The most anticipated 2019 video games seem too distant right now. But time is not waiting for any game, and the most important successes of next year will be here before [...] I think it has become apparent several times in the last few weeks, but just in case, we repeat it: E3 2019 smells in the environment. All major companies, including Nintendo, are preparing to do their best in Angel event. But we should not only see the event itself, but other companies affected by it. For example, we have GameStop, one of the most important video game store chains today. And again, it is this company that has led us to a hopeful future. New games in GameStop It is customized that in the face of the new E3, the list and images of the GameStop database will appear. Why is it important? Because companies like GameStop must have the failures of these titles activated as soon as possible for fans who do not want to wait a minute to have their copies secured. And to do this, they must enter those references into their database, although it is not yet known which title they are. That's why they're so important, because they give us an idea of what we can expect for each panel in E3. It has been a few hours since photos and images have emerged in the famous ResetEra forum showing us the references created for the Nintendo Switch. Excluding all known headlines (including some such as animal crossing switch), we found a total of 21 unknown references. Therefore, I imply that we can expect 21 new Nintendo Switch games announced in E3 2019. It is true that we already know a lot of trophies will come this year and from there the news is expected in this event. So they can not be anything else, like amiibos? It's hard to believe that, as the list shows the price that these products will have and all of them go around the usual price of video games ($50-60), seeing special cases such as a product for $89 and one for $199, which makes us understand that this will be the collector's version. It should also be noted that other companies may publish some unexpected headlines, such as Square Enix or Ubisoft. Finally, it should not be excluded that any of these references for games do not appear this year, but announced at E3 2019. This marks the start of the countdown. Just over a week separated us from Nintendo Direct that the company had prepared for the event, in addition to the Pokémon Direct we expected in just a few days. Will they give us a lot of surprises? There's less time. Source You will surely remember the recent claims from video game store chain GameStop, where he announced they would remain open despite being an essential retailer. Looks like your plan's changed. After a strong response from the community, the chain was eventually forced to close its facilities due to the outbreak of the virus. All its stores in the United States are closed from The chain also shares that interested parties can purchase their products through online stores, as well as in sidewalk pick-up services. We leave you with your message: GameStop Corp. (NYSE: GME) today shared an update regarding U.S. store operations and CUSTOMER SERVICE related to COVID-19. As of Sunday, March 22, 2020, for all locations that are not closed on state and local orders, GameStop will temporarily suspend customer access to stores, process orders only in digital format, switch to sidewalk collection at stores, and only deliver e-commerce goods. This will allow the company to continue to provide services to customers who have purchased online at GameStop.com and the GameStop app and request to receive products at their local store. George Sherman, CEO of GameStop, said: This is an unprecedented moment and every day brings new information about the COVID-19 epidemic. Our priority has been and continues to be the happiness of our employees, customers and business partners. We have been strong in complying with CDC-led security and local government orders for retailers in each of our communities. As millions of Americans search for GameStop to adapt to their new reality of longer time at home, for work, study, and play, we've implemented practice to help ensure the safety and health of our employees, customers, and partners. We believe it is prudent to set up more security protocols while this increased demand is met through pavement collection. As such, the company will continue to offer products online GameStop.com and in the GameStop app for customers to send products directly to their homes. All USGameStop employees have ensured that they do not have to work if they are not comfortable and should stay home if they feel sick. In addition, the company has announced that it will pay all U.S. employees who have now been eliminated for an additional two weeks with their regular billing rate based on the average number of hours worked in the last 10 weeks. In addition, the company will reimburse all U.S. employees for their benefit. What do you think? Source. Source.
