Learn how to use certificate templates and produce award certificates that look professional in almost none time. Microsoft Word comes with a certificate template option to make the process easy. The instructions in this article apply to Word for Microsoft 365, Word 2019, Word 2016, and Word 2013. The easiest way to make a certificate in Word is to use a Word template. There are templates for many times, and text can be modified for your particular awards or events. Here's how to create a certificate in Word. Open a Word and select New. In the Search text box, type Certificate to filter the certificate template. Select a template, then select Create. The certificate opened as a new document. To add a custom border, select the Design tab and, in the Page Background group, select Page Borders. In the Borders and Mitigation dialog box, select the Page Borders tab. In the Settings section, select Custom and select a border. Select OK to use the boundary of the template you selected. To change the color of the certificate, select a different theme. Go to the Designs tab and, in the Document Formatting group, select Color. Hover over the theme to preview it in a document, then choose the color theme you want to use. Save changes. The text of the certificate can be fully edited. Edit text to say whatever you want, then change the font, color, and distance of the text. In a Word document, double-click the sample text to select it. Select the Home tab. In the Fonts group, select the font and font size. Select Brave, Italian, or Bottom Line, if desired. Select the Font Color drop-down arrow and select the color to apply to text. Type the custom text you want to use. Repeat the process with each part of the text on the certificate, then save the file. You don't need to use a template to create a certificate. Microsoft opens up a vertically oriented sheet of 8.5 x 11 by default, but most certificates are made in landscape orientation, so you'll make that change to get started. To make a certificate from scratch: Open a new Word document. Select the Layout tab. In the Page Setup group, select Orientation, then select Landscape. Select the Designs tab. Select Page Borders. On the Page Borders tab, choose either Style or Art, assign sizes and colors, then select the Box icon. Select OK to see the results. To adjust the margin, select Options, then enter a new value. Add a text box to the document and customize the appearance of font styles, sizes, and colors as desired. Save changes to a custom template. Thanks for telling us! Tell us why! An investment contract can be defined as a contract, transaction, or scheme of a deal in which a person invests his money in the same business and expects a profit on the efforts of others. In addition, this document determines the roles and responsibilities of both investors and investments during the contract period. With a net worth of $67 billion, Forbes came from Warren Buffet as the world's wealthiest investor in 2016.In 2020, data from Statista showed that Buffett was already laying fourth, next to Jeff Bezos, Bill Gates, and Bernard Arnault & Family, respectively. Amazon's founder and CEO, Jeff Bezos, now has a net worth of $145.1 billion. Meanwhile, Bill Gates has $103.6 billion, Bernard Arnault & Family has $91.5 billion, and Warren Buffet has $73.4 billion.6 Steps to Create An Investment ContractStep 1: Identify The First Steps of TheThe Towards making the best contract is to identify the parties involved in the contract. Details of all parties in the contract must be mentioned. These details are names, company names, addresses, etc. of individuals/companies. Step 2: StatementThe next step towards creating a contract is to fill in the statement whereas and (the company seeking investment into its efforts as well, the second company willing to provide investment) hentily the statement (this means in the consideration of all the terms and conditions, promises, etc.) in the contract. Each contract should have this statement, so it makes a legal contract. Step 3: Payment methodYou must mention the payment method that customers have agreed to invest in. This can be cheques, cash, credit/debit cards, or instalments. This should be mentioned in a contract without fail. Also, mention the payment terms. This may be when you want payments to be made if there is a need for advances, etc. Step 4: Terms, Conditions, and TerminationThis is the most important and important steps in the contract. You should mention all the terms and conditions that you should follow. Also, mention the length of time of the agreement until when it is valid, when should investors make financial and when is the investments they have made. Mention how the contractual agreement will end and what is the process of termination of the contract. Also, mention there is an early termination, what happens, etc. Step 5: LawSince's choice of not all state laws is the same, mentioning which one you will follow. You have to mention which jurisdiction comes under. Also, mention the law and what makes it relevant to the contract as well. Step 6: SignatureThe's last step in writing a contract is to get the signatures of everyone involved in it. If there are any changes to be made in the contract, do so before getting signed by the parties concerned. Once it is signed, it is named final and legally bound by state law. People involved in the InvestmentVesting Contract are risky decisions to make because certain businesses or individuals allocate assets to expect good returns. An investment contract is not an easy job to deal with and it is not easy to create and manage. One can, of course, always use a contract template as a reference. However, for a contract to be sure, it requires people to agree. These guys include the following: Investors - They put money as a form of investment they expect good profits to benefit. Their investments may include – commodities, currencies, equities, and debt securities. Existing Shareholders - These are the founders of the business. If they want to attract more investors, they will need to use a profit and loss statement to show potential shareholders whether it is profitable to invest with them or not. Future Shareholders – This refers to new people who will have a business division in the future. They need to evaluate the cash flow statement to assess the situation before deciding to invest. If you happen to be one of the business owners and are given a recommendation, it is a must that before you receive a contract, you should carefully review it or inspect our sample contract templates. So here's what you should look for in an investment contract presented to you:The contract must be structured because there is a tendency that the deal will ultimately change if it doesn't meet your expectations. Be careful because some investors will mention their situation in a subtle way and ultimately you won't have the idea that your business has changed dramatically. There must be a grant of rights. Investors must guarantee to invest his money in your business and that he should have a fair share of benefits. There must be protection Investors mostly ask for this because this is a serious matter that could affect them if a decrease in overall percentage ownership may arise. Warranties must be included due to circumstances such as breach of promise to the business should be given correctly and involving indemnification caused by damages damaged You also plan to accept investors and external partnerships, samples of partnership contracts should be checked correctly as well. General FAQ: There are three types of investment contracts – cash equivalents, bonds, and shares. Stocks can be defined as investments in certain companies for a long time. Bonds are loans that you take/make to a particular company or government. And finally, cash equivalent contracts can be defined as short-term investments on business assets. Under some legal action worldwide, transactions called investment contracts are treated as securities. This means that they are also subject to special needs for agreements, registration, disclosure, etc. A guaranteed investment contract is an insurance company that guarantees the rate of return in negotiations to hold and deposit collateral for a certain period of time. It is a contract that guarantees loan/principal repayment with fixed interest rates. There are a number of elements that must be in the investment contract. These elements are (1) an offer; (2) agreement; (3) consideration; (4) obligations; (5) competency and abilities; and, under certain circumstances, (6) written instruments. These elements are what makes an investment contract what is supposed and legal. Law.
