a soda cane, remove the gas hose from the post gas of the barrel and attach it to the post at the top of the carbonated lid. Leave the pressure 2-3 PSI every hour until it reaches 10-12 PSI. Leave this pressure for 24 hours. The lid of the soda stone indicator with diffuse stone is also available. The general instructions on how to install the keg system and pass through the barrel as another alternative are the coney barrel lid with a gas post connected to the hose and carbonated stone. If you align this lid with the barrel, the force carving works whether you use a nice carbing lid or not. Sitting on the bottom of a stone thread tub, you can carb the beer in 48 hours from careful not to touch the carbonated stone with bare hands. The oil from the attached open end of the 24-inch tube is connected to the gas IN deep tube in the barrel. 3. This carbonated barrel lid is the easiest and fastest way to carbonate beer. If you follow the instructions you will have a fully carbonated beer that raises a pressure 15kPa (2psi) per hour until you reach 90kPa (12psi) much faster. Leave on 10-12 psi for 24 hours. Pour a glass of beer and test the carbonate. If you think beer needs more CO2, then you should have another pint, leaving more CO2 for 4-6 hours. This coney barrel carbonated lid assembly comes with everything you need to carbonate your homemade in a barrel. The lid, clamp, carb stones are curing and this is a modified liquor lid to make carbonate much easier.
