Jessica C. (Bloomington, IN) Garfield Cake, front and rear This Garfield cat cake was made for my young cousin's birthday last year. She and I both love Garfield, so I searched around for an ideal pot to make the cake with. The perfect pot for my purpose ended up being a vintage 3D Wilton cake pan I found on eBay. The cake pan had a front and a back side that cut together to create an upright 3D pan. To fill the pan, simply cut the two greased and floured cake pan pieces together, then turn the pan upside down on the supplied base (it sits on Garfield's ears) and pour the cake dough into the bottom hole of the pan (what would be the bottom of the pan if it sat upright). Fill only the pan within 1 of the edge, to allow for the cake expansion while baking. The cake itself consists of 2 boxes of Cherrybrook Kitchen chocolate cake mix. This brand of cake mix is dairy, egg, peanut and nut free. Since my cousin has several food allergies, including eggs and nuts, we decided that this would be the easiest way to let her enjoy her birthday cake without worrying that she was going to have an allergic reaction. Plus, the cake mix is full of delicious miniature vegan chocolate chips, so it was very chocolaty. But if the child you create this for not having any specific allergy, any dense homemade cake dough would work wonderfully. A few quick tips on baking cakes in a pan like this: Allow up to two and a half times the specified baking time from your recipe/cake mix instructions. This is a deep pan, so be sure to give the cake plenty of time to fully bake. Also be absolutely sure 3D pans of any kind are placed in the oven and baked on top of cookie sheets or other flat pans, to catch any cake dough that flows over during the baking process. Finally, leave the cake to completely cool before un-molding it from the pan, to prevent the cake from sticking to the pan and to prevent structural problems. I learned it the hard way when Garfield's head fell off, but luckily it was easy to repair with a bit of frosting. Notes on decorating: The cake pan set came with a plate with Garfield eyes, so the most complicated/detailed part of the decoration was taken care of; I simply 'glued' it on with some icing. I used a basic vanilla buttercream recipe for orange icing: 1 box pastry chefs' sugar1 stick of butter, room temperature1 teaspoon vanilla extract or vanilla bean paste1/4 cup milk lys creamorange gel gel Color Whisk the pastry sugar and butter together using an electric mixer until they are a frosting-like consistency. Use the milk to dilute frosting as needed with the mixer. Add vanilla extract or pasta and orange gel food color to glaze. Mix in and decorate. Note: To make chocolate icing, omit orange gel food color and add 1/4 cup cocoa powder. Add the orange glaze to a piping bag with a star tip. Apply the tip of the piping bag directly onto the cake and then apply just enough pressure to leave a small star-shaped spike on the cake surface. Repeat until the part of the cake that you want orange icing on is completely covered. Add accents (like stripes, a tail, an edge around the eye plate) with chocolate icing passed through a tube tip. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Click here to post comments Back to Character Birthday Cakes. Cakes.
