television special Since broadcast, in which 100 competitors try to complete a four-stage obstacle course. 1997 An modified version, which is designated as The Nanja Yudka, has a lowest screening in 18 other countries. Recorded at a Location at a Madorayama studio in Yuko-Haama, this Japanese television drama is on the Tokyo broadcasting system between seasons. The show is named After Sasoki, a character of the japanese legend, Sarutobi Sasui. [2] Every three-hour special (with exceptions of Sasukey 24 and 36 which lasts 5 1 / 2 hours and 6 hours) covers the entire competition; there are usually 100 participants. 37 is specially developed, almost a new special year (Monster9's was reduced twice a year before bankruptcy, now again per year since 2012, then rebuilt twice since 2017). The show is produced by Tub and is one of the muscle ratings (筋肉番付, Canek U), another sports entertainment contest, which has been broadcast on G4 under the name Incredible Banzuke. By the 10th contest, Sasoki was broadcast as a special part of muscle ratings, but when the muscle rating was closed it became an independent program. The first competition was held inside, just a while sasui did not take place outside. Competitions usually start during the day and continue until completed regardless of the weather or darkness. [3] After monster9's bankruptcy in November 2011, all rights of the show fell entirely into the hands of its broadcasting broadcasting, Tokyo. After acquiring all the rights of Sasuky, Tubchanged the show Sasuky for the 28th, 29th and 30th editions, but then returned to the original name. Tub has renamed the show again, which has been the 35th edition since Nanja Yadka Sasuky. Tub changed the show symbol (logo) for the 36th edition. Applicants are held to examine their physical abilities in interviews or odatavanad and trial rounds until the field has 100 competitors together. Sasui consists of four stages of increasing difficulties. Competitors must complete a phase to move forward. First The 18th tournament was held, a 1,200m run to determine the starting positions of the competitors. Each contest is taped before the air date, modified for time, and is broadcast as a three-hour show. Exceptions can be made as a case of 24 in Sasui Tub should decide that the broadcast should be more than three hours, but this is a rare exception. In its 37 seasons, the four different competitors. It (1999), 17th competition in Maabuta Nacanu (2006), Yuuja Urushara in 24th (2010) and 27th (2011) competitions, [5] and 31st competition in The Usuki Mrimoto (2015)............. Because of the popularity of Sasuky's popularity, a large number of the spin-off show and international version shows have been created. The Kanaocha, perhaps the most well known spinner off, is a version of limiting female competitors with emphasis on sasukey speed, balance, and stability. American Is The Us Version Of The Nanja Yudka Show. Originally merged with Sasukey (participating on the Sasukey course in Japan with the USA Final), it was at one point the G4 network's highest ranking show. [6] As of season 4, american Nanja Warrior's popularity has allowed her to move to the NBC network and expanded as a stand-alone spin with a completely copied course in Vegas, although Americans have continued to enter Sassooki even after the establishment of ANW.
Other international versions of the format have been broadcast in India, Singapore, Malaysia, Turkey, Sweden, Denmark, Uk, Bahrain, China, Indonesia, Russia and Vietnam, versions also started in France (TF1), Germany (RTL), Italy (2018) in 2016, and Israel in July 2017, an Australian version on the new network began. Netflick also started broadcasting The Alty Bestmaster, broadcast in six different languages in 2017, a Sassou inspired show. The competitor hosted a wide spectrum of participants at the show. While most of the people from Japan, national television personalities and other countries are The Olympians, including the United States, Bulgaria, China and Korea have participated in the competitors dress up, take to the early stage, or show some of their appearance, [Reference required] Sasoki All example, Cosho's only success was the first person to clean up the receipt-glyder in the 18th competition. However, some have seen success. O'Mora made it three times in the final stage in a row (1st-3rd competitions), which is a record that is shared with Sasoki All-Star Macosta Naagno, but since then he is not able to clear the first stage. The Natyama made it to the second stage in the 9th and 11th competitions; In the 9th, The Nagayama spider failed to walk, and in the 11th, he missed by a split second by hit the last button of the second stage. She was 27. He had footage of himself appearing to train for the new course. They were wearing #30, and despite his training, they failed in rolling Escargot when they could not find enough speed to get the structure shear, and fell into the water while trying to restart the barrier. He got revenge on him in the 28th tournament, but the other fighter ended up on the wall. In the 29th tournament, he cleared the first stage for the first time in almost 10 years, but eventually, the ladder ended up at the top of the ladder. The recent comedy includes Yan Shekojam, who has been at the Olympics in five events (22, 24, 26-28), where he failed twice in the login capture, risk-swimming, step slider, and rolling escargot Fonyman Iruni Yaagama was included in the 26th contest but failed in the step slider. The sordid comedy Ayaka Canoh (Aka Mr. Narxis) was included in the 25th contest and failed the dome steps, but the first hurdle in the 26th contest got past and The Rolling Escargot failed to get his spider to the well. In Sasuky 23, he got revenge on both the jumpspider and the Alphapapi attack, only to fail to jump slider. In Sasui 24, they failed to attack The AlphaPapi again. He came back for the Sasuky 27 and cleared the first leg for the first time. In the second stage, they failed in the double salon ladder. I sasui 28, she ended up on the ladder. He advanced to the second stage in the Sasui 29 and 30, but the sup salon ladder failed. Other noteworthy competitor staked out 65-year-old Minoru Koramyocha, known as The Auttos because he usually bring an auto-tops with it, owns the Edokko Izakaya Ayattops bar in Tokyo and is one of the oldest competitors. He has many times the Olympics, not making it too far in the first stage. Nevertheless, he seems to be a fan favorite. The preview of the 20th contest, in particular, he welcomed the G4 American Nanja Chalangars to his bar, serving their exclusive auto-eating, and demonstrated his physical skills for them. He's no.4 on which madness competition survey g4's. At his best was Sasoki 26, where he managed to make The Rolling Escargot. When he was over at the Pole Of Bhoblia, he was for Madorayama and the fighter in the second attempt cleared the wall before the time. Another American woman and American woman to complete phase 2 in Vegas (ANW all stars)- is one of two invited Us interiors that included Sassoaki in 34 dying years next year. She became only the second woman in Sassoaki's history after Nashamora to complete the first phase, with 14.5 seconds left on that clock to do so (which would also be under the limit set for male competitors; women's competitors were given an extra 10 seconds.) They were able to complete when they again surprised. With 2 left on the 4.4 second clock, sasui to clear the second stage to become the very first woman. In step 3, Graphf started out well to complete the first three hurdles strictly. However, despite his determination, he failed ultra-mad Kalfinger when he tried to jump before the second dagger and failed to capture it. However, inspiring The Onlucours, he was invited back to the following tournament. She did not return to Sasui 37, however, but she went to clear steps 1 and 2 again, only to become a woman to reach the stage 3 twice. They failed to get the first philip of the Kalfinger dimensions, in the same place as the Sasuki 34. (Enter the run list here) A Shankan Bank employee who has been to the Olympics on Konwacha, Ayano Osham [JA], he was first completed in The Sasoki 31.

His race was system, but it was shown that he was finished because he was getting the fighter wall. Ayano once again returned for Sasui 36. She was the first Japanese woman to ever clean the dragon glydor. Though, they were tired after the competition ended, and the fighter ended up in the wall. American Nanja Challenges Important Article: In fall, the American Nanja Challenge 2007, the G4 Network, held a contest called the American Nanja Challenge, whose Grand Prize visited Japan to compete in sasukey's 19th competition. Ten semafaanalist videos were selected by an Internet survey on August 3 to determine three finals that will be visible on the show's G4's attack! August 28-30 to demonstrate their nanja yadka skills. On August 31, Michigan State University Economics student Powell Colin Was Elected To The Foreign Bell and The Run-Up, Greenville, South Carolina Native Brett Sims, both, and they became an hour-long G4 special subjects during G4's Nanjafist on November 14. Finally, both Powell-Colin Eathen and Brett qualify for their impressive physical abilities for the course, but they both failed the gymking spider. The second contest by G4 wrapped in March 2008 and was broadcast on May 18, 2008 as part of G4's Nanjafist 2. With Lavey Muwanbarg N, Michigan and Brian Orosco san Francisco, California was both selected to compete in Sassoko's 20th tournament; Both are free runs. He was given the chance to return from the Olympics, which g4 with amazing guest Brett Sims. Sims failed the fighter wall of the first phase, while the Orosco flight slope failed. Mewanbarg, however, made it to the third stage before eventually failing Shin-Kalfinger. In this tournament, he stood the last man (because he was the only contestant in the entire tournament to make it to the third stage). The third competition by G4 wrapped up in August 2008 and broadcast on November 12, 2008 as part of G4's Nanjafist 3. Viewers voted for their favourite competitors, the top three of whom will be brought to Japan to compete in Sasui's 21st tournament. The winners were Brian (who has qualify with a different video), the first woman to qualify the gymnasium Mark in The Maniapolis, Manisuta, and free-runr/stoontouman Luka Roberg-Valley Village, California. He joined the Us's Nanja

Monon's run was only shown in the section while Perera's run was completely cut. Rossa failed the Half-Papi attack, while until he failed to capture the log due to a severe ulnar nerve injury that he suffered. Orosco completed the first stage with just 0.6 seconds left on the clock but failed the second stage salon ladder. The Mewanbarg cleaned up with 1, 21.5 seconds with the fastest time, but similarly the salon failed the ladder. The fourth contest by G4 wrapped up in March 2009 and was broadcast on June 21, 2009 as part of G4's Nanjatest 4. The rival videos were decided by the show's attack by Ollya Monon. The winner was joined by David Cable, Monon and former rivals Lavey Muwanbarg and Luka Roberg. Monon failed to hammer new circles in the first phase; Rollo failed the first-stage gympering spider. The cable ended at the final first stage hurdle, the ladder, and later told the Bondary reporter that he was involved in the Vania Cardio course. The Mewanbarg failed to jump a new first stage barrier, slider. After that, the American Nanja Challenge was closed and changed by American Nanja Yadka. Results Important Topic: List of Sassokey competitions Each of the following is a list of available information of people who get the best results in each of the competitions that failed in the lower stages. Under each competition, the results are listed in the best performance order. Their names are listed along with their numbers (1-100) from the competition, and the stage/hurdle they failed to complete (or total victory). The 10th competition number system run from 901 to 1000 that 1000 competitors tried the first stage, and then this 1901 shows that it had tried the first stage compared to 20, and then 30 to show efforts on sassokoi almost during the 30th contest for 2000. All air dates are broadcast on the tub. See Also Sasui 1: Sasui Competitions List § 1st Contest Broadcast: September 27, 1997 Competitive Stage Hurdle No. 97 Ooveri Akira Final Failed

100 of SASUKEY Stages and Obstacles are given the opportunity to try the first phase, which essentially has a speed test. This objection is to hit the browser at the end of the due time. If a contestant goes out of range or comes in contact with water in any kind below the course, then he is indifferent to the competition. Typically, 85 to 90 to 100 actual admissions are finished at this stage. However, in the 4th contest, the original 100-competitor record 37 made it past the first stage. After 4th, 17th, 24th, 27th, and 31st competition, the first phase was well difficult and new designs preventing large numbers of people from moving. In fact, the 18th Sassokey contest appears as a special inside G4 that was classified as the first phase for the 18th contest with all 100 slynesses inits intention to fail it. However it did not, and it has only tried to make its production team furious and all stages too difficult to follow. This goal was almost 19th in the competitors cleared the first stage (neither of the two Sassoka all stars), a record in Sassoko's history. (The only time that has happened was in The First Konocha, where again, only two competitors cleared the first stage.) The executive producer said in a later interview that he was surprised at the results even as a result, hoping that 10 to 12 people would live despite the production team's efforts in making the first phase unreliable. # First phase obstacles time limit 11 barrel climb suo-tai log fast descent hill climb balance bridge log drop free Climb barrier is the immediate successor to the previous barrier, without any recooperation between them in any way. ^ 1 Although the names of the obstacles were different from the other tournaments, these hurdles were still the same. ^ 2 Tub officially understands that they are two different barriers that are two of their names フリ.クライミング (free climbing) and ? 登り (wall climbing) is shown separately on screen in the Japanese version (Sasui #1) and also in the Sasui Anmad official site. However, Nania Yadka has cited the free climbing/wall climbing collection in translation as mountain climbing. ^ 3 This hill climb is completely different from the one that will be changed with the fighter wall after the 4th contest later. ^ 4 On The Nania Yadka, the Prism view-saw translation is called Prism Tilt. Japanese anonsar saith that Prism was seen ^ 5 On The Nanja Warrior, the cross bridge is called the blade bridge in subtitles. Japanese Anonsar called it a 'a's bridge' ^ 6 Although called as jump hanging, the 13th contest barrier consists of many different strings of vertical execution, entirely from the resin net used in all other competitions. Some call it a receipt hanging, but its name is wrong. ^ 7 was not shown in the Nanja Yadka barrier chart in 18th for lack of room for TV screening due to the hand the barrier symbol. However, in the 19th he had the ladder and not the torgen receipt. Japanese Anaunsar still Two obstacles by their official names. ^ 8 On The Nania Yukka, double-pandalam is called The Uk Tick in english dub. ^ 9 On The Nania Yadka, the X-Bridge of the Blade in the subtitle just like the cross bridge. ^ 10 On The Nania Yukka, Rolling Escargot has been called the uk slow rolling in the English dub. ^ 12 On The Nanja Yodka, dealing with the UK is called triple dealing in english dub. ^ 13 On The Nanja Yodka, the tie fighter is called the Support Slider in the UK English dub because thereafter the name of the barrier was given after which the name attached with the Star War fighter is not the rights of Lokasphelum to use. Stage 2 these guys with enough skill to complete a phase then take on an even more banker of obstacles in stage two. 283 competitors have reached the second stage. In a way in the phase, the obstacles change throughout the competitions, but all are on the same rule; if the competition makes a mistake that goes down into the water. The difficulties determine the time limit, and it is usually between 50 and 100 seconds. Unlike the first phase, which always needs to hit one at the end of the rivals to stop a browser to move the clock and course, the second phase was not the 8th contest until the end of the browser. After that, the competitor just went through an open door to stop the clock. Beyond the 8th contest, the browser open the door. If the contestant breaks the gate without hitting the button, they are unqualified. In addition, this course may close the door if a contestant has already made an upset in the second phase which has resulted in their inability, such as using the China Response Gloves on spider walk mr Sasukey Katsumi Sahiba did in the 12th contest. Average, 10 to 15 competitors try the second stage on each contest. A record 37 competitors tried the second stage during the 4th contest, a record 11 competitors cleared the second stage. However, during the 5th competition, only three men made it to the second stage due to new. stiff hurdles in the first phase. In the 19th competition, neither two authentic competitors cleared the circuit (a fall and a deadlock on the salon ladder), marking the opening end of a Sassoky contest. Comp # Second stage restricted at the time of obstacles 1 officially call their free barriers, and only the entire spider simply deemed to be a barrier to walk. 4 After the 27th tournament, there was a bridge (with four chains) instead of two. 5 in the rolling log is published in Sasui as the original first hurdle of stage 37, but due to rain, it did not work properly. The judges decided to start stage 2 in the salon ladder with a low time limit of 100 seconds. There is no limit in the third phase, allows myogies to go at their own pace. Myogies can apply a few seconds between obstacles to improve their grip. The first two stages focus on speed and slippery, this course tests almost specifically the strength and ability of an upper body. Outside of 3,000 total competitors and 283 second-stage rivals, 139 have tried the third stage. The third step is so much a banker that, on average, someone just goes through every other competition. Only 22 people have ever approved it, and only six have approved it more than once, i.e. Akira O'Mora, Shango Yamoto, Macota Naagu, Yuuja Urushihara, Ryo Matakhe, and Yusuki Morimoto. Comp # Obstacles in third phase 1 Pillar Path 1 Propillar Bars Of The Taga 2 is a common goal: to scale the tower and reach the top button before time is over. If the competition does not let the platform reach the top time, the receipt is cut and competitive falls (they are taken by a protective line). Starting from the 18th contest, the receipt is no longer cut. To reach the top is called kanzinaika (完全制覇), almost translated as full domination, and as the nanja yudka presented as a total victory. The last stage time range is between 30 and 45 seconds. To try to claim the win of all the rivals, only 24 have been admitted in the final stage, and only six of them have been more than once (O'Mora 1st, 2nd, and 3rd competitions, Shango Yamoto Macota Naagno in 3rd and 7th, 12th, 13th, 17th in competition, 24th in Yuuja Urushi22nd and his 24th in his conquests Contestand 27th, 27th contest in Ryo Mataka and 30th, Victory of Yusuki Mrimoto in 31st competition and 35th Currently there are only four winnings: defeat in the 4th contest by Sasuki in Kazakhstan, Magotta In The 17th, Yuuja Urushara in 24th and 27th, and Yusuki Murimoto at 31st. The original final stage consisted of a 15-meter (49 ft) rise of the ropes. The competition must start climbing from a sitting position. The second version of the final stage was the sun in the 7th contest, when Shango Yamoto made it first to try. The tower's height was increased by 22.5 meters (74 ft). It consists of a 10 m (33-ft) rise of the ropes after climbing a 12.5 m (41 ft) spider. After 15 seconds, the spider spread swells apart from the climbing walls. During this caught Yordan Yaototagu 8th contest, he failed to complete the spider climb before starting to spread, and fell off the tower. The third version of the final stage was revealed in the 22nd contest, when Yuuja Urushihara was the first to try it. The height of the tower remained the same as most of the final phase, but two new obstacles were used: a 13-meter (43 ft) sky ladder and a 10-meter (33 ft) G-resi. The time limit was increased in 45 seconds, then the 23rd contest was reduced in 40 seconds. The competitors are not dropped on this path because of the heavenly ladder. The fourth version of the final stage was revealed compared to the 27th, when Ryo matasa said it was the first to try it. The height of the tower was as low as 20 meters and a 20-meter (66 ft) ropes consisted of climbing like the first version of the last stage, but with a 5-meter height difference. The time limit stayed at 40 seconds. Unlike the first version of the final stage, the competitor started on a standing position instead of a seated position. The fifth version of the final stage was briefly seen in Stage 3 and in a trailer of Sasui Growing. Its design was like the fourth version of the final stage consisting of a ropes climb. Unlike its foregoing, this version is 4 meters long, and the competitor will likely climb the ropes in a seated position. The time limit will likely be 35 seconds, as Urushihara has cleared this particular version with each other. It was used only for a tournament. For the sixth version, with the previous version of the last phase removing, it was not unusual to see a change like this one for the 18-24 metal ladder version of the heavenly staircase. A ropes climb consisted of being thrown out with each other in the last final stage and the final stage and the final stage and the final stage 7-17 took its place. Spider walls begin to take up less space at this time, and the ropes appear to take more climbing. However, the height of the tower has increased again, at this time 24 meters. Spider climbing (スパイダクライム) appears the same as its foregoing, on When the ropes climb (綱登り) had revised the length from its original server to 11.5 m, at 10 meters. The time limit is likely to remain the same in 30 seconds, although a 35-second final step is not out of the question. The prize for completing the final phase was ¥2,000,000 (about $18347.28 of us). The prize has now increased to ¥4,000,000 (about $36694.55 of us) by the completion of the 17th tournament. A Nasan Fuga in the 24th tournament is also a prize if anyone can complete the final stage. Usually, only one or two people make it in the final stage was achieved only on every other tournament average. The comp # Final stage hurdletotal height time limit 1-4 15 m rise 2 [15 million] 15 m (49 ft) 30 s 5-17 Spider Climbing 1 [12.5 m] (Final Phase Version) Final Ropes [10 m] 22.5 m (74 ft) 30 s 18 – 22 m] (75 ft) 45 s 2 3-24 40 s 25-27 20 m Rise of ropes 1

[18] More Information: The American Nanja Yadka Program first broadcast on G4 in the United States under the name Nanja Yadka. Each episode now lasts thirty minutes and includes some minor changes to screen graphics. During the episode, The Nanja Assassin (for the obstacle which has taken the most competitors) and Yadka Wipeout (best Wipeout) is honored parts. There are English subtitles in the commentary of the game by Japanese sports and interviews with competitors, while competitive profiles, replayed, and were introduced by voice actor Deo Whatenberg.
The show became the most classified program on the network after its first. In addition to a few reconversion events, Rannas of Nanja Yukka has ended the broadcast for some time in December 2012 as parthost as after G4 Knee on September 2013. The last four episodes of Air on G4 were published as a two-hour block on April 10, 2013. It is unknown if The Nanja Yadka will return to the network schedule or if some other channels will get the series. The G4 show on ads happened on the American Nanja Yadka G4 in July, not an Esquire Channel presentation, and the last program marked this last program is being advertised on the network as a G4 program. As of August 3, 2016, an article released by the United States today says Esquire has won the rights to 27 Nanja Yadka tournaments... All eight Konavacha sanovoff competitions that feature only female myoges as well. And he... With english subtitles, 63 hours in Japanese will go back as labor day weekend (September 3, 7m ET/PT). Whether it's referring to the original broadcast or g4 broadcast is currently unknown due to a little notice, it points to g4 broadcasts. He also said the series will be the beginning of the additional new tournament, never seen in the USA, next year. As of 2020, new episodes on American Aravawas have not been shown, and the 27th contest is the most recent to be broadcast in the United States. American Nanja Yadka Main Article:

technique on the G4's website ended on August 18, 2009. Open Trevots were held in Los Angeles at the beginning of 2009 in August 29 and 30, 1, and was taped for the show, with the final competing on the 23rd tournament of the original Nanja Warrior Course in Japan in September 2009. The eight-episode series began to air on December 12, 2009. The gualifying goal consists of 300 competitors, running an obstacle course which is affected by the first phase of Sasui. The course consists of the Quantoplana step, a sand-swaying, a jumped spider, an modified version of the pipe slider, and a very small fighter wall. The startups used a guide board, and moved to the 30 fastest time semi-finals, which include three obstacles, torgen jump, jump bars, and a pure climb in addition to the initial course. American Nanja Yadka sasukyi broadcasts only the American final during the obstacle course. The Japanese competitor was later broadcast on April 10, 2010. A second season was put on the G4's website as of April 10, 2010 and was broadcast specifically for hours long starting December 2, 2010. Top 10 Myogion Sasuoki will attend 26.
Three episodes were played during the first two weeks. The first three episodes covered the opening goal of the competition; The fourth is covered by semayafanalus. It was followed by four days of a boot camp where fifteen winners of the Semaphans were divided into 3 5-man teams and put through several different pressure challenges, while the other two teams got extra training time on some Sasuki barriers (fighter wall, double salon ladder model, balance tank, and circle slider). The team will then walk through a group of obstacles with some kind of obstruction (usually taking some heavy thing between obstacles). With the worst times teams will be forced to send two members into an elimination challenge, forced to leave with the person who lost. After boot camp, ten last winners took to the Sasui course to compete. Again, only American competitors were exclusively broadcast, the rest happened later after the Sassoko competition. The most successful of the American rivals in the past, Lavey Mewanbarg, got out of the competition due to a broken cleft, which gave its place to Adam ATT. Five members failed in the first phase: Patrick Cosak and former American Gladiator champion and gladiator Iain Rocket Daulalyard both fell new rolling Escargot and fell off Adam Tresdylal's giant swaying, a new change of jump execution, just a all-100 To do that throughout the tournament. Also, veteran Shane Danielwas once again finished on the cargo net. In the second stage, four of the remaining five were cleaned, while The Balance tank fell on to The Treus, a barrier struggled during boot camp. Paul failed the Duorbanob Grasper in the third stage. Brent Stiffman made the final kalfinger before falling into the water. David Cable, despite the fastest time of all rivals to compete (finish the second stage with 24-over seconds) as well as failed the final kalfinger. Brian Orosco fell into the barrier long ago, the rolyti cylinder, which was easily approved in the previous contest. While the $250,000 prize was asuamic, Sasuki was the start of a successful exhibition by the collection of 26 American competitors. On july 31 st of the third season of the America's Nanja Yuvadka debate, G4, once 300 competitors on the Trevots in Venice Beach. Many top rivals including Lavey Muwanberg, The Rich King and Luka Rosberg were absent, a talented crop of new rivals took their place including The Dinor Brons Wide roper Matt Willis, who ended the course but was not eligible for boot camp. Other noteworthy competitors who have failed to advance to boot camp are two-time Sassoki veteran Shane
