Animal crossing gamecube fish and bug guide

Tips & Tricks Spider & Bagworm – You only appear in fruit trees. To get one to appear, select a pair of trees that are close together. Shake these two trees. Now move to the adjacent acre and shake another pair of trees. Continue back and forth between acres of shaking trees and eventually Bagworm or Spider will glide down from the branches. Note that it does not work for bees. On any given day, there are a limited number of nests in the city. Bees – Once the bees' nest has fallen, run three to four places horizontally to the left or right of the tree. Pause and equip the network. Then unpause while making a quick turn, and swing! (Make sure you're not rocking too soon, it should look like bees almost bump into you when you catch one.) Try not to run into another acre, as I find out, this usually leads to a sting. Some people suggested running diagonally from a tree, but it didn't work out well for me. If you save and exit and then reload the game your eye will be back to normal. Giant Beetle – I spent hours searching for the Giant Beetle, then I decided to go look for it on my island and he was the first insect I found. This may be a coincidence, but it is possible that rare insects are more common on the island. Also note that it's always summer on the island, so it remains a haven for bugs and fish that may be out of season. Banded Dragonfly – These insects fly right through the acre at a little slower than you can run. Once they get to the end of the acre they will fly away. If you're chasing right behind Banded Dragonfly get extra close in front of the swing; it will be flying away to form you as you stop and swing, so it will often escape your network if you anticipate. Some people have recommended walking with the network up to the train station, turning, and then rounding the bulletin board and returning to the train station acre. The goal is to get Banded Dragonfly to appear at the acre train station, an open space where you will be able to catch them. I recommend just walking around town with your net out, and if you see something moving as you enter an acre, pause right away and try to figure out what it was. Pausing also gives you time to develop an attack plan, usually you have one chance of catching Banded Dragonfly during a given meeting. Fishing: Fish never bite more than five times, so if the fish you're after has already scratched the bait 4 times, then get ready to reel it in! Check out this guide for more fishing tips. Other AC Events Camping Season (summer): From the first weekend of June until the last weekend of August the animals will visit your city to camp out for a while. If you talk to them, they can give you some camping equipment. Check out AC: GC Summer Camper Guide written by Mark Wars from this site. Igloo (winter): If the snow on the ground is one of the villagers decide to live in an igloo for the day. Visit them to chat or play special winter games. If you spend enough time in an igloo, you can get one of several special snowy gifts. (Check this out this guide for the Igloo FAQ.) Lighthouse Watching (Winter): The mayor may ask you to light a lighthouse for him for a week during one of the first two months of the year while he is on vacation. If you do this regularly, you will get a chocolate and beacon model when it comes back. Bridge Building (random): The mayor can apply for your entry to the new bridge once your town contains fifteen villagers. There will be two places to choose from. Your birthday: On your birthday you will receive gifts in an email from other villagers. The quality of gifts will improve the better quality of relationships you have with your villagers. Your mom will also send you a special item: a birthday cake. (Note: You must tell one of the villagers your birthday in order to receive gifts. To do this just engage them in conversation several times when Tom Nook sends you to communicate with neighbors at the beginning of the game.) AC Weather Report Thanks to Arias360, the latest version of this guide contains comments on weather and environmental changes throughout the year! This is a short summary of the major weather events you will see in your AC city. Sunny - The sky is clear, you can get a tan if it's sunbathing season and the music is normal (changing every hour). Rain - Light rain falls from the sky, bugs are less common, and the music is the same throughout the day. Storm Thunder - Heavy rain falls from the sky, bugs are less common, and the music is the same throughout the day. The rainbow will appear the next day at the waterfall around 9am. Snow - Snow falls from the sky and hourly music changes. Note: The weather stays the same throughout the day. For example, if the days begin rainy it will rain for the rest of the day, unlike AC: WW, where the weather changes every hour. (Credit for this guide ACGC goes to Catlover341, creator of the original AC: GC Monthly Info thread.) Fun Note: Colors used in each month's headings were found in AC: GC screenshots taken during this month. You can find hexcodes for them in spoiler text after the month header.
