DeWitt & CO. General Store. Moved to Willardville in 1914. Later merged with the William G. Pomeroy Foundation of J.J. Newbury Inc. in 2017 with bright red and white striped adages and large red and yellow trimmed signs, it's hard to miss the Northville 5- 10 - 25 Cent storefront. northville5and10.com. 2019). An article published by Wilkes-Barre Records on October 4, 1949, told the life of Richard G. DeWitt, the original owner of this Northville store. DeWitt began his business career at an early age at the Grand Union Tea Store in his hometown of Wilkes-Barré. From there, he continued to run bicycle and sporting goods stores. The Wilkes-Barre Records article continues to say that he soon left Pennsylvania to run a 5&10 cent store in Rochester, New York. DeWitt transferred to other out-of-state stores before ending up in Johnstown, New York, around 1907. He started his business in partnership with R.G. DeWitt under the company's name. The company eventually operated five stores in New York State, including 5&10 in Northville. The Northville store opened in 1907 as a general store with R.G. DeWitt. According to a June 22, 2017 Fulton County Express article, it was relocated to its current building after construction in 1914. On May 3, 1931, The Morning Herald announced that five stores owned by R.G. DeWitt and Company in Johnstown, Northville, Gloversville, Glens Falls and Ballston Spa in New York merged with the J.J. Newbury Company. The company specializes in stores that sell products at very low prices with only nickel and dimes, just as modern dollar stores are open today. In 1997, the store was renamed and is known as Northville 5-10-25 (Fulton County Express, 2017). The store then retains its historic low prices and 20th-century charm. As of 2019, the Northville 5-10-25 Cent store was owned by Northville locals and was still in operation.Please review the product first! Is this your job?
