Congolese baby names and meanings

Getty Images Most parents will agree they try to raise beautiful children on the inside and, okay, on the outside, too. But every baby is adorable in their own way, so why not consider a name that has the same meaning? If that's what you're thinking, we've got you covered with our selection for the most beautiful names. Ads - Continue reading below 1 Rosalind You can guess this name means beautiful rose. Popular by Shakespeare's glamorous heroine from As You Like It, the girls' names were at their peak in the 1940s, to coincide with the popularity of movie star Rosalind Russell. It dropped out of the top 1000 in 1978. However, its replacement was Rose, which was ranked at number 194 in 2014. 2 Mei This lovely Chinese and Hawaiian name is often spelled in May in the United States. The name, too, is a spring month - the most popular in 1982 with 154 newborn girls named May. 3 Romeo Boys bestony this option has a lot to live up to: Although the Italian name technically means pilgrimage to Rome, it connotes an attractive, passionate lover. (Thanks, Shakespeare.) In 2002, David and Victoria Beckham named their second son Romeo. Since then, the name has remained popular, peaking in 2012. 4 Jamila The name Jamila is the feminine form of Jamil, Arabic for beauty. In Swahili, the meaning is the same. 5 Adonis In Greek mythology, Adonis was a handsome young shepherd in love with Aphrodite and was killed while hunting wild boar. These days, he represents masculine splendor. In 2014, the name of this unique boy made the top 1000. 6 Callista The Greek name means most beautiful. Why have you heard of it? Actress Calista Flockhart, known to Ally McBeal and the Brothers & Sisters - and married to Harrison Ford - helped highlight the girl's choice. 7 Jolie The French name sounds as beautiful as it means. In the US, it briefly appeared in the top 1000 list in the 1970s, then returned in the early 2000s, following Angelina Jolie's 1999 Oscar win for Girl, Interrupted. According to angology, people with this name want to work with others to achieve peace and harmony - now that's a beautiful thing. 8 Beau French name Beau means handsome. In 2014, this attractive, masculine option was 228 on the list. 9 Venus A classic choice for the millennium, which is the name of a planet and the Roman goddess of beauty and love. But the splendid name brought a modern twist thanks to tennis star Venus Williams. It actually peaked in popularity in 1980, coincidentally, the same year Williams was born. 10 Arabella In 2014, this enchanting choice was ranked at number 174. In Latin, the name can mean love, grace or yield to prayer - or Thanks for the end-bella there. Parents tend to prefer this name as an alternative to the super popular Isabella. 11 Kenneth The Scottish and Irish name means born of fire, handsome. Translation: Hot. Kenneth is a slowly top 20 name through the 1950s. Interestingly, Barbie's handsome boyfriend Ken was introduced in 1961 by Mattel. This masculine nickname was ranked 191st in 2014, proving it's still, well, on fire. 12 Bonnie This sweet Scottish name means beautiful. (It comes from French descent, Bonne.) In 1939, Gone With the Wind made a name for himself, with Scarlett and Rhett naming their daughter Bonnie because of her blue eyes like the blue flag of Bonnie. In fact, Bonnie rose from 61 to 39 in 1940, a year after the film stole America's heart. For a twist, try the Spanish name Bonita.
