Moscow puzzles pdf

Jigsaw puzzles are almost as fun for adults as they are for kids to play with. Choose your theme and cut the pieces to match the user's skills. Equipment: Ad Sharp Craft Niffresau or Power Arfine-Toothed Flat File Material: Pictures (Cartoon, Photo, magazine pictures, or other illustrations) 1/8 inch or 1/4 inch hardboard or 1/4 inch hardboard or televisionNewspaperSpray white sheiler or polyurethane varnish time: Attach a simple picture to a puzzle for nearly half an hour for any photo you could turn into a puzzle like – a cartoon, a picture, a magazine photo, or any instance. Use a 1/8 inch or 1/4 inch hardboard or piece of plywood to return the picture. Trim the photo and cut the backing hardboard or plywood to the desired shape, so that the photo and support are of the same size. Spread the newspaper to protect the surface of your work. Place the hardboard or plywood face on the newspapers, and face the picture below. With a spray of white shelak or polyurethane varnish, apply a thin coat of shelak or varnish behind the photo and in front of the board. Let the varnish be a little sticky. Then, working quickly, carefully align the picture on the board, and press the two together. Smooth the photo on the board, removing all air bubbles. Spray another coat of white shellc or varnish on a bonded picture. Let the shelak or varnish dry completely, following the manufacturer's instructions. Cutting the puzzle depends on the maximum size of the puzzle, the ability, or throat, that you use to cut it. Use a fritsaw for simple puzzles, a power jigsaw for more complex ones. Use the thinnest saw blade, with the largest number of teeth per inch, you can find; The blades finer, smooth the edges on the puzzle pieces. Cut the puzzle into interlocking pieces, keeping in mind the ability of your desired user. To make it easier to handle large puzzles, cut them into quarters before cutting the puzzle pieces. After the bite, check the pieces for rough edges; Make smooth file with fine jagged flat file to any rough edges. Another fun toy is the wooden block you can make for your kids. Sand down to the box and add some sort of oil or lacquer if you want. Mark on the outside of the box where you holed up for the metal rod. Drill a hole where you mark. You don't have to dill, you can use a needle or even something small to make holes. You also need a key. I forgot to take pictures. But all you really need is a stiff metal stick. The one I use was a 0.5mm piano chord. This is a very basic design. And I didn't work too hard to hide the hole. The original plan was to use a magnet to push metal rods, but I didn't have enough magnets, so I ended up with a hole making, and a push stick. I hope it makes disrespectful sense.
