

I'm not robot  reCAPTCHA

Continue

Guppy breeds chart

There are more than 35 species of guppy fish (guppies) worldwide. Guppies hobby is the most beautiful and highly demanding fish. The Britannica Encyclopedia guppies states belonging to the Poeciliidae family, which consists of three species, poecilia reticulata known as Lebistes reticulatus. This guppy is also known as millions of fish and rainbow fish. It is one of the world's largely distributed tropical fish. It is one of the most popular among such species of freshwater aquarium. Poecilia wingei is also known as Endler guppy. This guppy was first discovered in Venezuela. This species of guppy is rarely found compared to poecilia reticulata. Micropoecilia picta is also called Scarlet Livebearer, which is highly known to tropical breeders as the guppy species swamp guppy, painted Guppy or Barrigudinho Guppy in this demand. These guppies are highly in demand and distributed throughout Central and South America, Guiana, Guyana and Tobago in Trinidad Brazil. GUPPY VARIETIES Guppy fish water culon is the most beautiful creature in the world. Guppy belongs to the family of fishpoelidae. Anyone can get tempted by colorful patterns because of its ornamental appearance and the reason guppies have passed with other species of breeding fish. There are numerous and varied species of guppy fish with different body tail and eye colors, patterns and textures. Most breeders constantly have experiments to produce new varieties all the time. If you are breeding for the first time, then it is recommended to focus on limited and special feature. Guppies have different body, fins eyes and tail patterns of different bright colors. Some body patterns are as follows; Albino guppy reveals reactioner albino phenode property. This characteristic shows red eyes and the absence of black melanin. Red-eyed albino appears in various colors and tail forms. Albino guppies with veil form tails belong to the body or eye color class. Pregnant female guppies should not be combined in the heavily planted breeding tank since the newborn cub has bad eye vision and can be easily eaten by adult guppies. The AOC Color classification creates all color types and does not fit in any of the ifga Delta color classes. The AOC Bicolor classification covers all kinds of two-color guppies that do not fit into blue green or red two-color classes. Blue guppy originated in South America and actually found saltwater rivers and mountain streams but now the blue guppy population has spread worldwide. These blue guppies are the most popular fish among his hobby. There are many types of Blue Green Bi-Color guppies. Mixed blue green color is the strongest or prevailing color against the tail secondary color. It must match the color and pattern in the tail. This at the base should be blue or green or blue-green color, and this guppy secondary color should be at least 25% of the tail color. Both the base color and the secondary color should be completely different. Half Black Blue guppy species bright blue color with beautiful semi black body. This guppy can be part of the semi-black blue species. Bronze guppy is genetically golden guppy, accounting for 25% of the golden color in the body and 25% of scaly black outlines. Some Bronze guppies have Red Bicolor tails and there will be some Green Bicolor tails. According to IFGA standards, Bronze guppy must show 25% of the actual gold metal color. Half Black Red is a red blend with guppy half black feature. Some guppies were genetic gold with red tails and this fish would enter a semi-black red class. Half Black Pastel fish has a half black upper body with different pastel flat colored tail other than yellow. The picture above shows white pastel-colored tailfish with milk. These white guppies should be careful when feeding, as the type of food fed can affect the white tail with pure milk. Green guppy is searched after a lot of color strain. Some green guppies give a glowing look and can change the color of blue, green or purple, and are a mixture of blue and green according to light type and light angle. Half Black Green is a green guppy with guppy semi-black body features. It is a mixture of green and black colors and is so easy to maintain a dark semi-black body with the whole set of color green fish fins. Black Guppy has deep black color and caudal fins on his body. For this tail it is quite difficult to get this kind of guppy from the body with a strong color completely black. Half Black is a combination of guppy variant colors in any other color. This guppy has a semi-black body but cannot be classified as a black color class. The name yellow guppy shows that it has a yellow color dominating its body and fins, so yellow color is not easy to achieve this kind of guppy, this type of yellow guppies is rarely very interesting. Half Black Yellow Guppy has a black body with a beautiful bright yellow color tail. Like other yellow guppies it is quite difficult to maintain this type of half black and yellow color tail color combination. Multicolored guppy is one of the most familiar guppies among the hobby. Multicolored guppy is beautifully distributed in their caudal fin combined with 3 or more different colors. Purple guppy has a dark purple color with a completely purple-colored back and caudal fin. This fish is entered into a purple class. Half Black Purple Guppy Half Black Purple guppy color purple with basically black half body. This guppy semi-black body x carries attached features and that would be guppy semi-black purple classification into. Red Guppy Red Guppy name red color body and fins solid red color reside. To achieve this guppy light red color, genetic black melanin must be minimized or eliminated. Red Bi-color Guppy Red Bi Color guppies are usually color red with many variant colors of their body and fins. There are several principles, and this red guppy has some principles, it covers at least 25% of the area of the secondary color tail. It should be an excellent match between color and pattern of back and tail fins. Both the base and secondary colors should be completely different. Females have a large array of Guppy Female guppies fins, and sometimes the fin color is very bright and attractive. Females are usually round and male guppies GUPPY PATTERNS Tuxin is twice as big - this is guppy common name Red Tuxedo Guppy and scientific name Poecilia Reticulata. Tuxedo Average Adult Fish Size: Males 5 cm and Females 6 cm This guppy common name is Cobra Snakeskin guppy and the scientific name is Poecilia Reticulata. Cobra Guppy Average Adult Fish Size: Males 5 cm and Females 6 cm Place of Origin: Cobra Snakeskin Guppy of South American origin. FIN TYPE: TAIL FORMS There are various fin-type guppy tail forms, the veil tail is also known as Goldfish. It is famous for its long floating double tail. This golden fish is one of the most beautiful and magnificent varieties. It is a very sensitive and fragile fish. This is quite difficult to process and give birth to. Veil tail golden fish body round like an egg. The scientific name of veil tail guppy fish is Carassius auratus, high classification Carassius veil tail fish originated in the United States in 1890. Delta tail guppy Delta tail is also known as triangular tail. The body length of the delta tail is 26 mm. The dorie fin ends in the first third of the caudal fin. The caudal fin is shaped like a 70-degree triangle. Fan tail guppy fan tail Body length 26mm and back fin ends in the first third of caudal fin. The Caudal fin has smooth curves on the upper and lower edges. The width of the caudal fin is 3/4 of the body length. Scarf tail guppy Scarf tail is also known as flag tail. The body length of the scarf tail is 26mm. The dorsal fin caudal fin ends in the top three. The caudal fin is rectangular in shape and its length is 8/10, equivalent to body length. The width of the caudal fin is 4/10 of the body length. Double sword tail guppy Double sword tail body length 25mm. The dorine fin ends in the first third of the caudal fin. The caudal fin has a basic oval shape, with a sword-shaped tail extending on both sides of the upper and lower fins. This equals 10/10 of the body length of swords. Top sword tail guppy Top sword tail guppy body length is 25mm. The doril fin ends at the first third of the caudal fin. The caudal fin has a basic oval shape and has a sword-shaped tail that extends from the upper fin rays. Lower sword tail guppy lower sword tail guppy body length 25mm. The dorine fin ends in the first third of the caudal fin. The caudal fin has a basic oval shape, which expands its sword-shaped tail from the lower fin rays. Lyre tail guppy Lyre tail guppy Poecilia reticulata guppy has many color variations. The fact of this fish is that very quickly its hobby matures, which makes it very easy to perform its own task. Cofer tail guppy Cofer or spade tail guppy body length 24 mm. The kaudal fin is shaped like a mining spade. The length of the caudal is equal to half the body length. Spear tail guppy Spear tail guppy has a caudal fin in the form of a spear head, the length of the tail fin is 8/10 body length and height is 6/10 in tail length. Round tail guppy Round Tail Guppy is shown by name itself as round-shaped caudal fin. The wild type exists as one of the first guppy tail species to come guppy. Pin tail guppy Pin or needle tail guppy are both sharp needle tips on their back and caudal fin. As its name suggests, there are needle-shaped tail spikes. Tail.