The film is directed by Jeff Fowler (in his feature directorial debut) and written by Pat Casey and Josh Miller. It stars Ben Schwartz as the voice of Hedgehog Sonic and Jim Carrey as Dr Robotnik, as well as James Marsden, Tika Sumpter, Natasha Rothwell, Adam Pally, and Neil McDonough. In the film, Sonic objects to the local city's sheriff, Tom Hovansky, to find his lost rings and escape from Dr. Robotnik. Development of the film began in the 1990s, but didn't go beyond the planning stage until Sony Pictures acquired the rights to the film in 2013. The production included a collaboration between Japanese studio Sega Sammy Marza Animation Planet, with Fowler brought in for directing in 2016. After Sony put the project in turn, Paramount Pictures acquired it in 2017. Most of the cast signed up until August 2018, and major shootings took place between September and October of that year in Vancouver and Vancouver Island. After a backlash against the first trailer in 2019, the film's release was delayed by three months to remake Sonic. Sonic the Hedgehog premiered on January 25, 2020 at Paramount Pictures Studios and was theatrically released in the United States on February 14, 2020. Critics praised the performances (notably Schwartz and Carrie),sonia's character design and animation, visuals, action scenes and his loyalty to the source material, but criticized his story for its perceived lack of originality. [11] [12] The film set a record for the largest weekend opening for video games in the United States and Canada. It grossed more than $308 million worldwide, becoming the fifth highest-grossing film of 2020, the most cumbersome superhero movie of 2020, and the most cumbersome film adaptation of video games of all time in the North An extension is scheduled for 2022. The plot of Sonic, a blue hedgehog that can operate at supersonic speeds, finds itself in demand by a tribe of yids for its power. His guardian, Longklave Owl, gives him a bag of rings that open portals to other planets. She uses it to send it to Earth while it soars ichidna. Ten years later, Sonic is enjoying a secret life near the town of Green Hills, Montana, but is keen to make friends. He adores local sheriff Tom Vachowski and his vet wife Maddy, unaware that the pair are planning to move to San Francisco soon since Tom was hired by the San Francisco Police Department. One night, Sonic gets upset with his loneliness, playing baseball himself, and runs at supersonic speed as a result, inadvertently causing an electromagnetic pulse that knocks power through the Pacific Northwest. Robotcist and scientific genius Dr. Robotnik enlisted the U.S. Department of Defense to uncover the source of the outage. A robot robot detects and tracks a Sonic hiding in a Vakhovski barn. Tom discovers Sonic and shoots him with a tranquilizer dart, causing Sonic to drop the bag with rings through a portal in San Francisco. Tom reluctantly agrees to help Sonia before Robotnik arrives at Wakhovsk's house and the two flee. When the pair evade Robotnik, who labels Tom a domestic terrorist, they slowly bond, with Tom learning of Sonic's pursuit of a true friend. Discovering one of the Sonic rings, Robotnik discovers that the power in it has the potential to fuel its robots, and becomes obsessed with sonic capture. As he tracks them down, Tom discusses his plans to leave Green Hills, and Sonic doesn't approve. Shortly after defeating a robot sent by Robotnik, the explosion injures Sonic. Arriving in San Francisco, Tom brings him to Maddy, who revives him. While Tom explains maddy's plight, Sonik gets a new pair of sneakers from Maddy's niece. Soon the group drove to the roof of the Transamerica pyramid, where a bag of Sonic rings landed, and recovered them. The robotist arrives at the hovercraft and attacks them, forcing Sonic to use the ring to send Tom and Maddy back to Green Hills. Sonic escapes from Robotnik, which uses the power of Quill Sonic to match its speed. They participate in chases around the world, ultimately going back to Green Hills. The robotist is incongruated sonik, but Tom intervenes, allowing Sonia to recuperate and regain lost energy. Overcoming Robotnik, Sonik defeats him by sending him to the mushroom planet. After the incident, Tom and Maddy decide to stay in Green Hills and let Sonic live with them. The government is erasing all evidence of events, including robotnik's existence records. Meanwhile, Robotnik, who still owns The Quill of Sonic, begins to plot his revenge. In the middle of the credits scene, fox from the world of Sonic, Sonica, from the ring portal in search of Sonic. Actor Ben Schwartz as the voice of Sonic: a 15-year-old anthropomorphic blue hedgehog with superhuman speed who is on the run from Robotnik and the United States government. Schwartz also provided facial motion capture for Sonic. [13] Benjamin L. Sultcase is Baby Sonic. Jim Carrey is Dr. Robotnik: a mad scientist and inventor who is after Sonic's superstar forces for world conquest. [15] James Marsden as Thomas Michael Tom Vachowski: Sheriff of Green Hills, who wishes to join the SFPD. He is friends with Sonik and helps him in his quest to stop Robotnik. Tyka Sumpter as Maddy Vakhovsky: vet and wife of Tom, who later helps him and Sonia evade Robotnik. Lee Maidub is Agent Stone: a government agent working for Robotnik. Natasha Rothwell as Rachel: Maddy's sister, who doesn't like Tom and often encourages Maddy to leave him. [20] Nosifo Niemann's melody as Jojo; Daughter Rachel and niece Of Maddy and Tom Vachowski. [21] Adam Ply as Wade Wipple: a Green Hills police officer and a friend of Tom's. Neil McDonough as Major Bennington: a soldier who doesn't like Robotnik. Tom Butler is Commander Walters: Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which orders Robotnik to investigate violations caused by Sonik. Frank C. Turner as Mad Carl: A conspiracy theorist who seeks to prove Sonic's existence and calls him the Blue Devil. In addition, Colleen O'Sheounessy, voice of Tails in the video game series since 2014, reprises her role for the mid-credits scene. [24] Harry Chalk, who previously voiced Grounder and Robotnik in the adventures of Sonic the Hedgehog and Sonic Underground respectively, appears as chief of staff of the U.S. Navy. Michael Hogan appears as Air Force Chief of Staff. Donna Jay Fults voices Longclav, an anthropomorphic owl and caretaker sonic. Pachakamak, an ichidna who is the leader of the Knuxis tribe in games, makes an as if cameo at the beginning of the film like the yidna that brought down Longclava. Production for the film adaptation of Sonic The Hedgehog began in 1993 during the production of the TV show DIC Entertainment Adventures of Sonic the Hedgehog. Michealen Risley, the newly appointed consumer director who helped license the character for Adventures, negotiated with several Hollywood producers. Sega CEO Tom Kalinske, however, was wary of hurting the brand and deemed it unacceptable, citing the commercial and critical failures of the Super Mario Bros. and Street Fighter films. Despite Kalinske's concerns, Sega is enthusiastic about the film adaptation. Sega entered into a development agreement with MGM and Trilogy Entertainment Group in August, with Pen Densham as the film's executive producer. MGM and Sega hire Richard Jeffreys, Risley's associate her days at Marvel Comics to write a movie treat. At the time, Sega was developing the Sonic X-treme (which was canceled in late 1996) for its next Sega Saturn console and asked Jeffreys to show Saturn in the script. Jeffreys's treatment, titled Sonic's Hedgehog: Wonders of the World, was introduced in May 1995. While the project received a positive response among MGM and Sega executives, Sega COO Shinobu Toyoda suggested Kalinske replace Robotnik with a villain-mea. MGM canceled the project after an unsuccessful attempt to revive the film on DreamWorks; Jeffreys suggested that the film was scrapped because both Sega and MGM wanted a larger share of the profits, while Densham said it follows creative differences between Sega and Trilogy. In 2013, Sony Pictures Entertainment acquired the rights to produce and distribute the film based on Sonic the Hedgehog. [27] On June 10, 2014, the animated film was announced as a joint venture between Sony Pictures and Marza Animation Planet, a Japanese subsidiary of Sega Sammy Group that produced pre-released cutscenes for several Sonic the Hedgehog games. [28] He will be produced by Neil H. Moritz with his original movie banner alongside Takeshi Ito, Mi Onishi and Toru Nakahara, and written by Evan Sasser and Van Robisha. Sega CEO Hajime Satomiy said in February 2016 that the film was scheduled for 2018. [29] Tim Miller and Jeff Fowler were hired in 2016 to develop it; Fowler would make his feature directorial debut, and Miller and Fowler would executive produce. [30] Patrick Casey, Josh Miller and Oren Uziel wrote the script, and Casey and Miller wrote the story. [30] On October 2, 2017, Paramount Pictures announced that it had acquired the rights after Sony put the film in turn. Almost the entire production team remained unchanged and unharmed. In February 2018, it was announced that the film will be released in November 2019. [33] Early drafts for the film appeared in the form of Sonic Super Sonic from video games. However, the ideas were rejected because Fowler felt that [i] there was no point obviously bringing in the Super Sonic thing just yet, and wanted the film to focus on the origins of sonic and Robotnik's relationship. Early drafts also contained more scenes in Sonic's world, with Tails presented as Sonic's best friend in his world. [36] Another draft also featured Tails as the main character in the film. However, tails' role was eventually reduced to a cameo in the post-credits scene when the film-makers decided to develop a story around Sonic being alone on Earth, and decided instead to use Tails in order to tease out a potential sequel. [36] Casting on May 29, 2018, reported that Paul Radd was negotiating the lead role of Tom, a police officer who befriends Sonic and is likely to unite to defeat Dr. Robotnic, but was later denied. [37] [37] A it was later announced that James Marsden had been cast in an undisclosed role, but it was later revealed to be Tom Vachowski. In June 2018, Tika Sumpter was cast as Tom's wife, Jim Carrey was cast to play the villain, Dr Robotnik. In August 2018, Ben Schwartz joined as sonic's voice. Schwartz, a fan of the original video games, was selected for the role after Fowler and Miller dropped him off for a test reading when they pitched the project to several studios. [39] After receiving their performance, they officially cast Schwartz as the voice of Sonic. Days after the casting, Schwartz was cast adam Pally and Neil McDonough. [40] Debs Howard and Eflin Luke joined the cast the following November. [41] Riff Raff was cast in an undisclosed role, but was cut from the film. [42] Filming of the main photo began in mid-September 2018 and ended in Vancouver, Ladysmith and Vancouver Island on October 16, 2018. The post-production and additional photo took place in October in New York, where Carrie filmed her scenes. [45] Key production scenes were also filmed in Liwa Oasis, United Arab Emirates. Visual Effects and Design Sonic Design Comparison in both trailers: Original in April trailer (above); Edited in the November trailer (bottom) Visual Effects are provided by Rolling Picture Company (MPC), Marza Animation Planet, Blur Studio, Trixter and Digital Domain. [47] The production team created a realistic version of Sonic using computer animation, adding fur, new running sneakers, two separate arrows,[48] and a more human-like physique. [49] They used Ted, a live teddy bear from Ted's films, as a reference to inserting a CGI character into a real setting. Executive producer Miller said: It would be amazing and it would feel like he was running nude if he were some kind of o'o thyr as a thing. It was always, for us, fur, and we never considered anything else. It's part of what integrates it into the real world and makes it a true being. According to Miller, Sega wasn't entirely happy with Sonic's eye design. According to animator Max Schneider, Paramount expected Sonic fans to object to the redesign, but the general audience wouldn't care, as was the case with their 2014 film Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles. He said Paramount felt the design connected to the real setting and the characters. [50] On May 2, 2019, in response to near-universal criticism of the design, Fowler announced on Twitter that Sonic would be redesigned. [51] As a result, the film was postponed from its original release date from November 8 to February 14, 2020. [52] Artist Tyson Hesse, who worked on the previous Sonic Hedgehog media, was brought in to lead the redesign. Sonic has been given bigger and differently colored eyes, new sneakers, vinyl gloves, and a less human body to better resemble the design of sonic video games. [53] was redesigned by the Japanese animated planet Marza. The redesign added approximately $5 million to the production budget,[55] took about five months, and was achieved without stressful overtime. [50] Music In February 2019, Tom Holkenborg, who previously worked with executive producer Miller on Deadpool, was hired to create the account. [56] The soundtrack was released with the film on February 14, 2020 in both digital and physical formats. On the soundtrack appears Riff Raff, who had a role in the film but was cut. The original song Wiz Khalifa, Tyla Dolla Sign, Lil Yachty and Suedeo the Child appears on the soundtrack; The single was released on January 24 by Atlantic Records. Speed Me Up received 15 million streams along with 1.8 billion views at cat TikTok's Speed Me Up. [58] Friends by Hyper Potions, which previously appeared as the theme of Sonic Mania's opening, also appears alongside tracks from Masato Nakamura's score for the original Sonic Hedgehog (1991). [59] Holkenborg attempted to capture the sensation of Nakamura's soundtracks for Sonic and Sonic the Hedgehog 2 (1992) games using digital FM Yamaha synthesizers (e.g. DX7) similar to the Sega Genesis/Mega Drive Yamaha YM2612 sound chip. [60] The release of Sonic The Hedgehog was originally released sometime in 2018 by Sony Pictures Release, but in February 2018, shortly after taking over, Paramount Pictures rescheduled it for November 15, 2019. [29] [62] The film was later moved a week earlier to November 8, 2019. [63] After sonic's redesign was announced in May 2019, director Jeff Fowler announced that the film would be delayed again until February 14, 2020, to get a little more time to make Sonic right. The world premiere of the film took place at the Paramount Theater in Los Angeles on January 25, 2020. [65] Marketing Sonic's initial design was heavily criticized for its human-like appearance, prompting Fowler to postpone the film's release for another three months to remake the character. [51] Test footage was shown at the Comic Con Experience in Brazil on December 6, 2018,[66] and then a teaser poster released on December 10, 2018 revealing the design of the Sonic silhouette, with the tag Whole New Hero Speed. [48] I received a mostly negative response from critics and fans,[67] and was unfavorably compared to another 2019 video game adaptation, Detective Pikachu, which added fur and skin texture to Pokémon characters. [49] Sonic's humanoid appearance was described as causing an unexplained reaction from the valley. [68] Former Sonic Team members who created Sonic The Hedgehog games also expressed surprise. [69] A second poster was leaked online shortly afterwards. Fans complained about the lack of resemblance to games and criticised positioning sonic legs, spawning an internet meme in which users recreated the position. [70] [71] The film's official Twitter account posted an image of Sonic behind a sign saying, 'Wouldn't a guy work? [72] Sonic design images leaked in March 2019 for more criticism of fans. Sonic co-creator Yuji Naka was shocked by the design and felt Sonic's head and abdomen ratio was unbalanced. The first trailer premiered on April 4, 2019, at CinemaCon in Las Vegas,[74] and released online April 30. [75] She received almost unanimous criticism,[76][77] with Gita Jackson of Kotaku calling it terrible and a light in this muddy land. [75] Sonic's design was heavily criticized for its human-like appearance,[75] while some writers found the use of Coolio's Gangsta's Paradise. [78] [79] Conversely, CNET's Sean Keane praised the humor and references to the games. Within two days, the trailer has been viewed more than 20 million times on YouTube, and received hundreds of thousands of unfriendly ratings, dramatically surpassing like ratings. [81] The second trailer revealing the redesigned Sonic was released on November 12, 2019. [82] The trailer received far more positive responses, with many praising Sonic's new design. Tone and humor also received positive reviews, as well as a choice of song with J.K. Rowling's Supersonic. [83] Naka said he felt the new design was much more similar to Sonic. [84] The second trailer received a thousand likes and the highest ratio of like-for-like dislikes of any trailer on Google over the past three years. [85] The film's trailers received a total of more than 500 million views worldwide. [58] As a promotional tie, the Sonic version seen in the film was added as a game character to the mobile games Sonic Dash and Sonic Forces. [86] Home Media on March 20, 2020, Paramount announced that Sonic the Hedgehog would be released to home media in the United States and Canada before the end of the usual 90-day theatrical run, as many movie studios made the decision to release films earlier due to cinemas closing in mid-March due to the limitations of the COVID-19 pandemic. The digital version was released march 31 with Blu-ray versions, 4K Ultra HD and DVD on May 19. All home media releases include an original short film called Around the World in 80 Seconds. [88] [89] [90] Sonic the Hedgehog's reception collected $146.1 million in the United States and Canada, and $162.4 million in other territories, totaling $308.4 million. It is currently the fifth biggest film of 2020. It's also the most cumbersome superhero movie of 2020, ending Marvel Entertainment's ten-year run with the most cumbersome superhero movie of the year (from 2010 to 2019). [91] In the United States and Canada, the film was released with Island, The Photograph and Downhill, and originally projected a gross of $40–50 million from 4,130 theaters in its four-day Opening Day weekend. [93] [97] After making $221 million on its first day (including $3 million from Thursday night previews), estimates were raised to $64 million. [94] It moved into first place in rolling with a $58 million debut over the three-day weekend, and $70 million for four, beating Detective Pikachu's record for the biggest weekend of video games based on video games. It was also the President's fourth best holiday weekend and Jim Carrey's second-biggest day off, behind Bruce Almighty (2003). The film's success contributed in part to a redesign of the protagonist and the publicity he created, and resulted in a delay to the film's release, allowing it to open at peak time when it faces less competition from other family films. In its second weekend, Hedgehog Sonic made $26.2 million and retained the top spot in the rental, bringing its tie third domestic gross to $106.6 million. [96] Hedgehog Sonic made $16.3 million in its third weekend and was dethronized by newcomer The Invisible Man.[98] On March 14, it became the highest-screen video game in U.S. box office history, surpassing Detective Pikachu. [99] Sonic the Hedgehog was released in 40 countries during the three-day opening weekend, topped the international box office with $43.3 million. Its strongest international regions were Latin America and Europe, its biggest discoveries were $6.7 million in Mexico, $6.2 million in the United Kingdom, $4.3 million in France, $3.3 million in Germany and $3 million in Brazil. Globally, t made $101 million over the three-day weekend and $113 million over four days. [100] In its second weekend, the film again topped the international box office with $38.3 million from 56 countries in ten days abroad grossing $96.5 million, and again topped the global box office with $64.6 million over ten days.
