Please fill out the following form to learn more about becoming Cold Stone Creamery Master Franchisee and opening stores outside the United States. Information on this website is only informative and is not intended for the offer to sell, or offer to buy, franchise; nor is it directed at residents of any particular jurisdiction. The following states currently regulate supply and sales franchises: California, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin. If you are a resident of any of these countries, we will not offer you a franchise until we have completed a valid registration or been released from registration and complied with the applicable disclosure requirements. Regardless of which country you live in, the offer can only be made with a franchise disclosure document. In addition, the supply and sale of franchises is regulated by several countries. Most Cold Stone Creamery stores are owned and operated by independent franchise operators. These franchisees who want to be in the business themselves, but not themselves, are employers, which means only: (i) recruit, hire, train and manage their employees, (ii) establish their employment policies and procedures, and (iii) address all issues in their shop. The franchisor does not control employment issues or hire people working in franchise restaurants. Normal daily tasks vary depending on your particular employer, but can include making the world's largest ice cream, creating a one-of-a-kind experience for every person who walks in the door, and keeping the store sparkling wine clean. A team member in Los Angeles, CA See was my first job, so I went with the 0 experience. The store I worked in was smaller, one of two owned by the family who ran it at the time. There was only one person I worked with who thought he was a manager because he had stayed on the team since the previous shop owners, he made his almost unbearable shifts. However, there was a lot of flexibility in the scheduling and the real driver was fantastic to work with. Decent training for the first few shifts, and they let me get my ServSafe cert after hiring me, but before my first shift. I didn't know I needed it, and they really worked with me to get me to work there. The staff is very friendly and about the staff. Considered this franchise store it will definitely vary from location to location. Scooper/Cashier in Culver City, CA I worked as a teen and it was really great. I made a decent amount of money, I got to sing often and the job wasn't that hard at all.
