Linked together by a hyphen: - up-to-date - collaboration - five-year-old - like animal - - Dashes are usually used in informal writing to break conversations and add brackets, much like brackets. They also add emphasis on a sentence and can be used to modify the noun. Here are some examples: - Vehicles - an old, run-down taxi that smoke smoke rises - waited for us in the driveway. - They can join us for the party - you never know. - I'm not sure what to say, that stammering. Note that in formal writing, brackets should be used, where possible, instead of dashes. Quotation marks: Quotation marks are used and examples are given to denote direct quotes in a sentence. Let's take a look at the example of a direct quote, which uses quotation marks, and an indirect quote, which does not: - Tom said, If we don't stop now, we're going late! -Tom said that if we did not set up, we were going to come late. Single quotation marks are used when you may need to use quotation marks within another quotation. Let's see how it works: - I read a sitting 'The Hobbit' last night. He told me to ' find life '-can you believe it? Now that you're reading about using these advanced punctuation marks, try the exercises below and see if you can put them into practice. practice.
