Prayer is a runeScape skill that gives players access to various auras that can be used for combat purposes. You can activate some sentences at once, but since each sentence drains your prayer points, you will run out of them using numerous sentences at the same time. As this is the combat ability that increases your prayer level could result in increasing your combat level as well. Prayer is usually used while fighting bosses and other players since reloading prayer prayer requires drinking expensive potions or praying at altars. At higher prayer levels you can unlock powerful power-ups like Protect from Magic / Melee / Ranged that can grant you protection against attacks. See also our Full OSRS Skills Guide &&& as the prayer skill is different from others, you can't train by gathering or creating multiple things. To level up prayer players need to bury bones of dead creatures, sacrifice them on special altar or Ectofuntus, or level up by killing reanimated monsters that can be summoned by arceus' spell book. Prayer is probably the most important ability to level up when it comes to combat. Make sure you have enough OSRS gold to get to 99. You may also like: OSRS Accounts - OSRS Gold - OSRS Items Useful Items Bonecrusher This is a reward from Morytania's hard diary that will simply bury bones for you when killing creatures. It gives 50% of the experience the player would get to bury a bone, but can be upgraded by finishing Morytania's elite tasks to give 100%. Bonecrusher uses payloads that can be populated with Ectotokens at the rate of 1 token per 5 charges. A load is consumed at each bone burial. This is a useful thing to have while leveling your fight, as it can increase your level of prayer very well. Soul Carrier To get Soul Bearer player needs to complete Bear his Soul miniquet which is quite simple. With this item in your inventory, you can ship your enouled heads from inventory to the bank at the cost of a charge. To reload charges you need to sacrifice one soul and one blood rune per charge to the Carrier. Which bones and heads enslaved choose Prayer is a very expensive skill to train and because of that, it is very important to check the prices of bones/heads before buying large amounts of them. Getting bones by yourself is generally not efficient and should be avoided. It is almost always better to make money using a profitable method and buying bones from other players. There are many types of bones used for prayer training such as Dagannoth Bones, Dragon's Upper Bones, Ourg Bones and others. Both in bones and souls - the better item that is used - the more expensive it gets and also the more experience it gives. Some of the items will have better experience by ratio of spent gold than others and some will grant huge amounts of experience at a very fast time, but they will also cost a lot. It is very important to consider how much you can afford to spend and what level of prayer you want to achieve. There are many calculators on the web where you can find out which bones will be most efficient for you. Calculate in them the amount of bones needed. Yes you don't have time or just don't want to look for it - usually dragon bones and Wyvern bones provide more efficient gold ratio at exp so they are a good deal. When it comes to heads enouled Kalphite heads heads are currently very good choice as it would take about 50mil to level 1 to 99. If you have 93 Magic you can consider using dragon heads as the experience rates are extremely good and costs around 90mil to reach 99 (which for prayer is actually quite cheap). Other options like Ensouled Bloodveld Head are not worth it. Ways to level up a sentence Before proceeding with this OSRS prayer guide it is worth noting that prayer is an extremely expensive skill to train. Reaching high levels of prayer requires a lot of gold to be invested, but at the same time it is one of the easiest skills to train if you are rich. To save money and level up as far as you can try to always use the most efficient methods. Burying Bones This is always a big mistake for new players and those who don't know other methods to level up prayer. We don't recommend doing this. Burying bones is always a bad idea – even when you are a level 1 f2p player it would be even more profitable to deposit regular bones or large bones (they are better free to play bones) and use them on any altar than to bury them. Read the guide more to see the methods worth your time and remember - never bury the bones by yourself. Sacrificing bones in the Golden Altar Directly from the worst possible Prayer leveling method we are reaching possibly faster. Most players who want to level up their prayer use Golden Altars located in Player Property Houses (POH) to do so. Don't worry, you don't need 75 Construction to start using one although if you have one you can get one in your own home. This method is extremely good because the journeys between getting bones and sacrificing them are very fast and require almost nothing. Plus, you get three-and-a-half times of normal experience you'd get while burying your bones. If you want to start using Golden Altars just follow these steps : Bring all the bones you want to sacrifice as remarkable items Get some gold and free rest of the inventory slots (leave only bones and gold) Journey to the Rimmington (easy way to get there requires Amulet of Glory for tp to Draynor Village) Change the world to 330 which is the official location of the server for Player Housing. Go near NPC Phials in the general store - Unnote bones for you at a price of 5 each go near the portal house - people will be there announcing several houses owned by the player Select one of the names counted by people and click on the portal Use go to friends house option and type the selected name Find Golden Altar and sacrifice your bones in it. Make sure both burners are on fire when you're done, go back to the portal, items and repeat the process. If you ever run out of power you can find most of the time pools of rejuvenation in POH where you can restore your Ectofuntus points This method gives the best possible experience by bone while leveling your Prayer skill. You need to complete The Restless Ghost, Priest in Danger, and Ghost Ghost missions to start using it. Ectofuntus is a temple in northern Port Phasmatys that can be worshipped by sacrificing bones. While you're doing it, you get 4 times the normal experience you'd get for burying your bones. It's an extremely profitable thing to do if you want to save as much money as you can while leveling your prayer, but it's not always better as it's time consuming. As it gives only a little more exp than The Golden Altar and takes so long to make, it should only be done with the most expensive bones. Here's what you have to do to worship Ectofuntus. You'll need a lot of cubes, Ectophial, Ghost Speak amulet, 14 pots, bones Take as many cubes from Port Phasmatys bank as you can Go to the lower level of Ectofuntus (you can teleport using Ectophile) through trapdoor and all the way to the slime pool that is on the lower floor Fill your buckets with slime Back to the bank chest and make this trip as many times as you need (you want to have 1 bucket of slime cube for every bone you need (you want to have 1 bucket of slime cube for every bone you need wants to sacrifice.) Take 14 bones of your choice and 14 pots and teleport back to Ectofuntus via Ectophile Go to the 1st level of the tower where you can find Bonegrinder Use your bones in bonegrinder to get bone pots Grind all your bones and go back to the bank When you have finished grinding all the bones and collect all the cubes of slime you can start to gain experience Take 14 buckets of lemon and 14 pots of flour Of bone and teleport to Ectofuntus Worship Ectofuntus to receive the xp prayer For each worship, you will receive 5 Ectotokens given by the npc disciple There is an additional method to obtain slime that can be faster at the end. You can go to the Crewmember list in Port Phasmatys that sells 10 buckets of slime. Buy all of them and change the world to replenish yourself. Buy again until you have a full inventory and then run to the bank to store them. Plus, instead of running to the bank in both slime and lighthearted collection, you can use The Bereavement Ring that will teleport you to Castle Wars, where you can find your chest nearby. Teleporting between this place and Ectofuntus will speed up this process by far. Desert Altar This is a very similar way to train prayer to a golden altar. When training at Chaos Altar you will receive 3.5 times more experience than while burying the bones. It is the same bonus to a Golden Altar one and the experience rates in both cases are quite similar. There is an additional advantage and an additional disadvantage of training at Wilderness Altar. The benefit of using this method comes with a special bonus. There is a 50% chance of saving the bone in the sacrifice that still gives experience while also returns its bone. This makes sacrificing bones at the golden altar extremely profitable, but also a big risk. Altar is located at level 38 Wilderness where players can be easily killed by other Like the golden altar, there are NPCs that can lay bones for a little gold. If you want to train using this method follow these steps : Prepare and take as many observed bones as you want. Remember that your high desert and you are very likely to become a PK target so don't get too many bones and equipment too valuable. Go to the Temple of Chaos located west of Lava Labyrinth Talk to NPC outside the hut to denote Bones Sacrifice Bones on the Altar Back to the NPC to denote more Repeat the Process Heads ensouled The last method on our list is quite new. The player who has more than 60% favor in the Arceus House can train the prayer using the magic of Arceus on ensouled heads. If you want to train using this method you should be a high level of combat. At least 60 is recommended for each statistic to begin, but the better you are, the faster you'll get Prayer. In addition, you'll need the Slayer level corresponding to the monster you're about to kill. By hunting around Gielinor players can find ensouled monster heads. Those can be taken to the Dark Altar where they can be revived using the magic of Arceus. Animated monsters can be killed for the prayer experience. In general, this method is cheaper than sacrificing bones at altars, but slower at the same time. Give a pretty decent experience, so if you want to save money while training your prayer it's definitely one of the best methods besides Ectofuntus. It is also worth noting that wrapped heads can be stored in a rune bag, resulting in additional inventory spaces. If you want to use this method follow these steps: 1.Gear up for combat as you will be fighting reanimated monsters. Buy or take from the bank heads enouled, dramen or lunar staff, food and any potion you may need, as well as runes that you will use to revive souls. 2. If you have rejuvenation pool and fairy ring in your home take teleportation tablets from the house and if not take charm of glory. 3. Teleport to Dark Altar using Edgeville's The Ring of Hasdas (CIS code) or anywhere else. 4. When you are near the Altar revive heads and kill monsters you have spawned. 5. Use the house tablet to heal if you have a rejuvenation pool and if you do not use glory amulet to access the bank in Edgeville 6. Repeat the process In addition, there are many missions worth completing for the Prayer experience, such as holy grail mission, Endangered Priest, Ahoy Ghosts, Recruitment Campaign, Spirits of the Elid and more. It is worth taking a look as they provide a good amount of XP per hour so they are a good alternative. OSRS Prayer Guide is not all that found on our blog.
