For more information, click here If you are cooperating with us, our secure server will encrypt all your personal information, including name, address and credit card details. We use SagePay, which is an industry leader in secure online transactions. SagePays is used by thousands of other UK companies to ensure the security of the transaction. All transaction information transmitted between our website and the SagePay payment system is encrypted with 128-bit SSL certificates. Cardholder information has never been encrypted and all letters from SagePay are signed using MD5 hashing to prevent tampering. You can be completely safe in the knowledge that you cannot investigate, use or modify any third parties who are trying to gain access to sensitive information. In the SagePay system, all sensitive data is protected by the same internationally accepted 256-bit encryption standards used by, among other things, the U.S. government. Encryption keys are stored in cutting-edge, tamper-proof systems in the same family used to secure VeriSign's Global Root certificate, making them all but cannot be separated. The data in their possession is extremely secure and are regularly audited by banks and banking institutions to ensure that they are kept. SagePay has several private connections to the banking network that is completely separated from the Internet and does not go through any public network. All cardholder's data sent to banks and the return authorisation message are secure and cannot be tampered with. None of our company or SagePay individuals can decrypt transaction data or cardholder data. Their systems only provide access to our most senior employees and only in mitigating situations (for example, when the police investigate card fraud). Your card data is secure even from your employees because your systems never display full card numbers, even on administration screens.
