch, and Xbox One. While the location in the image itself is unknown, if you look closely you can see a picture of a battle star on top of a rabbit's head pulled against the wall in the background. With this information in mind, make your way to the wooden rabbit, which is located north of Snobby Beaches on the west side of the island. Go to the location and climb to the top of the rabbit to find the hidden battle star and claim it yourself. With the secret battle star found, return to our other Portnait guides for more help. Here you can find the hidden battle star in season 8, week 7 charging screen. Credit: Epic Games This week's charging screen finally includes the Tier 100 leather, Luxe. Looks like she's raiding graves. There's a lot of V-Buck gold and other treasure in the cave she found. The charging screen, which you'll get after completing all season 8, Week 7 challenges, also includes a clue as to the whereabouts of this week's hidden battle star, which will give you one whole layer on your way to the top. However, it's a pretty hidden clue. To find it, you'll want to highlight the picture a little. Once you do, you'll see this strange skit on the cave wall: here's the clue. Credit: Epic/Erik Kain So... That's interesting. What exactly is this strange painting? Well, it looks like a rabbit turned on its side. If you flip the picture, you'll see it more clearly. Battle Star Be over the rabbit's back. Luckily, there's a giant wooden rabbit to go looking for. You'll find it right here: here to find the rabbit and the hidden battle star. Credit: Epic/Erik Kain It's cool to see Luxe appear on these charging screens. She's the first female from the 100-ply skin, and she's just cool everywhere. I'm not sure how she fits into the larger conflict between the Ice King and the Fire King, but she could be involved in the excavation sites and a mysterious helicopter flying from place to place across the map. She's definitely the heroine of Indiana Jones/Lara Croft. Anyway, happy hunting and good luck with this week's challenges! See our guide to this week's challenges here. Portnait: Battle Royale players will be able to find a new secret fight star once season eight, week seven challenges become available today. Players have to meet certain requirements to find this secret item, though. They must complete seven full sets of weekly challenges, including premium ones, to be able to see the fight star in their games. Players who have only the eight battle pass free season or who finish only the week seven challenges while having challenges to complete in previous weeks will not be able to see this item. From week eight onwards, completing every seven weeks will allow players to see it. The secret battle star is only in standard situations and limited time, except for a playground. All other situations, including competitive ones like Arena, are fair game. The location of this secret battle star is hinted at in week seven screen charging, which is one of the players to open once they complete seven sets of weekly challenges. It shows Lux falling in an underground treasure cave, and there's something carved on the wall to her left. Looks like it's a rabbit with a battle star emblem on its back. That's the clue, and it's enough for us to guess where players should go.
