The official Citizenship Exam has questions about U.S. government, U.S. history and integrated citizens. The questions are taken from the following specific topics: Principles of the American Democracy System of Government Rights and Responsibilities Colonial Period and Independence 1800's Recent American History and Other Important Historical Information Geography Symbols Should I become a U.S. Citizen? - U.S. Citizenship vs. Permanent Resident Many residents wonder if it is worth it to become a U.S. citizen. Residents have most rights of U.S. citizens, but lack some very important rights and privileges. The list below contains the most important rights that a citizen has that are not available to residents, giving you further evidence of why it is so important to complete the naturalization test. Rights of U.S. citizens voting - Citizens can vote in federal elections. In addition, most states do not allow permanent residents to vote in state elections. Jury service – You cannot serve on a federal jury unless you are a U.S. citizen. Most states also limit jury service to citizens. US Passport Travel - As a citizen, you can travel all over the world with a US passport. Along with this, an American passport allows you to get help from the U.S. government if necessary. Ability to work for the federal government - Many government jobs require U.S. citizenship, so if you have an interest in this sector, or think your skills may be set to work in government in the future, you should strongly consider completing the citizenship test. Ability to take advantage of public benefits - Some public benefits are not available to permanent residents, only for those who have become citizens through the nationalization test. Ability to take advantage of federal grants and scholarships - Many college scholarships, financial support grants, and other government funds are only available to U.S. citizens. Ability to bring family members to the United States - As a citizen, your petition to bring family members permanently to the United States will be prioritized, which is not the case for permanent residents. Ability to become an elected official - To run for a federal office, such as the Senate or House of Representatives, you must be a citizen. Most state and local offices also require citizenship. Maintain your place of residence - As a U.S. citizen, your right to remain in the United States cannot be revoked. If you have established family and social ties The United States, being naturalized through a citizenship test is certainly beneficial. Gain citizenship for minors – In most cases, a child born abroad to a U.S. citizen is automatically a U.S. citizen. Citizenship and naturalization requirements If you were not born in the United States, naturalization is the process by which a person goes through to become a U.S. citizen. To complete the naturalization process, you must meet the following requirements: Be 18 years old – at the time of submission of N-400 Naturalization Applications. Be a permanent resident – have a green card for at least 5 years. Have Continuous Stay - maintain a permanent home in the United States for at least 5 years before submitting your application. Understanding American Civics - you must have a basic understanding of the history and government of the United States (as tested by the civics section of the U.S. Citizenship Test) Take an oath of allegiance to the United States. Applying for citizenship - 10 Step NaturalizationProcess To become a naturalized U.S. citizen, you should follow the following 10-step process: 1. Determine if you are already a U.S. citizen If you were born in the United States or a U.S. territory, you may already be a U.S. citizen If at least one of your parents is a U.S. citizen (upon birth or citizenship) you may already be a U.S. citizen. Determine your eligibility to become a U.S. citizen on May 3, 2018. Prepare the naturalization program (Form E-400). Complete the N-400 and sign Get two pass style photographs taken (if you live outside the United States) Collect the necessary documents. See the document checklist for the full list 4. Submit your application Include biometric service fees if applicable If you seek exemption from the English and/or bourgeois requirements due to disability or impairment, includes form E-648, Medical certification for disability exemptions Include the necessary documentation necessary to prove your eligibility, including two passport-style photographs if you live outside the U.S. You can check the status of your application by calling 1-800-375-5283 5. If applicable, go to your biometrics agreement Applicants to U.S. Citizenship are required to pass an FBI criminal background check. You must provide biometrics (fingerprint and photograph) You will receive a notification for the biometrics agreement You must attend the biometrics agreement and have the photo and fingerprints taken 6. Interview process Once the preliminary processes are complete, you will be contacted by USCIS to schedule an interview You will be asked questions about N-400 application form You will take the English and municipal parts of the citizenship test (unless you are exempt) After the interview you will be given a Notice of Interview Results In some cases, the case must continue. In most cases this is because you failed either the English or Civics part of the naturalization test or you did not provide the necessary evidence/documentation 7. Receive a written decision notice – the decision will show one of the following statuses: Given – Form N-400 is approved Still – If you do not pass your English/Civics tests or do not provide sufficient evidence /documentation Denied – The form may be refused if USCIS believes that the record determines that you are not eligible for citizenship 8. Receive a notice to take the Oath of Allegiance If the Form N-400 is approved, you will participate in a naturalization ceremony where you will swear an oath of allegiance. The naturalization ceremony may be on the same day or scheduled at a later date. 9. Take Oath of Allegiance You are not an official U.S. citizen until you take the Oath of Allegiance at a naturalization ceremony. You must fill out Form E-445, Notice of Naturalization Oath Ceremony At the ceremony you will - Get your N-445 form reviewed by USCIS - Turn into permanent resident cards - Recite Fidelity - Receive your naturalization certificate 10. Understanding U.S. citizenship – As a U.S. citizen, you have the following rights and responsibilities to express yourself. Freedom to worship as you wish. Right to a quick, fair trial by jury. Voting rights in elections for public servants. Right to apply for federal employment requiring U.S. citizenship. Right to run for office. Freedom to pursue life, freedom and the pursuit of happiness. Responsibility Support and defend the Constitution. Stay informed about the issues affecting your community.
